GERMAN LINE IN WEST BROKEN, EISENHOWER SAYS HODGES MOVING FAST; 54 MILES EAST OF RHINE PATTON RACES ON; BRITISH BREAK OUT IN NORTH

PATCH'S TROOPS CROSS RIVER IN MANNHEIM AREA, WIN FIRM HOLD

Third Army Tanks Said to Be Threatening Cities 60 Miles Southeast and 60 Northeast of Frankfurt.

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, March 27 (AP).—Massive tank columns of the American First Army thundered forward today for gains of eight to 27 miles, one force reaching a point 54 miles east of the Rhine and two miles from Wetzlar, while at the north end of the Western Front the British Second Army raced eastward virtually unopposed after completely breaking German defenses beyond Brunen, 15 miles north of Duisberg.

In the south tank spearheads of the American Third Army, last heard from officially Sunday when they were 40 miles east of the Rhine, were reported variously to have advanced 40 to 70 miles beyond Frankfurt in thrusts that were splitting the Western Front in two. The Seventh Army, the latest to cross the Rhine, had a firm bridgehead near Mannheim.

Third Army infantrymen seized a damaged railway bridge across the River Main today and charged into Frankfurt-on-Main. The southern section of the city had been entered yesterday, but the major part of the city, Germany's ninth largest, lies on the north bank.

Junction Near Coblenz.

Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' First Army troops effected a junction with Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army at a point four miles south of Coblenz for their first meeting east of the Rhine.

A second junction in Frankfurt appeared to be imminent. Hodges sent one of his tank columns roaring southward from Limburg and by late afternoon it had advanced 20 miles to within 12 miles west of Frankfurt.

Another First Army tank force

CATTLE MEN TESTIFY EASING OF RULES WILL BRING MEAT

They and Packers Call for Higher Margins and End to Production 'Bottlenecks.'

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—Cattle men and packer spokesmen told Senate investigators today that meat supplies can be increased quickly if Government regulations are eased to eliminate production "bottlenecks."

Wells E. Hunt, assistant to the president of the Schluderberg-Kurdle Co., a Baltimore packing house, expressed belief elimination of what he said was a price "squeeze" on packers would do the job alone. He suggested increased Government subsidies as perhaps the best way to end this "squeeze."

Albert K. Mitchell of Belle Ranch, N. M., told the Senate subcommittee investigating the food situation that steps must be taken also to increase movement of range cattle to feed lots where they are fattened for slaughter.

"If those responsible for providing increased meat supply want more meat quickly," Mitchell said, "they must immediately revise and stabilize cattle and beef price control regulations to provide an adequate margin for cattle feeding, thus encouraging feeders to fill their feed lots to capacity proportions."

Mitchell represented the Cattle and Beef Industry Committee which he said includes producers, feeders, processors and retailers.

A. D. Brownfield, Deming, N. M., president of the American National Livestock Association and a rancher, testified that cattle are moving from the ranges in normal numbers.

REDS IN HUNGARY ADVANCE NEARER AUSTRIA; SILESIA DRIVE ALSO GAINS

Nazis Report Tolbukhin's Units 23 Miles From Border—Strehlen and Rybnik Captured by Konev's Forces.

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army in Western Hungary has struck to the lower Raba River, which runs within 20 to 23 miles from the Austrian border, and 60 to 65 from Vienna, the German high command said today.

To the north in Silesia, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army forces in a double-edged lunge captured Strehlen, 21 miles south of Breslau, and Rybnik, 80 miles to the southeast and some 20 miles from the Czechoslovak stronghold of Moravska-Ostrava, Premier Stalin announced.

Strehlen was stormed by troops striking southwest from Ohlau and Brieg in the rich industrial basin of German Silesia. Rybnik is in Polish Silesia 14 miles east of Ratibor, and the attack here appeared to be a wheeling action that may push into Czechoslovakia.

Reds Reported Across Border.

(A British broadcast quoting the German radio said Konev's troops had invaded Czechoslovakia and reached Troppau and Moravska-Ostrava.)

Berlin broadcasts reported both the thrusts in Silesia were aimed at breaking through the Moravian Gap to Prague and Vienna, while the assault by Tolbukin's Army and Marshal Rodion Malnovsky's Third Ukrainian Army up the Danube was aimed at the same objectives from the southeast. The situation on the Hungarian front was becoming hourly more acute, Nazi commentators said.

The Nazi communique did not disclose the point where the Reds reached the Raba, but the river

Yank Tank Forces Roll Toward Berlin On Highways Hitler Built for Conquest

NAZIS CAUGHT IN PATTON'S "ROUND-UP"

—Associated Press Wirephoto via U. S. Army Signal Corps Radio.

A long line of Nazi prisoners—swept up by Yanks of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army east of the Rhine—moves toward the river for transportation to Nierstein on the west bank. Patton's army, which broke its own record by taking nearly 19,000 prisoners Saturday, now has a total of more than 300,000, the biggest bag by Western Front armies.

NAZIS A WHIPPED ARMY BUT STILL ABLE TO PUT UP FIGHT, HE WARNS

General Expects No Negotiated Unconditional Surrender, Only One Imposed by Allied Meeting With Russians.

By EDWARD KENNEDY

PARIS, March 27 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today that the German defense line in the west had been broken by one of the war's greatest victories, but warned that stern fighting still lay ahead.

Great as was the Rhineland victory, which left the Germans "a whipped army," the supreme commander told correspondents there was no reason to believe the enemy was on the point of surrender.

"I am not writing off this war," he said. "No one knows what the German will do in his own country and he is trying hard."

"The German as a military force on the Western Front is a whipped army," Eisenhower said, "but that does not mean a front cannot be formed somewhere where our maintenance is stretched to the limit."

On Unconditional Surrender.

In response to a question of the possibility of peace negotiations, the General said:

"My honest opinion is that there will be no negotiated unconditional surrender. There will be an imposed unconditional surrender.

"Between the Allies in the west and Russia, we will take over Germany. Whether the Germans know it or not, we will know it is unconditional surrender."

The General said that while bridges are being thrown across the Rhine in as little as 10 hours, it is not possible to build rail bridges across the Rhine in a short time and the lack of rail communications would for the

HODGES' TANKS OUTRUNNING MAPS IN HEADQUARTERS

Officers Just Point Vaguely to East and Say 'They're Somewhere Out There.'

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH THE UNITED STATES FIRST ARMY DRIVING EAST, March 27 (AP).—The victory-flushed First Army continued its sweep toward Berlin today with armored and infantry columns running wild in another 24 hours of spectacular gains.

Except for stubborn enemy resistance in front of the First Infantry Division just south of the Sieg River at the southern boundary if the Ruhr industrial region, enemy opposition has fallen apart before the hammering from Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' mighty tank forces.

The armored columns are followed closely by infantry and are flowing eastward over roads like water churning down streambeds.

The rout is underway and hundreds of prisoners overrun by the swift armored dash are pouring back, sometimes without even a guard.

The advances are so swift that even divisional headquarters maps most of the time are far behind the actual gains of the columns, and corps headquarters officers just shake their heads and point vaguely to the east, saying: "They're somewhere out there."

At one command post, Maj. Walter Hillenmeyer of Lexington, Ky., watched as maps were marked showing new locations of the armored spearheads.

"The trouble is," he said, "we can't keep enough maps on the

ARGENTINA JOINS IN STATE OF WAR AGAINST THE AXIS

Declaration Follows Study of What to Do to Rejoin American Family of Nations.

BUENOS AIRES, March 27 (AP).—Argentina today declared a state of war with the Axis.

Presidential Secretary Col. Gregorio Taube announced to newspapermen that the cabinet had adopted a decision which involved the "grave decision of declaring a state of war with the Axis nations."

The announcement followed a cabinet session of nearly two hours at which the finishing touches were put to a weeks-long deliberation to determine what Argentina could do to satisfy the requirements of the Mexico City inter-American conference invitation to rejoin the American family of nations.

Taube said the decisions would bring Argentina into "effective union with the American nations" and that a communique would be issued later.

Some repotrs said Argentina probably would move promptly to re-establish relations with Soviet Russia in event the cabinet's decision wins for Argentina recognition and admission into the United Nations.

There has been some speculation that Argentina would not be able to attend the San Francisco world security conference even though it declared war on the Axis unless it first re-established friendly relations with Moscow.

At least 69 perosns were in jail today as a result of last night's antiwar demonstrations provoked by young Nationalist elements.

German Girl Aids Wounded Yanks In Rhine Battle; Nazis Shoot Her

By HAL BOYLE

WITH THE UNITED STATES FIRST DIVISION BEYOND THE RHINE, March 27 (AP).—Trudi, a 20-year-old German girl, was in an American field hospital today after risking her life to give first aid to wounded American soldiers.

Vengeful Nazis shot her and burned her home, and she was found near the blazing farmhouse, lying on the ground and writhing in pain.

Her hospital bed is surrounded by gifts of fruit, candy and cookies from grateful Americans for whom she dared the shellfire of her own countrymen, and there was no fine for fraternizing in this case.

"The First Division doesn't forget a friend," said Capt. Maxie Zera of the Bronx, N. Y., who told the story.

The incident occurred last Saturday while Company C of the Sixteenth Infantry Regiment was engaged in a savage fight for Griesbach, on the northern end of the First Army's Remagen bridgehead. Several Americans fightnig near the farmhouse were wounded, and their comrades were too closely engaged to help them.

"This girl was watching from a window in the farmhouse," Zera said. "She ran out to do what she could. Shell splinters were flying all over the area, and machine-gun and rifle bullets cracked nearby, but Trudi, who never had seen a battle before, paid no attention to them. Skillfully and gently she bandaged the wounded mer When other infantrymen worked over to her position, she helped them improvise litters to carry off the casualties.

"Then, the platoon had to pull back and Trudi returned to her farmhouse. Several hours later Company G took the town after driving out the last Jerries. One of the first things the boys did was to hunt up the German girl who had helped save their buddies."

She explained to an American who understood German:

"After you left, a German captain learned I had helped your wounded. He had me shot and ordered his men to burn down all the buildings on our farm."

HOUSE PASSES COMPROMISE LABOR DRAFT; TO SENATE NEXT

Manpower Measure Gives Byrnes Broad Authority Over Employers, Employes.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The House passed and sent to the Senate today a compromise manpower bill giving War Mobilization Director Byrnes broad control over employes and employers.

Passage was on a roll call vote of 167 to 160.

Voting for the bill were 139 Democrats, 27 Republicans and the American Labor party member. Against it were 112 Republicans and 48 Democrats.

The measure represents a merger of views of the Senate and House as expressed in separate bills passed earlier. The compromise bill authorizes Byrnes, or any agency designated by him, to impose employment ceilings on any activity, to freeze workers in their jobs, and to regulate the hiring and rehiring of all employes, male and female, regardless of age. Violations of his orders would subject an employe or an employer to maximum punishment of one year in jail and a $10,000 fine.

NAVY CUTS ITS 84-WARSHIP BUILDING PROGRAM TO 12

Will Construct Only Escort Carriers Instead of Battleships and Cruisers.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The Navy today slashed from 84 warships to 12 a program of new construction announced March 6.

Instead of a big new fleet of warships of all categories, incuding battleships and cruisers, and aggregating 636,860 tons, the Navy said only 12 escort carriers of a total of 150,000 tons would be constructed.

In making the announcement the Navy said the original program was conceived as "insurance" to meet the possibility of additional losses as the battle line moved closer to Japan. When the program was initiated it was estimated that, if the progress of the war made it evident that the additional ships would not be needed, the program could then be abandoned.

U. S. BEACHHEAD WON IN RYUKYUS, JAPANESE SAY

Report Unconfirmed by Nimitz — Fleet Continues Bombing, Shelling Okinawa Group.

GUAM, March 27 (AP).—A Japanese imperial communique announced today that United States forces established beachheads Sunday on the Kerama Islands, just off Okinawa, in the Ryukyus.

The customary claim of annihilating enemy landing forces was omitted in the broadcast communique.

The United States landings have not been confirmed by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's headquarters. American communiques, however, reported damaging blows to Japan and its outlying islands by B-29s, B-24s and fleet surface and aerial bombardments.

These blows, which have usually in the past preceded landings, were announced:

1. Shore installations of Okinawa Island were raked by Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth Fleet guns for the third consecutive day. The Tokyo radio said they had entered the fourth day.

2. V. Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's swift carrier planes, which recently raided the nearby home island of Kyushu, blasted Okinama's air installations. The Tokyo raid said 1250 United States carrier planes attacked Okinawa.

3. A large force of Marianas-based B-29s raided homeland airdromes within easy airplane reach of Okinawa.

4. Planes operating from the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today, continued to pound Formosa's air installations to the south of Okinawa.

America's biggest and fastest battleships, freely prowling waters off the Ryukyus which extend to within 80 miles of Japan, poured shells Monday into the shore defenses of Okinawa while carrier

LARGE B-29 FORCE ATTACKS KYUSHU ISLAND AIRFIELDS

Plane Plant Also Hit in First Raid on Area Other Than Honshu by Marianas-Based Craft.

GUAM, March 27 (AP).—A "very large" force of Marianas-based B-29s—presumably more than 200—battered the southern Japanese island of Kyushu shortly before noon today, attacking airfields and bases all the way to the coast fronting on the East China Sea.

Targets included a big aircraft plant at Omura, on the west side of Kyushu between Sasebo and Nagasaki. This area once was hit by Superfortresses from the China-Burma-India theater. Thus for the first time, the Twenty-first Bomber Command hit a target the Twentieth Bomber Command had attacked from another direction.

It was the first Superfortress attack from the Marianas on any other Japanese island than Honshu.

Great Armored Columns Striking From Dozen Directions — Armies Race to Reach Nazi Capital First.

By HAL BOYLE

ON THE ROAD TO BERLIN, March 27 (AP).—This is the greatest armored joyride in history—and Adolf Hitler literally paved the way to his own downfall.

The great single and double lane highways he built in peace to shuttle his armies out from the heart of Germany to attack neighboring countries are proving his undoing.

They are smooth concrete avenues to Berlin and other great German cities over which the mightiest masses of armor ever assembled in the West are rolling at true blitzkrieg pace in a dozen columns, coming from so many directions the Germans are powerless to scrape together enough troops to halt them all.

The Berlin derby is on. At least five Allied armies have a chance of being the first into the German capital—if the Russians don't complete the job first.

Chaos in Some Sectors.

The Nazi military machine has gone to pieces on its own home grounds. It is in chaos in many sectors. Tanks of Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' United States First Army and Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army have yet to crack up against a really strong line—and there is none yet in sight.

Hodges has thrown into the grinding combat the largest tank task forces ever used by any American army on one battlefront—forces which make El Alamein look like a sandloot maneuver. And other attacking Allied armies have armored strength almost as powerful.

To ride in a halftrack or light tank spearing through obscure flaming German villages is one of the greatest thrills of war—because at the end of this long, hot, dusty, uncomfortable trek lies victory. When the First Army attack opened before dawn Sunday, veteran tankmen were cautiously hopeful. They weren't sure just what kind of antitank defenses were ahead. Now that the march is under way at full speed, they are exuberantly confident.

ROOSEVELT'S PLEA ON PARLEY STARTS RUMORS OF PEACE

But White House Says They're Just Rumors—Had Asked Diplomats to Stay on Job.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—A White House disclosure that President Roosevelt wants his cabinet officers and American diplomats abroad to stick to their own jobs during the San Francisco conference next month today started a torrent of rumors about immediate victory in Europe.

So far as the White House was concerned, they were only rumors.

Newspaper offices throughout the nation were flooded with telephone calls quoting a Blue Network broadcast that an announcement of victory in Europe was expected momentarily.

The Blue Network said that Gil Martyn, broadcasting from Los Angeles, had said "electrifying news" had come that the President and his cabinet "are preparing for word of victory." A short time after the Martyn broadcast, the Blue Network broadcast from New York an announcement that a "routine announcement" from the White House "was misinterpreted as a hint that big news was forthcoming from Europe."

It all began when Jonathan Daniels, presidential press secretary, was asked whether he looked for a very large outpouring from Washington to the world security conference starting April 25.

"No, very definitely we don't," Daniels said. "The President has sent a message to the Secretary of State and members of the Cabinet pointing out to the Secretary of State the importance of all chiefs of mission remaining at their post during this critical time, and a similar message to members of his cabinet agreeing he felt that they should stay at their posts."

By chiefs of mission, Daniels

'Fighting Midget' Dies in Action; Once Killed or Captured 108 Nazis

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

By WES GALLAGHER

IN GERMANY, March (Delayed) (AP).—The Western Front's three-gun indestructible midget is dead. He died as he sometimes expressed the hope he would—by a direct hit from an 88.

He was Maj. James V. Johnston, 28-year-old 5-foot, 5-inch fighting man from Portland, Ore., who in a few short weeks had become a legend with the Eighty-fourth Infantry Division.

In one attack alone, he killed 20 Germans and captured 88. He was in the forefront of every fight the division had.

His only decoration was a Bronze Star, which he threw away when he heard it had been given to officers who never had been in combat.

Johnston carried a .45 on his hip. On his shoulder he carried a German P-38 pistol. In his hand he carried a Springfield rifle. He kept a sub-machinegun and a sawed-off shotgun in his jeep. He used them all.

On one occasion he climbed into a tank in the midst of a battle and fired its 75-mm. gun.

Even with all his shooting irons, Johnston weighed only 127 pounds.

When his company fell into a trap near Geilenkirchen during the division's first action, Johnston brought them out by crawling 1200 yards under sniper and heavy machine-gun fire to get help. On six occasions he led a "marching fire" assault—which means firing from the hip in a running attack.

He died in one of the division's last battles before reaching the Rhine.

7TH ARMY CROSSES RHINE WITHOUT AIR-ARTILLERY PREPARATION

PATCH'S TROOPS WIN BRIDGEHEAD WITHOUT HAVING A MAJOR BATTLE

Points of Crossing Not Disclosed — U. S. 15th and French First Only Armies Still West of River.

Reports on Third Army.

Official information on the progress of the Third Army was limited, but Blue Network Correspondent Herbert Clark said in a broadcast that Allied fighter pilots had reported seeing a tank spearhead of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's army at a point 10 miles beyond Wuerzburg and 70 miles southeast of Frankfurt-on-Main. This spearhead was said to be menacing a group of five German bases for jet-propelled fighter planes, about 50 miles from Nuernberg.

A Berlin broadcast said an American unit had speared to the area of Lohr, 19 miles east of Aschaffenburg and 40 miles east of Frankfurt. Lohr is 225 miles from Berlin and 150 miles inside Germany.

The German controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau said that the Third Army was advancing not only on Wuerzburg, but also on Fulda, 60 miles northeast of Frankfurt on a road to Berlin, and declared these deep thrusts were threatening to cut a main highway between Hannover and Stuttgart and "crack the whole west front into two parts." The British Broadcasting Corporation said it heard a broadcast last night by the Frankfurt radio saying that American tanks were within 10 miles of Fulda.

Stockholm reports quoted military commentators in Berlin as saying that the situation was critical and admitting that the west front was in danger of being cut in the middle. "Developments in this sector are awaited with such anxious interest that Montgomery's operations on the Lower Rhine fade into the background," they declared.

The German commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorious, said of Patton: "This breakthrough specialist, remaining faithful to his practice of ruthlessly keeping his advances fluid, is fanning out time and again with assault spearheads. He is trying to open a drive for the Wetterau and Kinzig valleys. A third tank wedge is advancing from Aschaffenburg toward Wuerzburg and has gained considerable ground."

Chaos was apparent in German retreats in some sectors and even in the enemy's radio cries. The Berlin radio told cut-off troops and officials to "report immediately to their respective authorities and take up again duties in defense of the fatherland."

Seven Allied armies are now fighting beyond the Rhine. The Seventh Army crossed the river in assault boats, ferries and amphibious vehicles yesterday north of Mannheim and in the first few hours won a lodgement 19 miles long and four deep.

The First Army caged 4782 Germans and was estimated to have from 8000 to 10,000 more streaming to the rear without guards. Field Marshal Kesselring's armies appeared to be collapsing.

First Army Advances.

Everywhere on the American First Army front except the left flank along the Sieg River, German resistance split at the seams. The first Infantry Division beat down a company counterattack at Eitorf, 10 miles east of Siegburg, and advanced four miles.

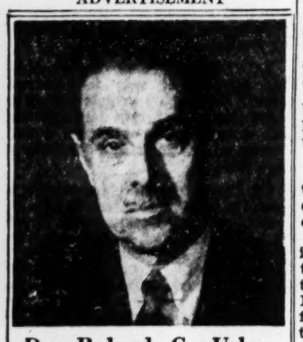

Scores of villages were taken, penetrated or by-passed by the rampaging First Army.

Big Stores of Booty.

Huge stores of military booty were captured in the ancient cathedral town of Limburg. Nearby Obertiefenback and Hasselbach were taken.

Censorship permitted disclosure that it was the Ninth Armored Division which captured Limburg. The Ninth was the outfit that seized the Remagen bridge and gave the First Army its bridgehead across the Rhine.

Plunging Deeper Into Reich

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Expanding their holdings (shaded) in Germany, Allied forces have scored general advances (solid arrows) on the Western Front. The American First Army, plunging through Weilburg, almost to Wetzlar, was 54 miles beyond the Rhine, which also was crossed to the south by another Yank Army—the Seventh—north of Mannheim, where it secured a firm bridgehead. The fast-traveling Third Army, fighting in Frankfurt, had, by unofficial report, pushed past Wuerzburg and was said to be approaching Fulda (dotted arrows). It also linked up with the First Army below Coblenz. Far to the north, other Allied forces deepened their penetrations.

Fighting in Frankfurt.

The Third Army had both tanks and infantry of at least five divisions in and beyond Frankfurt, a major rail center of 546,000 population.

American tankmen reported seeing miles of ruins in Frankfurt, which has been a prime bombing target because of its industries. The city is the birthplace of Goethe and is often called the cradle of German democracy because it was in Frankfurt that Carl Schurz and his compatriots in 1848 tried to overthrow the monarchy.

The Fourth Armored (Breakthrough) Division was on the Main River at Hanau, 10 miles east of Frankfurt. There was no official indication of its direction across the captured Aschaffenburg bridge, 22 miles southeast of Frankfurt.

The German high command announced the evacuation of Offenback, five miles east of Frankfurt.

Seventh Army Crossing.

Supreme Headquarters said the new Rhine bridgehead won by the Seventh Army early Monday was being broadened steadily. The Germans reported new Rhine crossings by the Third Army near Kaub, 22 miles south of Coblenz, and near Goarshausen.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army had strong forces across the Rhine, completing an Allied showdown challenge east of the river from Holland to the Black Forest.

Perhaps never has the enemy's growing military weakness been underscored so heavily as by Patch's men in their feat of obliterating 60 miles of the Siegfried Line and penetrating the great water barrier within a week and without a major battle.

An announcement referred to the operation as "a bold and successful river crossing into the heart of Germany" and said that the jump-off was without the usual close air and artillery preparation.

The Seventh Army crossing was made by troops of Maj. Gen. Wade H. Haislip's Fifteenth Corps.

Six towns were captured, four others were partly occupied. They were in the area north of Mannheim, a city of 283,000 population across the Rhine from captured Ludwigshafen, to a point 10 miles northeast of Worms—within 10 miles of the Third Army bridgehead.

The Seventh was making what headquarters called "excellent progress" in its Rhine bridgehead and was reported well ahead of schedule.

"Almost complete tactical surprise" was achieved, headquarters said. A heavy Rhine fog helped.

The Seventh Army is officially estimated to have taken 35,000 prisoners since its breakthrough in the Saarland and Palatinate 12 days ago. This raised its total since activation to more than 133,000.

Only the French First and new United States Fifteenth Army have not yet been reported across the Rhine.

Battles in Ruhr.

Allied airborne troops north of the Ruhr between the British Second and American Ninth Armies captured another 3000 prisoners.

A security veil around the British Second Army's movements hid the exact extent of its breakthrough on the east flank of the Ruhr bridgehead. The German front on the north flank, where the most fanatical resistance on the entire east-Rhine front has been met, appeared to be collapsing.

There were indications that the enemy might be pulling out his parachute troops who had been contesting with Highlanders and Canadians for every foot of shell-torn ground.

Low clouds hung over the front, curtailing aerial operations. Some scattered showers fell.

American and British forces were sweeping eastward through the ruined factories of the Ruhr and on the north German plain leading to Berlin.

Essen, greatest city of the Ruhr, was outflanked and threatened frontally as well by Ninth Army forces at Sterkade, seven miles northwestward. Americans were in the suburbs of Duisburg, a Rhine port of 431,000 population. The whole Ruhr valley and its factories which nurtured the collapsing Wehrmacht was partly outflanked on the north by a British advance of 15 miles or more on the Westphalian plains.

Ninth Army Sector.

Lt. Gen. William H. (Texas Bill) Simpson's Ninth Army striking through the difficult built-up section of the Ruhr—almost a continuous city of 5,000,000—drove four miles beyond the Duesseldorf-Arnhem superhighway and reached the Lippe River at Gahlen, 13 miles east of the Rhine.

At last reports, far behind actual developments, the Ninth Army was within 32 miles of the major traffic center of Muenster (143,748); 12 of Gelsenkircken (313,000); 23 of Dortmund (537,000); two of Oberhausen (191,305) and five of Mulheim (136,805). Essen is a city of 660,000 and home of the bomb-pocked Krupp works.

The Ninth had taken 4500 prisoners since crossing the Rhine.

An American airborne division linked up with Ninth Army troops along the Lippe River and moved three miles closer to Berlin.

One long-range Ninth Army gun scored a direct hit on a German railroad gun in the Osterfeld rail yards eight miles ahead. No German counterattack worthy of the name has yet developed on the Ninth Army front.

Resistance Collapsing.

"The whole of German resistance against the British Second Army between Wesel and Rees was collapsing today and the British were sweeping on," Associated Press correspondent Ned Nordness reported from the Second Army front. "There apparently is little to halt the army from motoring through Germany."

At least three corps were powering the British attack, swelled by massed traffic moving across at least eight light bridges over the Rhine on the Second Army front alone.

Sector South of Ruhr.

Progress of the First Army east of Bonn and below the Ruhr's southern limits was swift and largely censored to keep the Germans confused. Even the size of Gen. Hodges' striking force was obscure.

The heaviest fighting on the First Army front was at a point a few miles south of the Sieg River. In a seven-mile push, one armored column had to beat a flaming path through enemy mortars, machine-gun nests, antitank guns, bazookas, rifle and grenade, rocket and artillery fire.

BOMBING ERROR BY BRITISH KILLED 800 DUTCH CIVILIANS

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—Royal Netherlands Government officials said today they had received from the British Government an apology for the accidental bombing of The Hague March 3, which Dutch spokesmen said had killed 800 civilians and left "a great number homeless."

The British apology called the bombing "a deplorable catastrophe," a Dutch official said. "The Netherlands Government is satisfied with the British apology."

The incident occurred during a sweep against German rocket-launching sites. The British said preliminary inquiry showed the bombs "unfortunately" fell wide of their mark and hit a residential section. Flyers of the British Second Tactical Air Force are being questioned further to fix responsibility.

CHURCHILL WON'T SAY IF NAZIS HAVE SUED FOR PEACE

Sidesteps Question and Rejects Demand Commons Be Notified When and if Plea Comes.

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons today sidestepped a direct answer to a question whether Germany had sought peace "during recent months" and turned thumbs down on a demand for assurance that Parliament would be notified when and if such a moment arrives.

Laborite Rhys Davies formally inquired whether "in view of the importance of bringing the war to an early close, do you think it fair that this Parliament should not be told if and when the Germans are proposing to lay down their arms, and the conditions under which they would be prepared to lay them down?

"Has the German Government made any proposals to lay down their arms, and what are the conditions?"

Churchill replied that "such matters, if they arose at any time, would first of all enter immediately into the province of inter-Allied discussion. We should not be entitled to disclose any matters of that kind except purely military surrender at the front.

"On anything which touches peace negotiations and so on, we should immediately communicate with our Russian and American allies and the House would have to wait necessarily until these discussions had taken place. They all lie in the power of the crown which is vested in the executive."

Laborite Evelyn Walkden broke in to declare that "one soldier's life is more valuable than days of talk in parliament, and we have to stop shooting first and talk afterwards."

"That sounds very good," Churchill agreed. "I like it very much."

wall to keep up with the advances."

The priority on bridges and roads is to the east and supplies are pouring behind the rampaging armor and motorized infantry.

At one Rhine bridge, an almost endless convoy was rolling across and military police shuttled back and forth on the road to break up any possible traffic jam. On the eastern bank, trucks waited for a break in traffic. They were jammed with German prisoners who stared at the truck columns as though they couldn't believe such action was taking place before them. Most of these prisoners looked very young.

There is heavy traffic on all Rhine bridges, and from the looks of the roads, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had built up tremendous stockpiles in anticipation of this drive on Berlin.

In the thick of the fight were the Ninth, Ninety-ninth and Seventy-eighth Infantry Divisions. But there were other divisions, including powerful armored divisions, whose identities still are covered by security censorship.

Areas which only a few days ago were battle zones now are quiet sectors being taken over by rear echelon units moving up across the Rhine. The whole front is ablaze with the fire of victory. An infectious spirit of competition is spurring one division to outdo another in the race.

I tried to catch up with the forward spearheads today, but it was impossible. They were moving too fast and the roads were jammed with miles-long convoys thundering forward with food, gasoline, ammunition, ordnance equipment and materiel to keep the attack rolling undiminished.

The rumbling tank forces swept into Limburg on the Lahr River and then moved ahead on a paved highway another five miles to Weilburg. Today this force drove on up the road toward Berlin another 11 miles to the vicinity of Wetzlar.

Limburg was reached at 3:45 p. m. yesterday by a rampaging tank column which started rolling at dawn from positions five miles northeast of Coblenz and swept down the broad Frankfurt-Cologne superhighway. Doughboys moved from street to street in Limburg cleaning out the feeble German resistance.

The only thing that slowed the tanks were demolished bridges and debris piled on roads. Engineers quickly cleared paths with bulldozers and the armor kept driving on.

NAZI DEFENSE LINE IN WEST BROKEN, EISENHOWER SAYS

present limit the extent to which the Allies can go.

He expected the Germans to establish a new line along this limit. After building up supplies across the Rhine, the Allies can then attack again.

He said if the Germans decided to fall back into Bavaria they probably would pivot their north flank back and if they decided to make a stand along the seacoast to the north they probably would fold back their south flank, employing the customary delaying actions.

Expects Foe to Fight.

"I believe so far as he is able, the German will stand and fight wherever we find him," Eisenhower said.

"The elimination of German troops west of the Rhine was one of the greatest victories of this or any other war."

Eisenhower said the loss of the three great industrial regions of Silesia, the Ruhr and Saar would set a limit on the time the Germans could continue to wage organized warfare unless they could produce some new invention which did not require heavy industry.

No Straight Run Ahead.

He warned against expecting a straight Allied run to Berlin.

The Rhineland campaign has gone faster and at less cost than expected, he disclosed.

Smiling and confident, he told correspondents at his headquarters that the day would come when he could say to them that all organized resistance on the Western Front had been broken, but he declined to forecast when that would be.

He announced the Allies had taken 250,000 prisoners on the Western Front since March 1.

Eisenhower told correspondents that he didn't know where some of his forces were because he had been away from headquarters for three or four hours.

Where Nazis Made Mistake.

He said the German decision to stand before the Rhine in face of overwhelming Allied attacks instead of retiring across the river has resulted in the effective destruction of German military power in the west, and was the greatest error since the German decision to stand and fight after Allied armies broke out of the Normandy beachhead.

The General remarked that the Nazi mentality apparently dictated a decision to stand and fight everywhere, and he said he expected this formula to be continued.

After reaching the Siegfried line last autumn, the Allies had two choices, Eisenhower continued. One was to attempt to break through the West Wall and cross the Rhine at a given point by massing concentrated power. The other was to defeat the German Army west of the Rhine.

There was considerable difference of opinion as to which was the better plan, the Supreme Commander said, but he and many others favored the latter on the ground that with any sizable German force left west of the Rhine, there was always the danger of disastrous counterattack.

U. S. SUBMARINE ALBACORE OVERDUE, PRESUMED LOST

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The submarine Albacore is overdue from patrol and presumed lost, the Navy announced today. Next of kin of the approximately 65 officers and men aboard have been notified.

The vessel was the forty-first submarine lost from all causes since the start of the war and the thirty-fifth reported overdue and presumed lost. Four have been reported known sunk and two destroyed to prevent capture.

The Albacore was commanded by Lt. Cmdr. Hugh R. Rimmer, whose wife lives at Manhasset, Long Island, N. Y. He held the Silver Star medal.

TWO SHIPLOADS OF RUSSIANS FREED IN WEST REACH ODESSA

MOSCOW, March 27 (AP).—Two ships filled with Russian men, women and children liberated by United States and British armies, arrived at Odessa yesterday.

Most of the liberated Russians, back in their homeland after two years of captivity, had been in northern France. Many of them had been sent there by the Germans to build fortifications against the Allied invasion.

burning German house to munch a quick lunch of K-rations, cheese and crackers, First Lt. Glenn Adkisson, Lincoln, Neb., executive officer of a light tank company, poked his head out of the turret and smiled grimly from a cheerful, dirt-streaked face.

"Over Soon Now."

"It's gone a lot easier than we thought—even though they told us this wouldn't be a tough one," he said. "We think the war will be over soon now, soon as we get clear of these woods and hills we will end it pretty quick."

"Yeah, we will do it easy now—the German army isn't much good any more," chimed in his gunner, Pfc. Wilbur Burgess, Chicago Heights, Ill., and the driver, T-5 Nearson Burgess, Highland Home, Ala., poked out his grinning helmeted head to add:

"It can't last much longer. They are giving up too easy. We just passed up a column of 500 prisoners going back and the day isn't half done."

That's the way most tank crews feel—it can't go on much longer.

Mine fields, roadblocks and antitank guns slow these giant columns only momentarily. Doughboys leap from the tanks and sweep in from the flanks to drive away or kill the enemy anti-tank gunners with rifle fire. Bulldozers move up in front of the column under cover of protecting tank guns and shove aside road-blocking debris from blown bridges and overhead spans as combat engineers sweep a path through the minefields. Then the column smashes forward again at full speed.

Whenever the columns run into a strong enemy position, one section coils off to deal with it as the rest of the tanks wheel onward. In this leapfrog fashion doughboy and tank teams have kept up the impetus of the advance.

Nazi Guns Unmanned.

They must have swept through some towns so fast the householders hadn't time to put up white flags of surrender and the surprised Nazi garrisons were caught outside their positions, their guns unmanned. After a few minutes shelling they give up readily and infantry units then move in to clean out snipers.

No attempt is being made to save Nazi real estate. Whenever the tankmen suspect a building or home may house a German strongpoint, they blow it apart and race by.

"When in doubt—fire first," is their motto.

Armored vehicles escort ammunition and food trains trailing behind the far-ranging columns and guard them from ambush. Despite advances of 20 to 35 miles in a day, no tank has run out of shells and no man has gone without food.

"We are getting most of the men at least one hot meal a day, even at the rate they are traveling and fighting," said one commander. "I don't know any other army in the world that could equal our combat supply record in this advance toward Berlin."

Every Allied army on the Western Front is on the march. Of course, military leaders are more interested in the annihilation of the remaining German armed forces. But the imagination of the fighting soldiers in the ranks centers around the capture of Berlin.

Supposing the Russian bear to be too busy with other attacks to engulf Berlin, three American armies—the First, Third and Ninth—the British Second and the Canadian First armies all are in position to finish in the money.

So far as the fighting men know, no political decision has been made to let either the British or an American army gallop in first in a fixed race. The only orders are to attack as strongly and to push forward as fast and far as possible. The main idea is to get the war over.

Taking the candidates from the outside positions, it apears likely that geographical barriers and distance will eliminate the French First Army and Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's United States Seventh Army fighting in the mountainous country north of the Swiss border. The new United States Fifteenth Army, which has not yet been identified in action, is a dark horse. The five other Allied armies in the west all are within 235 to 275 airline miles from Berlin. You can see this best by drawing concentric circles with Berlin as the center.

Patton's Third Army is favored in some military quarters because it is led by a General renowned for blitz armored marches and because he destroyed much of his potential opposition by trapping it on the wrong side of the Rhine and cutting it to pieces. Against him is hilly terrain. It is a long rocky road.

Grouped near the post are the Canadian First Army, the British Second Army and Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's United States Ninth Army, bunched under Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery. These armies are north of the industrial Ruhr district and it is here that the Germans have concentrated some of their ablest paratroop and Panzer divisions. The land stretches flat and fair to Berlin—and the Nazis know it. They must make a great effort to hold here, but it can be assumed that the hero of El Alamein won't let any grass grow under his Sherman tanks.

In the middle position south of the Ruhr is the veteran United States First Army—the first American army to land in France, the first into Paris, the first into Belgium; the first into Germany, the first through the Siegfried line and the first to cross the Rhine.

It is a great army carrying on under Gen. Hodges the high battle standards it established under Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who as Twelfth Army Group commander has two armies in the Berlin derby—the First and Third—compared with Montgomery's three.

On its left flank bordering the Ruhr the First Army has the same sort of bitter opposition as Montgomery's men. The Germans launched 14 counterattacks in this area within 24 hours before the Berlin sweepstakes race formally got under way. Hodges also has an up-and-down road to Berlin through hilly country cut with numerous streams and gulleys.

He has one grand advantage, however. Because of the initiative of his Ninth Armored Division in seizing the bridge at Remagen he has had more than a week in which to build up supplies for a sustained attack.

But it is still anybody's race and the boys are betting like mad. The First Army is so hopeful of joining up with the Russians first that one high staff officer is teaching Hodges to say "Health to you, comrade," in Russian.

This greeting is the Russian equivalent of "Hi, Mac; long time no see."

PLANES IN BATTLE OF RHINE SMASH 100 ENEMY TANKS

Flyers Give Ground Forces Closest Support of War — Armor Concentration Dispersed.

LONDON, March 27 (AP). — More than 100 German tanks were destroyed or crippled by American and British divebombers yesterday as Allied armies across the Rhine received the closest air support on record.

Although weather had curtailed air operations over western Germany early today, British Lancasters hurled 11-ton volcano bombs on submarine pens for the first time at Farge, northwest of Bremen.

An oil storage depot in the same area also was attacked and other Lancasters bombed the Koenigsborn and Sachsen benzol plants near Hamm.

Several Nazi tanks and self-propelled guns were blasted out of hedgerows only 40 yards ahead of the British lines. The Tommies waved their helmets at the pilots.

Royal Air Force reconnaissance planes discovered the Eleventh Panzer Division, which the Germans were known to have been holding in reserve for a possible counterattack, hiding in a woods near Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's right flank. With the aid of the United States Ninth Air Force, the armored concentration was dispersed. At least 50 of its tanks were known to have been demolished.

The air forces maintained a stranglehold on German railways feeding the battlefront, attacked enemy convoys believed to have been carrying troops and equipment from Norway to Germany and destroyed what was believed to be an enemy headquarters at Kesteren, 15 miles northwest of Nijmegen, Holland.

Berlin was attacked by R. A. F. Mosquitoes for the thirty-fifth consecutive night.

During the day, 1065 freight cars were destroyed, 800 others damaged, 99 locomotives knocked out, 83 barges sunk or damaged, 82 horse-drawn vehicles destroyed and 1128 motor vehicles shot up.

Nineteen field guns, each drawn by eight horses, were bombed and strafed as they moved east in the Ruhr.

Flying from Italian bases in support of the Russian offensive on the eastern front, planes of the United States Fifteenth Air Force destroyed or severely damaged 1500 units of rolling stock, shot down five enemy planes and blocked five through rail routes in raids on the German rear lines in Austria and Hungary.

The attacks hammered the rail yards at Bratislava, Szombathely, Straszhof, Brueck and Wiener Neustadt.

END OF ELECTION OF CITY SHERIFF URGED BY SURVEY

New Constitution No Longer Requires It — Could Transfer Duties Under Mayor.

The office of the Sheriff of St. Louis should be removed from an elective basis, and the sheriff's duties preferably should be transferred to one of the departments responsible to the Mayor, the Governmental Research Institute said in a bulletin issued today.

With adoption of the new state Constitution, there is no longer any constitutional requirement that the sheriff be elected, it was pointed out, and the General Assembly now has full authority to provide for "a more suitable method" of selection or to permit St. Louis to make such provision under its home-rule powers.

The institute, a privately supported St. Louis fact-finding agency, asserted there are at least three major alternatives to selection of the sheriff by popular vote, "any one of which would be an improvement over the present system." These alternatives were listed as:

1. Transfer of the duties to the Police Department.
2. Appointment by the Circuit Court Judges.
3. Transfer of the duties to one of the departments under the Mayor.

The third was presented as the most desirable alternative. The work performed by the sheriff is purely administrative, and properly belongs in one of the departments responsible to the Mayor, the bulletin asserted.

Dougherty Not Mentioned.

Sheriff John F. Dougherty was not mentioned by name. Nor did the bulletin refer to recent disclosures by the Post-Dispatch that Dougherty had been one of the owners of the notorious Hyde Park gambling establishment on the East Side, and had appointed deputy sheriffs with police records. These disclosures brought an investigation by the Circuit Judges and resulted in the judges rescinding their approval of the appointment of nine deputy sheriffs.

However, the bulletin remarked that "experience with the elective system in the sheriff's office has not always assured the selection of the highest type individuals."

Further, it pointed out that one of the principal advantages of placing the work of the sheriff's office under one of the departments responsible to the Mayor would be extension of the city merit system to employes of this office. "The sheriff and his deputies would then be selected on a merit basis after careful examination of their past records," the bulletin stated.

In a report on a survey of the city government published in 1941, the institute had recommended transfer of the duties of the sheriff's office to the City Law Department. The fact that Federal marshals, whose duties are similar to those of the sheriff, are in the United States Department of Justice was cited as good precedent for this recommendation.

Election Not 'Democratic.'

The argument that it is "democratic" to select administrative officials by election was analyzed in the 1941 report, which emphasized that the average voter cannot possibly exercise intelligence in electing 98 officers of local government, or hope to keep a check on the performance of each officer so as to hold him responsible.

"Election is about the poorest possible method of choosing persons qualified to administer the various technical activities of any city government," it was contended.

Chiefly a Process Server.

Under state law, the sheriff is "a conservator of the peace," but as such the St. Louis Sheriff is an outmoded officer, inasmuch as the duties of quelling riots and insurrections have been taken over almost entirely by the municipal police force, the bulletin pointed out. The St. Louis Sheriff is chiefly a process server and an executor of court orders. He serves summonses, warrants, subpenas and writs, has a limited custodial power over juries, and, after a judgment, collects the amount due, if necessary by seizure and sale of property.

What law enforcement duties the sheriff still performs could be more efficiently handled by trained members of the police force, the bulletin stated, but it is doubtful whether the Police Department should be burdened with the work of summoning witnesses and jurors and serving the various legal writs and processes.

It would not be illogical for the authority of the Circuit Judges, who now pass on deputies appointed by the sheriff, to be extended to appointment of the sheriff himself, the bulletin continued, but it is questionable whether judges should be responsible for administrative work.

The sheriff, elected for a four-year term, receives a salary fixed by state law at $10,000 a year, which is the same as that received by the Mayor.

Judges Won't Reconsider Case of Dougherty's Ex-Deputy.

Circuit Court Judges of St. Louis refused yesterday to reconsider their earlier action in rescinding approval of the appointment of Charles M. Hade as a deputy of Sheriff John F. Dougherty.

Hade, who lives at 6662 Sutherland avenue, was one of nine deputies fired March 8 after an investigation by Circuit Court judges following disclosures by the Post-Dispatch that some deputy sheriffs appointed by Sheriff Dougherty had been convicted of crimes or had police records. He had requested that the action be reconsidered and backed his request by a recommendation from City Prosecutor William C. Lochmoeller, to whose office Hade had been asigned, and by the indorsement of David Hickey American Legion Post, of which Hade is commander. Hade pointed out that he had served as deputy for 12 years under three sheriffs.

In their investigation Circuit Court judges discovered Hade had a record of 15 arrests, some of them made when he was in the company of William Kenney, a former convict and robber. The record shows no prosecution of any of the cases. Refusal to reconsider Hade's dismissal was by a vote of eight to eight, with Judges Joseph J. Ward and Ernest F. Oakley absent.

PROMOTION OF NINE GENERALS APPROVED

Senate Group Acts Favorably on Raising Them to Full 4-Star Rank.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The Senate Military Committee approved unanimously today the promotion of nine Army officers to the rank of full general.

The action was regarded as a vote of confidence in Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff. Committee members said the promotions were approved without debate.

Those receiving the committee's approval for four-star rank included Lieutenant Generals Joseph T. McNarney, Omar N. Bradley, Carl Spaatz, George C. Kenney, Mark W. Clark, Walter Krueger, Brehon B. Somervell, Jacob L. Devers and Thomas T. Handy.

Committee action had been delayed for further study of the promotions after Marshall testified at a three-hour closed-door session last Thursday. Some members described it as the most acrimonious appearance of the Army Chief of Staff before a congressional group.

At that time the five-star General is said to have defended stoutly the promotion system and to have urged support of his military policies.

At the same time he reportedly was called to task for what some members have termed War Department interference in such matters as pending man-power control legislation.

Senator Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, is said to have questioned Marshall closely about the promotion system, asking if any White House influence had been brought to bear.

Marshall reportedly replied that there had been little such influence, adding that he thrice rejected recommendations for the promotion of Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son, to the temporary rank of brigadier general before he finally approved it.

Senator O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, is reported to have told Marshall there was no room for doubt that he had 100 per cent backing on military matters. But O'Mahoney reputedly added that he hoped the War Department would not be so free about giving opinions on matters that concerned Congress primarily, such as man power.

TWO WOMEN HURT WHEN PLATE GLASS WINDOW FALLS

Miss Ruby Ray, 4439 Belmont street, and Mrs. Rose Mueth, 1920 Nebraska avenue, suffered cuts about the face and head shortly after noon today when a large plate glass show window at Famous-Barr Co. fell to the Seventh street sidewalk as they were walking by.

Both were released after treatment at City Hospital. Police said a light wind probably caused the window to fall.

Part of a brick cornice was blown from the roof og a house at 3936 Arsenal street and crashed through a porch roof this afternoon, and a large billboard was blown over in a vacant lot at 6226 Delmar boulevard. No one was injured.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

John Wilson, a foreman, 7724 Lohmeyer avenue, Maplewood, died yesterday at St. John's Hospital of injuries suffered Feb. 25 when his automobile hit a telephone pole in the 200 block of East Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves. He was 58 years old.

BABY BROUGHT HERE BY AIR SO FEEDING IS NOT DISRUPTED

Force-Fed Child to Be Examined Because of Refusal to Eat.

Three-month-old Herbert E. Alvey Jr. made a between-meal trip from Deaconess Hospital at Evansville, Ind., to St. Louis Children's Hospital by airplane and automobile today so his dietary schedule of eating every three hours would not be disrupted.

Accompanied by his mother and father, who is proprietor of an Evansville restaurant, Herbert arrived at Lambert-St. Louis Field in a private, cabin airplane of the Midwest Flying Service and was whisked away in an airport limousine to the hospital here where physicians will attempt to determine why the infant has refused to eat for the last two weeks.

The mother told a Post-Dispatch reporter the baby had been forced by a tube at the Evansville hospital after it had refused to eat and had lost considerable weight. Doctors there suggested, she said, that Herbert be placed under observation here.

"We could have brought him by automobile," Mrs. Alvey said, "but the trip takes more than four hours and Herbert's eating schedule would have been disrupted. He apparently enjoyed the trip," she added. "He didn't cry once and slept more than half the time."

ROOSEVELT'S PLEA ON PARLEY STARTS RUMORS OF PEACE

said he meant American ambassadors and ministers to other nations.

Transportation Problem.

Through Secretary of State Stettinius, as chairman of the American delegation to the San Francisco conference, Daniels said the President "has asked the members of the delegation to keep their advisers and so forth to a compact group in order that there won't be a strain on transportation within the country or on hotel facilities so that we can take care of our distinguished guests from other countries."

Daniels was asked whether members of the cabinet other than Stettinius were supposed to go to San Francisco and why a message was sent to the cabinet.

"It was not a matter specifically of singling out the cabinet," Daniels said, "but we want to keep all officials there at a minimum at a time when we are going to have to have travel and hotel facilities and so forth for people from all over the world."

A similar request, he said, has not been transmitted to members of Congress.

Others Should Be on Jobs.

"Is this request based solely on the matter of travel and hotels or also on the world situation?" a reporter inquired.

"Well," Daniels replied, "so far as the ambassadors and ministers in the other countries are concerned, it is felt at this time that they ought to be on their own jobs."

Daniels made known that the President's communication to cabinet members was dated March 16.

When, on the basis of Daniels' remarks, rumors of immediate peace began to circulate, the White House was deluged with telephone calls. Daniels' office was kept busy explaining that the primary purpose of the presidential request was to reduce the load on transportation and hotels and to keep diplomats at their posts instead of visiting San Francisco.

Roosevelt's Memorandum.

Later, the White House made public the memorandum Roosevelt sent Secretary Stettinius on March 16. It said:

"As the next few months will be of critical importance, I feel it is essential that all chiefs of missions remain at their posts. I hope you will bear this in mind in connection with the plans you are drawing up for those who will accompany our delegates to the San Francisco conference. I am informing the other members of the cabinet that I feel it is equally important to them to remain in Washington during this same period.

"I should also appreciate it if you, in your capacity as chairman of the American delegation to the forthcoming United Nations Conference at San Francisco, would notify the other delegates that in making plans for advisers and other assistants to accompany our delegation I shall want them to be guided by the necessity of keeping our official group there to the minimum consistent with the importance of the issues involved.

"Your aim should be the formation of a compact United States group which will put the least possible burden upon already severely taxed transportation and housing facilities in order to insure appropriate accommodations for the distinguished visitors who will come to this country to attend the conference."

ST. LOUIS C. OF C. TAKING YES OR NO VOTE ON AN MVA

Ballots Mailed to 3268 Members — Results to Determine Organization's Stand.

Ballots and arguments for the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce referendum on a Missouri Valley Authority were mailed yesterday to the organization's 3268 members. Voting will end April 11, which is the final date for return of ballots.

The result will determine the stand of the Chamber of Commerce for or against an MVA, creation of which is proposed in bills introduced in Congress by Senator James E. Murray (Dem.), Montana, and Representative John J. Cochran (Dem.), St. Louis.

The proposition is stated affirmatively on the ballot, as follows: "I (we), a member of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, favor the creation of a Missouri Valley Authority." This is followed by squares in which a yes or no vote may be marked.

Arguments for and against an MVA, of equal length, are printed in parallel columns in a pamphlet mailed to all members.

Satetment Enclosed.

A descriptive statement of the MVA proposal reads as follows:

"All of us agree that the jobs of flood control, irrigation, reclamation and of developing and fostering the resources of the Missouri river basin should be done. There are, however, two schools of thought as to the method. One school of thought believes that the development of the Missouri river basin should be under a single agency, a Missouri Valley Authority. This Authority would be created by Congress and would be directly responsible to the President and to Congress. It would be patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority.

"The opposing group, on the other hand, believes that a new agency is unnecessary. They contend that the development should continue under the direction of the Army Engineers Corps, the Soil Conservation and Forestry Divisions of the Department of Agriculture, the Irrigation, Reclamation, Public Lands, Geological and Forestry Divisions of the Department of the Interior, and by local and state governments."

Each argument was prepared by a committee of five.

Affirmative, Negative.

Members of the affirmative committee are Raymond R. Tucker, chairman, member of the faculty of Washington University Engineering School and chairman of the St. Louis Committee for MVA; Joseph Desloge, president, Killark Electric Co.; Fred W. Emig, vice president, General Insurers, Inc.; Mrs. T. M. Sayman of T. M. Sayman Products Co.; W. S. Symington, president, Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co.

Members of the negative committee are Robert B. Brooks, chairman, consulting engineer, former Director of Streets and Sewers and former member of State Highway Commission; Louis La Coss, editor of editorial page, St. Louis Globe-Democrat; Allen May, president, Mutual Savings Life Insurance Co.; Frederick Pitzman, president, Pitzman's Company of Surveyors & Engineers; R. J. Russell, vice president, Century Electric Co.

The affirmative argument cites the success of the principle of "business-like, unified management" in dealing with the Tennessee Valley. It asserts that unified, co-ordinated development of the Missouri River basin cannot be had without application of this same principle through an MVA.

The negative argument asserts that "every legitimate objective promised by the MVA is now assured in the flood control and rivers and harbors legislation passed by Congress and signed by the President."

BRITISH LEADERS PAY HIGH TRIBUTE TO LLOYD GEORGE

Formal Ceremonies Planned in Commons for World War I Prime Minister, Dead at 82.

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—Britain paused amide the tumult of World War II today to pay tribute to David Lloyd George, its famed Prime Minister during World War I who died last night at his farm home in North Wales.

Leaders, the press and public united in eulogizing the man who successfully led Britain through one war and in his later years tried to awaken it to the danger of a resurgent Germany.

Formal ceremonies in honor of the nation's oldest statesman were planned in the House of Commons where Prime Minister Churchill, just returned from a visit to the western front, was expected to deliver a tribute today or tomorrow on behalf of the Government.

Among those joining in the public tribute was Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, who said of Lloyd George: "A very great figure has departed—one of the greatest."

Home Secertary Herbert Morrison said: "Britain has lost a great statesman, a great public servant and a great democrat."

From all over the world messages of condolence poured into the little Welsh village of Ty Newydd Llanystumdwy, where Lloyd George, 82 years old, died in his sleep at 8:55 last night. He was taken ill with influenza in January and had never fully recovered.

He was elevated to the peerage by King George VI last New Year's day, taking the title of Earl of Dwyfor. The white-haired commoner, though a lord of the realm, never exercised his right to sit in the House of Lords.

He died without knowing that the Allied armies had crossed the Rhine and that victory for Britain and its allies was at last clearly in sight.

At his bedside was his second wife, the former Miss Frances Stevenson, his secretary for 30 years, whom he married in October, 1943. His first wife, Dame Margaret Lloyd George, whom he married in 1888 when he was an unknown solicitor, died in 1941.

Also with him at the end were his daughters, Lady Megan and Lady Carey Evans, and one of his two sons, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, minister of fuel and power. His heir, Maj. Richard Lloyd George, Viscount Gwynedd, is ill in a North Wales sanatorium.

In accordance with his wishes, the former Prime Minister will be buried by the side of the Dwyfor River, which was one of his favorate playgrounds as a boy.

TEXAS WOMAN HERE SECOND TIME TO GIVE PINT OF BLOOD

Miss Anne Svitak, elevator operator of Fort Worth, Tex., was in St. Louis again yesterday to donate her second pint of blood to the Red Cross Blood Donor Center at 1006 Olive street, because the center here is the one nearest her home.

Her determination to donate blood for the fighting men of the United Nations has brought Miss Svitak to St. Louis twice in three months. The blood donor centers in Fort Worth and other nearby cities in Texas, where she previously had donated eight pints of blood, were closed last winter, because technological improvements made a nearby blood processing plant obsolete.

"I haven't been feeling too well," Miss Svitak said, "and I just hope I'm strong enough to make another trip in 10 weeks."

Miss Svitak, 31 years old, daughter of naturalized American parents, who were born in Czechoslovakia, pays her own traveling expenses to St. Louis and gives up a day's work to donate blood. She explained, "I have a cousin fighting in Belgium."

Enlists in WAC After Husband And Brother Are Killed in France

Pvt. Julie Burr Finley Receives Two Medals Lt. Finley Won for Heroism—Reports for Duty Tomorrow.

Pvt. Julie Burr Finley will report for duty with Women's Army Corps tomorrow to maintain the military traditions of her family and more particularly to carry on for her husband and brother who were killed in action in France last year.

At a ceremony this afternoon at Jefferson Barracks, she received two medals won by her husband, Lt. Charles R. Finley Jr., for his heroism in combat before his death Aug. 8. The presentation was made by Maj. Gen. C. H. Danielson, commanding officer of the Seventh Service Command. Her brother, Pvt. Robert Goode Burr, an infantryman, was killed at Cherbourg June 15.

"I enlisted because I know that's what Charles and Bob would have wanted," she said simply. "And, too, I believe that young war widows without children should be in service, doing what they can for the war effort. Besides helping their country, they can help themselves by learning something so they can be assets to their country after the war ends."

Military Heritage.

The pretty, 24-year-old Mrs. Finley, a direct descendant of Pierre Laclede, founder of St. Louis, has a military heritage. Her father, Col. William Edward Burr, a West Point graduate, served overseas in the World War and has been in command of an Army transport for many years. Her other brother, Lt. William Edward Burr Jr., also a West Pointer, is now with the famed 101st Airborne Infantry in Germany.

Her paternal grandfather, Brig. Gen. Edward Burr of Washington, D. C., saw action overseas in the Spanish-American War and World War, and her maternal grandfather, the late Col. George W. Goode, served in Cuba in the Spanish-American War and was in charge of recruiting in St. Louis in the last war. Both were graduated from West Point.

Lt. Finley's father, a Colonel and also a West Point graduate, is commanding an antiaircraft brigade on the Western front.

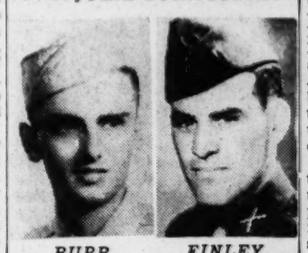

Lt. Finley won the Bronze Star for meritorious action against the enemy in France from last June 7 to July 19 following the Normandy invasion and the Silver Star for heroism last Aug. 7, the day before he was killed, in finding the command post in a French village which was under fire and in determining the location of the front lines. "He thus prevented many casualties among the men of his battalion," the citation read.

Until her enlistment, Mrs. Finley worked as a draftsman in the Army Engineers map service office here and lived at 5283 Waterman avenue.

House Votes Inquiry.

The House joined the Senate in a broad investigation of the food situation.

Voting to set up its own inquiry, 292 to 7, the House directed a special seven-member committee to report by May 1 after inquiring into:

1. All factors relating to the production and distribution of essential foodstuffs, particularly meat.
2. The presence of black markets in all kinds of meat.
2. Diversion of meat from normal, legitimate commercial channels of trade.

The resolution, by Representative Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, who will head the committee, passed over the objections of Chairman Flannagan (Dem.), Virginia, of the Agriculture Committee, who declared, "I cannot see for the life of me why the House should duplicate the work already being done by the Senate."

Britain Taking Meat Canada Can Spare, Says Official.

OTTAWA, March 27 (AP).—An Agriculture Department spokesman said last night that Britain takes from Canada as much meat as the Dominion can provide, and that any quantity for which Britain can not pay is covered by Canada through their mutual aid agreement.

He was commenting on a statement at a Washington hearing yesterday by Senator Shipstead (Rep.), Minnesota, that Britain was receiving meat from the United States through lease-lend for which it would have to pay if it obtained the meat from Canada.

The problem of whether meat rationing will be resumed in Canada to make larger supplies available for export has been the subject of considerable speculation recently.

Meat rationing was lifted Feb. 29, 1944, because the shortage of shipping space at the time limited the amount of exports.

Canada has not exported beef cattle to the United States for some years because of the necessity of meeting commitments to the United Kingdom. Current contracts call for the provision of 60 million pounds of beef and 450 million pounds of bacon and pork products to the United Kingdom this year.

Agriculture authorities said any meats not now needed for domestic requirements were being shipped overseas.

BROADCASTERS' CHIEF CALLS PRESS CRITICS 'SHORTSIGHTED'

CINCINNATI, March 27 (AP).—Newspapers "are extremely shortsighted" when they criticise radio, said J. H. Ryan, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, before a regional meeting of the group yesterday. "Freedom of radio," he continued, "is the first line of defense in freedom of speech."

Ryan told the meeting his remarks were directed to editorials in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch concerning radio advertising.

"Newspapers should be quick to come to radio's defense," Ryan declared.

QUITS AS DEPUTY MOTOR VEHICLE COMMISSIONER

Joseph Mahfood Had Been Head of Office Here Before Shortages Were Uncovered.

Joseph Mahfood, former acting head of the St. Louis office of the State Motor Vehicle Registration Department, where auditors now are checking shortages, has voluntarily resigned as a deputy motor vehicle commissioner, Secretary of State Bell announced yesterday.

Mahfood, who had been a deputy commissioner for four years, was placed in charge of the St. Louis office by Bell last January. He was replaced in that capacity about two weeks ago when Joseph Jannuzzo, head of the Clayton branch office of the State Auditor's department, took charge of the St. Louis office in directing a crew of auditors.

Spot checks, Bell said, indicated that the shortages, caused by retaining portions of license fees paid by motorists and falsifying records to conform, went back for several years. The current audit includes transactions for the years 1943-44-45. Seven office employes, all of whom had police records, were dismissed after the investigation was begun.

Bell, who said that Mahfood voluntarily tendered his resignation last week, said it would be about three weeks before it would be possible to determine the full extent of the discrepancies.

Mahfood, who lives at 1015 Hickory street, was in Jefferson City today.

MEASURE RAISING DEBT LIMIT TO 300 BILLION GOES TO F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—Legislation raising the debt limit to 300 billion dollars went to the White House today, the Senate having completed passage yesterday. Chairman George (Dem.), Georgia, of the Finance Committee, said the Government's obligations included many billions of dollars not actually spent but credited to the War, Navy and other departments.

George told a reporter some of the military items for which these sums were voted may not have to be purchased if all continues well on the battlefront. Also he forecast a substantial return from surplus war goods sales.

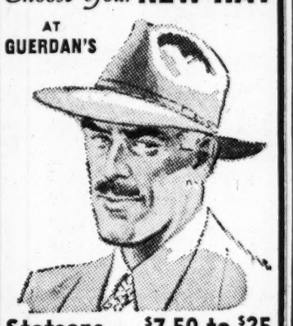

"There is substantial hope," he asserted, "that the ending of the war in Europe may make possible a reduction in the debt limit before June 30."

PATTON SAYS U.S. HAS BEST TANKS AND TELLS WHY

Our Sherman Lasts Longer, Outmaneuvers Nazis' Tiger, Is True Offensive Weapon.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The War Department made public today a letter from Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., the Third Army commander, to Lt. Gen. Thomas T. Handy, deputy chief of staff, in which Patton makes a vigorous defense of American tanks.

The text of Patton's letter, written from Third Army headquarters under date of March 19 and referring to the presence of the army at Mainz, Germany, follows:

"My dear Gen. Handy:

"It has come to my knowledge that certain misguided or perhaps deliberately mendacious individuals, returning from the theater of war, have criticised the equipment of the American soldier. I have been in command of fighting units since the 7th of November, 1942, and may therefore claim some knowledge of the various types of equipment.

"With reference to the tank, either Mark V (light or Gen. Stuart) or Marck IV (medium or Sherman), it has been stated at home that these tanks are not comparable with the German Mark VI, the so-called Panther and Tiger type tanks. This statement is wholly incorrect for several reasons.

Comparison of Losses.

"Since Aug. 1, 1944, when the Third Army became operational, our total tank casualties have amounted to 1136 tanks. During the same period we have accounted for 2287 German tanks, of which 808 were of the Tiger or Panther variety, and 851 on our side were Mark IV.

"These figures of themselves refute any inferiority of our tanks, but let me add that the Third Army has always attacked, and therefore better than 70 per cent of our tank casualties have occurred from dug-in anti-tank guns and not enemy tanks, whereas a majority of the enemy tanks put out have been put out by our tanks.

"It is patent that if a Tiger tank with an enormous thickness of armor were put at one end of a village street and engaged in a fire fight with a Mark IV tank at the other end, the Mark IV tank would not last. However, the great mobility of the Mark IV tank usually enables it to circumvent the slow and unwieldy Tigers and not to engage in a slugging match but to attack them from the rear.

"With the advent of the heavy, cumbersome Tiger tank, the German, in my opinion, lost much of his ability in armored combat. These tanks are so heavy and their road life is so short that the German uses them as guns and not as tanks—that is, he uses them on the defense against our armor, whereas we invariably try and generally succeed in using our armor on the offense against his infantry which is the proper use of armor.

Sherman's Long Life.

"Had the armored divisions which accompanied the Third Army across France been equipped with Tiger tanks, the road losses would have been 100 per cent by the time we reached the Moselle River. As it was, the road losses on our long-lived tanks were negligible.

"In the current operation, had the Fourth Armored Division been equipped with Tiger and Panther tanks and been required to make the move from Saarguemines to Arlon, then through to Bastogne, from Bastogne to the Rhine, and now to Mainz—it would have been necessary to re-armor it twice; and furthermore, it would have had serious if not insurmountable difficulty in crossing rivers.

"Finally, we must remember that all our tanks have to be transported on steamers and the difference between 40 tons and 70 tons is very marked. A 70-ton tank could never have been brought ashore in landing boats as many of our medium tanks were. Nor could they have marched from the Cotentin Peninsula to the Rhine as practically all of our tanks have been required to do.

"In mechanical endurance and ease of maintenance, our tanks are infinitely superior to any tank in the theater of war. The outstanding advantage which our tanks possess over the German tank is the mechanical traverse and stabilizer, through the use of which we get most of our kills.

CORPORAL RESCUED BY RANGERS RETURNS

East Side Soldier, in Army Nearly Five Years, Tells of Prison Life.

Cpl. George McHale of East St. Louis came home yesterday after almost five years of Army service during part of which he was a prisoner of the Japanese on Luzon. He was rescued in the daring Ranger raid on Cabanatuan last Jan. 23.

Although a group of East St. Louis city officials and friends were at the Union Station to meet him, Cpl. McHale sought his mother out of the crowd and ran to her. Both appeared to be overcome with joy. His mother, Mrs. Kathryn McHale, 1572 North Twenty-third street, had not seen her son since shortly after he enlisted. Her last letter from him arrived three years ago.

Cpl. McHale, 22 year old, appeared to be in good condition, although he said, "the Japs gave us only a few ounces of food at each meal." He lost 40 pounds during his imprisonment but regained that while convalescing in an Army center in Wyoming.

After shaking hands with Mayor John T. Connors of East St. Louis and other East Side officials, Cpl. McHale told briefly about the night of his rescue.

"I was just going to bed," he said, "when I heard some shots. At first I thought the Japanese were shooting up the camp. Then I saw the Rangers. Boy, was that a beautiful sight."

Following the informal reception at the station, McHale was officially welcomed home at the East St. Louis City Hall. A band from East St. Louis High School played and city officials spoke at the ceremony.

Cpl. McHale, who entered the Army "on a 5-cent bet with some boy in the neighborhood," his mother said, had to say he was 18 and stretch considerably to pass the requirements of age and height. After his release from Cabanatuan, he was visited in an Army hospital by his brother, Pvt. Gerald McHale, 20, who participated in the invasion of Luzon. Another brother, Cpl. Edward T. McHale, 23, was wounded in Belgium while fighting with the Fifth Armored Regiment.

Suit for Receiver.

Suit for a receiver for the Kellermann Contracting Co., 4908 Delmar boulevard, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mrs. Ida Winheim and Mrs. Elizabeth Turner, sisters, who allege the company has suffered losses in contracts but that its officers have failed to take steps to liquidate the business. The women said they were collateral heirs of the late Conrad Kellermann, one of the officers of the company and as such owned an interest in his estate.

U. S. BEACHHEAD WON IN RYUKYUS, JAPANESE SAY

planes dived down on inland airfields and installations.

The enemy air force reacted to yesterday's Okinawa attack, sending out planes which succeeded, at a cost of six raiders, in damaging a light warship, presumably a destroyer. Tokyo said two cruisers and two destroyers were sunk and another destroyer heavily damaged.

The Okinawa targets were not specified, but the largest segment of its population of more than 400,000 is in the southern part where the chief city, Naha, is situated. Many military defenses are in that area.

Okinawa is 300 miles southwest of Japan and a little more than 800 miles west of conquered Iwo, where the enemy air force failed in a raiding attempt Sunday night. Today's communique said the raiders were intercepted by Army "Black Widow night fighters before they could reach Iwo and "a number of enemy bombers were destroyed."

Planes Harass Formosa.

Planes from MacArthur's command have acted in co-ordination with the task force blasting the Ryukyus. Flying from the Philippines, they have kept Formosa's air bases neutralized. The Ryukyus stretch like stepping stones from Formosa north to Kyushu, southern Japan, and are the last line of islands between the westbound American offensive and the Asiatic mainland.

The enemy radio said without confirmation that 10 cruisers shelled the tiny island of Patras, midway between the Philippines and Hong Kong.

Bespeaking its fears, the Tokyo radio said: "Behind the large-scale operations of the enemy forces there is certain to be another operation. . . . The enemy strives to pin down our air force prior to the actual launching of landing operations."

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal sent congratulations to Adm. Nimitz on the March 18 attack on Kyushu and the blows the following day at the Japanese fleet in hideouts in the inland sea, in which 17 warships were crippled and 36 other enemy vessels, mostly freighters, were sunk or damaged. Forrestal said the inland sea attack "thrilled the nation."

Japanese Versions.

The purported landing on some of the Herama islands was originally reported by the Tokyo radio yesterday which made no mention of it in today's domestic broadcasts preceding issuance of the communique.

A domestic broadcast said the Americans were seeking a foothold in the Ryukus to cut Formosa off from Japan and "to place a pincer on Japan from both the air and the sea by operating in parallel from Iwo Island."

The Japanese news agency Domei said that of the 1120 carrier planes raiding "the entire southwestern islands" yesterday, 710 attacked the town of Naha on Southwestern Okinawa. Naha is a naval and air base, Okinawa's chief port and the capital of Okinawa prefecture which includes all the southern Ryukyu islands.

Around 15 to 20 miles to the west of Naha is the Kerama group. They are small islands, including Tokashiki, Aka, Zamami, Kuba, Geruma and Mae.

The Japanese reports said Aka, Zamami and Tokashiki were the ones invaded.

These reports said some 2000 troops, using 100 barges, made the "landing attempt." None of the earlier, unofficial reports carried the implication embodied in the communique that a landing had been successfully accomplished. One report said that at a late hour Monday the garrison had "prevented the landing of so much as one single American soldier."

flows into an arm of the Danube at Gyor, stronghold guarding the Bratislava gap entrance to Vienna.

Tolbukhin's troops may have reached the Raba upstream from Gyor in an advance from Papa or the area of Lovaszpatona farther northeast. Papa and Lovaszpatona were captured yesterday.

Report on Berlin Front.

The Nazi communique also said the Russians had scored new breaches on the Berlin front near Kuestrin on the Oder, and said "superior" Soviet forces were battling in the fringes of the Baltic ports of Danzig and Gdynia.

Moscow dispatches said Soviet engineers were hurrying up equipment for a swift crossing of the Raba.

The German communique reported a bitter defensive battle on the Raba, and in the areas south of Gyor and southwest of Papa.

A Nazi military spokesman said: "Fighting in Hungary has assumed the proportions of a great offensive. The beginning of this battle, which looks promising for the Russians, has distinctly made Hungary a new center of gravity on the eastern front."

The Russians had driven to within 16 miles of Gyor in yesterday's advances, pushing to within 31 miles of Austria and 69 of Vienna.

Berlin told of a heavy Soviet assault across the Hron 92 miles east of Vienna that overran the west bank fortress of Nagykaln, but this was not confirmed by Moscow.

Russian forces far to the north seized 21,000 trapped German prisoners along the East Prussian beaches and were storming Emaus, a half mile west of Danzig, after capturing Heele and Pelonken, one mile west and northwest of the former free city, the Soviet command announced.

Missourian Works Hour Under Fire To Set Up Surgical Tent at Rhine

Major Sets Out to Forage Food for Patients After Hours of Labor and Landing in Bullet-Riddled Glider.

By B. J. McQUAID
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Cable. Copyright, 1945.

WITH ALLIED AIRBORNE FORCES OVER THE RHINE, March 26 (Delayed). — The first time I crossed the Rhine—in this war—it was on an ammunition-gasoline ferry at Remagen after the famous Ludendorff bridge had collapsed.

Yesterday it was different. A British engineer completing a nearby Bailey bridge went ahead of our duck with that stoical indifference which all combat engineers display.

When I decided to move about and meet some of my fellow duck passengers, the man sitting next to me on a box of rations looked up with a quizzical expression and said:

"Sure, I know you."

He wore the Airborne Flash and the Leaves of a Lieutenant Colonel, but it was only when I saw through the camouflage netting of his helmet the cross of an Army chaplain that I recognized Father Thomas I. E. Hayes of San Francisco. In my pocket I was still carrying the St. Christopher's medal he had given me in Kodiak, Alaska, the day R. Adm. "Fuzzy" Theoba set out to bombard the island of Kiska in June, 1942.

Missourian in Duck.

Father Hayes had transferred to airborne forces after that campaign and is now the chaplain of the Eighteenth Allied Airborne Corps. He introduced me to his brother officer, Lt. Col. Edward Sigerfoos, San Antonio, Tex., a divisional surgeon of the Seventeenth United States Airborne, and Maj. William Porter, medical inspector of the same outfit, from Jefferson City, Mo.

They had come along to forage food for their hospital patients, having lost their entire supply in glider crackups during Saturday's landings. The duck was piled high with rations they had begged and borrowed.

Both men were dogtired. Sigerfoos' glider had lost a wing and had to cartwheel to earth from a 50-foot altitude. His nose was covered with adhesive tape and he walked with a painful limp as did Porter, whose glider had been shot up on landing.

They told how one of the division's two surgical teams had been put completely out of action, one of its three surgeons killed, another missing and a third suffering a broken leg, and how their outfit had worked under incessant sniper fire to set up the first main hospital tent in 55 minutes.

Turned Back by Heavy Fire.

By 5 p. m. Saturday major surgical operations had been under way. Porter, meanwhile, had organized an impromptu commando party of jeep ambulance drivers and aid men to try to fight their way through and back to the beachhead for food and supplies, but had had to abandon the project after trying every road on the map and being turned back at all points by heavy small-arms fire.

Despite fatigue and pain, the two officers insisted on taking us on a conducted tour over the airborne battlefield. After coffee at the beachhead hospital station, they loaded us into ambulances for a fast ride through Diersfordtwerwald (forest), the scene of some of the stiffest fighting by both the Seventeenth and Sixth British airborne troops and still reputedly full of snipers and isolated pockets of diehard enemy troops.

On the road leading to the wood, long columns of German prisoners were being marched down to the beaches by M. P.s. There were three batches of at least 500 each. They were tired and worn and their uniforms were dirty and tattered but they glared at us toughly.

German civilians stood in doorways of houses which had somehow escaped total destruction, looking on somberly as their vanquished soldiers trudged down the dust-clogged roads into captivity.

We drove swiftly through the woods. There was the chatter of small-arms fire all around us and the excellent macadam roads were lined by corpses, mostly Germans. There were a number which Maj. Porter said had not been there when he had come over the same roads a few hours earlier.

The fields were full of livestock carcasses and bodies of men and skeletons of shot-up, shot down, cracked-up and burned-up gliders. One pattern was repeated over and over — a line of scorched glider skeletons, with bodies of four or five British or American boys, crumpled on the ground nearby where they had been killed as they emerged from the burning crates.

This was the Seventeenth's first combat air operation, but veteran glider pilots and members of the British Sixth Airborne agreed that this, in many respects, was the roughest show in their experience.

In one instance the gliders were set down within point-blank range of 88-mm. gun positions or within a few yards or feet of machine-gun emplacements. In many cases the gunners held their fire until the gliders landed and then picked off the crews at short range.

White Flags Misused.

The men of the Seventeenth are bitter over the fact that all civilian houses in the region sheltered nests of German troops who fired on our men despite the white flags which hung conspicuously over every door.

At the forward medical clearing station lay hundreds of casualties, waiting to be sent back to the beachhead hospital. There were a good many British airborne troops among them. Those who were not too badly hurt to talk were emphatic in their praise of the veteran performance turned in by the Americans in their first airborne operation.

On the other hand, some of the Americans who had been dropped by mistake in the British zone, were equally positive that the British operation had been smoother than their own.

"I swear I saw some of their people get out of their gliders and take off down the road in their jeeps before the gliders touched the ground," Pvt. Howard Truitt, Royal Oak, Mich., said.

The Seventeenth, for all its inexperience, is full of the same toughness and bravado that distinguishes our older airborne divisions.

Some of the less seriously wounded raised themselves on their elbows as a medical aid man walked carefully down the road from a nearby house carrying in his arms a young and strikingly beautiful German woman. Her right hand had been shot away earlier during a sharp fight which ensued when a nest of snipers hidden in her home had opened up on our troops.

Tank-Plane Battle.

On our trip from the hospital to division headquarters, we came within 600 or 700 yards of the point where our troops had been counter-attacked by formations of eight enemy tanks.

The wooded plain prevented our seeing the spectacle, but we listened in on the conversation of rocket-bearing Typhoon fighter pilots hurriedly summoned to deal with the threat and the air support liaison officers directing them from forward ground positions over the radio.

The pilots took several minutes to locate the target, but when they did, they made short work of it. Over the speaker we heard their jubilant announcements of successful hits even as we heard the howl of their rockets as they dived on the tanks.

On our way back through the woods we fell in with a duckload of glider pilots, returning to their bases on the continent and in England after completing their third and fourth major combat missions.

All these men, after landing their craft, had manned perimeter defenses around their landing areas and helped fight off enemy attacks with machine pistols. Then they had been pressed into service as M.P.s and given columns of enemy prisoners to march back to the beachhead.

Found Shot to Death in Home.

George W. Crowder, a printer, was found shot to death yesterday in a bedroom of his home, 4821A Labadie avenue. A rifle containing one discharged cartridge was beneath his body. He was 72 years old. Police said his wife told them he had been in ill health and had been despondent. He had been employed by the Globe-Democrat for 25 years.

Double Drills Prescribed for Cardinals to Make Up for Lost Time

Southworth Tries Birds In a Game

The second workout of the Cardinals at Sportsman's Park today turned into an intra-squad game when Manager Billy Southworth was unable to resist the temptation in the balmy weather. So instead of the squad having a double session, they had a double-barreled single drill.

The "first team" had an infield of Ray Sanders, Emil Verban, Al Schoendienst and Whitey Kurowski, while in the outfield were Augie Bergamo, Jim Mallory and Mike Bartosch. Team No. 2 had Walk Cooper on first, George Fallon on second, Glenn Crawford at short and John Antonelli on third base, at the start. Antonelli signed his contract prior to the practice drill and suited up for the first time.

The players thought they were going to play a game, at least. However, the 22-0 score and the 25 hits made by the Gonzalez Regulars in eight innings proved disappointing to the Wares Scrubs. Mort Cooper, Blix Donally and Max Lanier pitched for the first team; Al Byerly, Stan Partenheimer and Jack Creel for the losers.

Besides the news on Antonelli signing, the front office announced that George Dockins, a left-handed pitcher on the voluntarily list, would talk contract soon, and that Outfielder Johnny Hopp was expected to report and play until his military call comes.

"If we continue to get this sort of 70-degree weather, we will continue to work a double trick," said methodical William, as he checked off his list of 22 players. "Our training schedule must be adapted to weather conditions. We have certainly jumped off to a better start here than we had any reason to expect."

It didn't take the Cardinals long to make themselves completely at home here following their sudden return from Cairo, Ill., where their training field was made unfit for use by flood waters. Southworth reached St. Louis from his home in Ohio, relieving Coach Mike Gonzalez as the boss man. Mike had given the squad a good week of indoor work at the Cairo camp.

Schoendienst Shows Power.

Players and the handful of observers were unanimous in their praise of the condition of the playing field here, so well groomed by Groundskeeper Bill Stocksick.

There were exclamations of pleasant surprise, too, at the long-ball batting of the shortstop, Albert Schoendienst, who is destined to be just plain "Red." This tall, graceful turn-around batter immediately entered into a duel with Ray Sanders in driving the ball to deep right-center. Despite the fact he played no league baseball last year, when he was in the Army, Schoendienst met ball with all the easy confidence and power of a man who had just finished a tough season.

Scattered over the field were the following Cardinal players:

PITCHERS—Ken Burkhart, Bud Beyerly, Mort Cooper, Jack Creel, Blix Donnelly, Henry Koch, Max Lanier, Stan Partenheimer and Bill Trotter.

CATCHERS—Walk Cooper, Bob Keely and Delbert Rice.

INFIELDERS — George Fallon, George Kurowski, Ray Sanders, Al Schoendienst and Emil Verban.

OUTFIELDERS — Augie Bergamo, Debs Garms, Jim Mallory and Glenn Crawford (who is listed as an infielder).

Of this group, Fallon was the only newcomer to the squad, all others having come up from Cairo.

Brownie Holdout Drills.

Jack Kramer of the Browns was in uniform, fraternizing with his world series rivals of last fall. He is listed as a holdout by the Browns.

Close inspection of the turf disclosed that it is thick and velvety but very soft from recent rains. Much of the infield portion was covered with newly laid sod which had taken firm hold. The skinned part of the infield appeared sandy in texture.

Those "drives for distance" by Schoendienst, Sanders, Walk Cooper and others were sometimes embarrassing to the painters who were trying to do a bit of artistic lettering on the pavilion walls. There were no casualties.

Hoppe Equals Record, Beats Cochran, 60-35

PHILADELPHIA, March 27 (AP). — Willie Hoppe, one-time "boy wonder" of billiards, added another record to his string last night.

The 57-year-old cue master defeated Welker Cochran, world three cushion champion, 60-35, in 23 innings, thereby equalling Cochran's own inning record for 60 points. Cochran had set the mark only two weeks ago against Hoppe in New York.

The victory boosted Willie's lead to 46 points—952 to 906—in the Hoppe-Cochran transcontinental world championship tourney. Hoppe won the afternoon block, 60-55.

Eilers Goes East.

Artie Eilers, director of athletics at Washington University, was scheduled to depart today for New York to attend a meeting of the National Association of Football Commissioners Thursday. Eilers also is the secretary of the Missouri Valley Conference.

WRAY'S COLUMN

At 82, He Seeks His Tenth Pennant.

WARTIME baseball having revived the activities and even successes of old-guard players, it's high time to turn an inquiring eye on the prospects of the oldest of all the old guard, 82-year-old Connie Mack, only manager the Athletics have ever had, who will again pilot his club in the pennant marathon . . . Kid McGillicuddy distinctly thinks he will be in the race this year . . . Hear him declaim:

"We lost a lot of close games last season," he told an Associated Press reporter last week end, "and this year we're prepared to win the tight ones." All we need is a little more power-hitting than last year and we'll land right up there."

"If you win the pennant this year"—it would be his tenth—"will you retire?"

"What for? . . . If I win a pennant it will show I'm still a going concern," was his almost indignant denial.

A most remarkable man, this Cornelius McGillicuddy . . . He sheds years like a slicker sheds rain . . . His mind, his intimates say, is as keen as ever . . . And the petulance that sometimes hampers old-age reactions never touches Connie . . . Probably each club owner in the circuit would be delighted to see Mack cop his tenth flag—provided, of course, the owner himself had no chance.

But What Can He Use for Players?

BUT to win a flag you need something to use for players . . . Mr. Mack's outfit didn't do so badly last year . . . The A's tied for fifth place with a percentage of .468 . . . They looked mighty good at times . . . A few more of the close ones would have put Connie in the first division.

As a base for pennant hopes this year, Connie starts with one big ace in the hole. . . . Of 28 players in camp at Frederick, Md., all but Outfielder Ford Garrison and Pitcher Karl Scheib are in 4-F classification. Garrison will be lost soon and Scheib is expected to follow.

Garrison was a regular last year, but batted only .266. . . . Scheib had no 1944 won-lost record with the Athletics, pitching only 36 innings. . . . All things considered, the outlook of the Athletics is as good as any in the league, as regards personnel permanency.

And as for getting that punch which Connie says he needs, the situation isn't too gloomy. . . . He starts with Estalella, Cuban veteran who hit .298 last season and drove in 69 runs. . . . He will have Dick Siebert back. . . . He hit .303 and drove home 51 runs last year.

Two New Sluggers For the Mackmen.

TWO new players may prove to be just the prescription needed to jolt the Athletics back into pennant form. . . . One is Outfielder Henry Arthur Peck, the fleet young gardener who was sold to Brooklyn in 1942, shot off a couple of toes sniping at rats (so the story goes) and returned to Milwaukee, where he batted .333 in 1942, hit .444 in 1943, and swatted .345 in 1944, batting in 83 runs. . . . He had 13 home runs included among his extra-base drives.

Bought by Mack for a large cash sum and several players, if Peck can live up to his Milwaukee record—which showed steady acceleration—he ought to supply some of that needed firepower.

There is also that Milwaukee catcher, Jimmy Pruett, who batted .312, not to mention Catcher Frank Hayes, whose 13 homers and 144 hits accounted for 76 runs driven in for the A's last year.

From this round up of punch-power, you get the idea that Connie could get a lucky break with his hitters and make a race of it. . . .

THE pitching, at times, was not so bad in 1944 and aided by a better attack, it will seem more important this year. . . . One weakness of the 1945 staff will be the fact that there is not a lefthander so far available.

Best record, from an earned-run average standpoint last year's staff was made by Joe Berry, who won 10 and lost 8 and who held the enemy to a 1.95 earned-run average. . . . That's top pitching. . . . Bobo Newsom was fairly effective last year. . . . His earned-run figure was 2.82 and he fanned 142 while passing only 82—nice work for the usually rather wild Bobo.

In addition to other pretty fair pitchers of last year, Don Black, Russ Christopher and Jess Flores, help coming up from the minors includes Manuel Salvo of Oakland, 18-7; Tom Crowson of Toronto, 12-6, and Wally Knerr, also of Toronto, 15-11.

Not too reassuring. . . . But in these times only a little added to what you have ought to lend a little background in the hope that Mr. Mack's fifth place club of last year will climb higher this season.

Cup Matches Top Sunday's Soccer Card

An attractive program, featuring two national cup games, was arranged for next Sunday by officials of the Missouri State Soccer Association at a meeting at Neighborhood House. The matches will be played at Fairground Park No. 1.

In the opener, the Schumachers, Municipal League junior champions, will play St. Philip Neri in the national junior cup final for the Missouri title and Schumacher trophy, starting at 1:30, while in the second game, the National Slugs tackle the Rafterys in the national open cup final. For the past two weeks these clubs have been stopped by weather conditions in their efforts to open their senior Muny title series.

Joe Schultz and Les Hatchard have been selected to referee the junior match, while P. Garcia and Harry Donovan will handle the senior affair.

In addition to the cup games two C. Y. C. League playoffs will be run off on Grounds No. 4. In the opener, SS. Mary and Joseph plays St. Edwards in a juvenile match, while St. Edwards and St. James battle in the junior division.

Xavier Wins Ozark Junior Basket Title

Xavier Boys' Club, consisting mostly of players from the St. Louis U. High team, defeated South Side Catholic, 44 to 22, at the Y. M. H. A. last night for the junior basketball championship of the Ozark A. A. U.

Led by Tom Kavanaugh, Junior Billiken guard, who scored 15 points, Xavier had little difficulty with its final opponent, holding a comfortable 21-to-14 lead at halftime. Xavier reached the final by winning Northwest honors, while South Side Catholic triumphed in the Southeast division.

Granite City gained consolation honors by trimming the West End Falcons, 40 to 36, in the preliminary game.

All Brownie Regulars Except Mark Christman Play Against Toledo

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 27.—Luke Sewell presented a Brownie batting order this afternoon very close to his lineup for the coming championship season, in the fifth practice game with Toledo.

A particularly strong appearing outfield was presented, with Sam Gray in center, Mike Kreevich in left and Boris Martin in right. The infield was made up of all regulars from last season, except at third, where Ellis Clary played in Mark Christman's place. Christman is still at his war plant job in St. Louis, except on week ends. Frank Mancuso was the catcher.

Jack Jakucki pitched a good five innings, although three runs were charged against him. However, of the four hits made off him, at least two were hits because of the high wind which blew over the field.

The wind, incidentally, gave Gray a chance to shine on the defensive. He had a couple of difficult catches to make, caught both balls, and after one of the catches, with Wren, a speed merchant, on second, got the ball into third base so fast that the runner didn't even leave the middle bag. His throw was true as a bird could fly.

Toledo scored in the first inning through no fault of Jakucki. Kimbell opened with a triple and, after two outs, crossed the plate on a passed ball, after which Jakucki struck out the batter, Okrie.

SCORE BY INNINGS

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	T
TOLEDO	1	0	2	0	0	0	1	1	0	5
BROWNS	2	1	1	0	0	2	0	0	0	6

Wren 3b	Gray cf
Corono cf	Kreevich lf

Thompson 2b	McQuinn 1b
Ignasiak 1b	Clary 3b
Comyn c	Mancuso c

A pass and successive singles by Kimbell, Wren and Corona gave the Mudhens two more tallies in the third.

The Browns made a pair in the first on two hits, by Gray and Martin, coupled with two errors. In the second, McQuinn walked and Clary and Mancuso singled in succession to enable George to scamper home.

Gray opened the third with a single, advanced on Kimbell's misplay on Stephens' grounder and rode home on Martin's second safe blow.

Fannin was Toledo's first pitcher, and was followed by Goedde.

Earl Jones went to the mound for the Browns in the sixth.

Two more Brownie runs in the sixth iced the decision. Mancuso walked, Jones sacrificed, Gutteridge singled the catcher home, and after an error and an out, Stephens singled to score Gutteridge.

Gutteridge, Gray, Stephens, Martin and Mancuso had two hits among the even dozen made by Sewell's men.

The teams will play again tomorrow, weather permitting.

Training Camp Notes

Galan and Owen to Join Dodgers — Gerheauser of Phils, Still a Holdout — Cullenbine Signs With Indians.

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP).—Augie Galan, star allround player, has decided to leave his California butcher shop to perform again for the Brooklyn Dodgers this year.

Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, announced today that he telephoned to Galan in Berkeley, Calif., from the Dodgers' camp at Bear Mountain.

Mickey Owen, who recently sold his farm implements and stock with the announced intention of entering the service, telephoned Manager Leo Durocher that he was preparing to rejoin the Dodgers.

He gave no indication how long he expected to remain with the club but his presence, even though temporary, would bolster the catching department where rookie Stan Andrews now is the No. 1 man.

Morris Aderholt, infielder, received notice from Washington that he had been placed in 4-F again.

Other training camp items:

Philadelphia Phillies—Southpaw Al Gerheauser remained a holdout, but worked out while awaiting invitation to salary conference.

Philadelphia A's — Sid Gordon, former Giant, hit two homers to help Curtis Bay Coast Guard crush Athletics, 19-8.

Boston Red Sox—Manager Joe Cronin is ready to play shortstop unless Skeeter Newsome reports.

Cleveland Indians — Steve Gromek's fast ball was hopping in three innings he pitched in practice game. Yielded no hits. Outfielder Roy Cullenbine signed contract.

Chicago White Sox—First of four holdout pitchers to sign contract, Joe Haynes reported to Terre Haute, Ind. camp.

Chicago Cubs—Manager Charley Grimm said Slugger Bill Nicholson would report at least by opening day.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Johnny Barrett, Babe Dahlgren, Jim Russell and Tommy O'Brien all hit ball out of park in batting practice.

34 Points for Mikan, De Paul Captures Title

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP).—De Paul's Demons from Chicago finally licked their New York basketball tournament jinx.

Coach Ray Meyer's quintet from the Windy City snared the national invitation title by crushing Bowling Green, 71 to 54, in last night's final before 18,166 at Madison Square Garden.

Last year the Demons reached the final, but lost to St. John's in an upset. Two years ago Georgetown whipped them in the Eastern NCAA competition.

For a time it seemed the jinx would again ruin George Mikan and company. Ten-point favorites before the opening tossup, De Paul appeared behind the eight-ball when Bowling Green rushed into an early 12-point lead at 13-1.

But big George, later picked as the outstanding player of the tourney with 120 points in three games, started to find the range, ably assisted by Whitey Kachan's pass interceptions. Within a few minutes De Paul had pulled up to tie at 20-20 and then lead, 30 to 22, at halftime. Bowling Green never was able to catch up.

Altogether Mikan tossed in 34 points on 15 field goals and four free throws.

Tonight Coach Meyer and his players will watch the tussle between New York University and the Oklahoma Aggies for the NCAA championship. The winner meets De Paul for the mythical national title, Thursday.

Jake Lamotta Stops Costner in 6 Rounds

CHICAGO, March 27 (AP).—The bubble that was George (Sugar) Costner, knockout king, was completely burst today, but Chicago fans had paid over $140,000 to see it happen in two fights.

Jake Lamotta, New York middleweight, finished it off with a sensational knockout in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-rounder before 11,115 fans who paid $45,485 to see it last night.

Less than a month ago, Ray (Sugar) Robinson knocked out the Cincinnati Negro in the first round before a crowd that paid almost $95,000 to see the bout.

Costner had won 24 straight fights, 22 of them by knockouts, before he met Robinson.

Hyde Parks Roll 3456, Third Best Total in U. S. This Year

Bettering all city and State records by 31 pins, the Laux Hyde Parks fired a 3456 series, third in the United States this season, at Heidels, last night, to win three games from Kutis in the All-Star League. The Fabers of Teaneck, N. J., have 3519 for the year's high count, followed by the Lyndhursts of Lyndhurst, N. J.

In losing three, the Kutis rolled a 3232 series. The winners opened with 1168, then hit 1143, and came right back with 1145. In the last game, each member of the Hyde Parks had one miss.

The three-game sweep enabled the Hyde Parks to increase their lead to three full games over the Mavrakos and Silver Seal fives, with but three remaining on the schedule. Mavrakos blew two games to the Hoffmeisters, while the Seals took three from the American Irons. In the other match, Hermanns defeated the Reineke quintet twice.

The individual leaders included Erv Brunsman's 749 total, one of the best in the loop this year; George Bobmeyer 744, Buzz Tonkovic 727, Dale Porter 719, Mitzi Weinstein took the high single honors wtih a 267 game and 701 series.

Army Shows How War Prisoners Near TNT Plant Are Guarded

Reporters Taken on Tour of St. Louis Area Camps—Precautions Against Escape and Sabotage—Wages, Food, Clothing.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Measures taken to prevent the escape and possible commission of sabotage by German prisoners of war quartered in St. Louis County were shown to reporters yesterday by Army officers in charge as a result of a report the prisoners are not well guarded.

The tour, conducted by Col. Andrew R. Duvall, post commander of Fort Leonard Wood, and Lt. Col. C. F. O'Keefe, commander of the prisoner of war camp at the fort and of smaller camps in St. Louis County, was undertaken after Walter Winchell, radio commentator, had stated in a Blue Network broadcast that the prisoners could easily escape and blow up the Weldon Spring Ordnance Works across the Missouri River.

One camp was the Hellwig Brothers' truck farm west of Chesterfield, where the Germans are housed in barracks built for migrant farm workers, now unavailable because of labor shortages. Another group of prisoners lives aboard a United States Army Engineers quarterboat, moored several miles from the plant.

Col. Duvall said War Department regulations did not permit disclosure of the ratio of armed guards to prisoners, but that it was considered a safe margin. He added authorities took a "calculated risk" that the prisoners might escape, although none had tried it.

Seven-Foot Wire Fence.

The prisoners at the Chesterfield camp live in an area surrounded by a seven-foot wire fence, guarded by at least two soldiers armed with carbines, and are permitted outside only during working hours. The quarter boat mooring area is inclosed with barbed wire, guarded and floodlighted.

When working, Col. Duvall said, there may be one armed guard to several groups of prisoners, each group watched by one or more civilians who would report at once to the guard if one of his charges should disappear.

The men work for a wage of 80 cents a day, which they receive in the form of scrip expendable only at the post exchange. The contractor, however, must pay the Government the prevailing day's wage in behalf of each prisoner, and from this payment each is allotted his 80 cents.

With the scrip they can purchase a package of cigarettes a day. Cigarettes are usually but not always available. Their rations include meat on the average of once a day. This is usually ham, salt pork or some form of sausage. Beef stew is served about once in 10 days. They receive no butter.

The men wear rejected G. I. clothing, on which "PW" is stamped front and back. They may receive mail and newspapers and have Catholic and Protestant church services on Sundays. Walls of their barracks are decorated with photographs of their families, in hand-made wood frames, and with magazine illustrations. They conduct regular classes in English, American history, German and mathematics.

Protection for Plant.

Lt. Col. Stanley C. Shubart, commanding officer of the TNT plant at Weldon Springs, said he felt there was no danger of sabotage. He pointed out the plant is protected by a high double fence and armed patrols, and that the buildings are so arranged it would be impossible for a saboteur to cause extensive damage. He inspected the Chesterfield camp yesterday and expressed satisfaction with security measures.

Col. Duvall said disclosure of the exact number of prisoners was not permitted. Persons familiar with the installations have estimated there are about 100 at Chesterfield and 50 on the boat.

Stassen Back in Pacific Area.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27 (AP).—Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota Governor who has been named a delegate to the United Nations conference here April 25, was back in the Pacific war area today preparing to bring to an end his duties as Fifth Fleet Flag Secretary, Twelfth District headquarters announced.

DR. JAY CRAWFORD SUES WIFE

Suit for divorce, charging general indignities, was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday by Dr. Jay S. Crawford, optician at Barnes Hospital, against Mrs. Mary J. Crawford. They were married in 1906 and separated last July. Dr. Crawford alleged that his wife "raised a disturbance" by continually visiting him at his office. They lived at 5000 Waterman avenue.

CHADEAYNE ASKS MAYOR TO STATE POSITION ON MVA

Says It Is Strange That Chief of Largest City in Valley Is 'Silent on Biggest Issue.'

A new challenge to Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann, Republican, to state his stand on the Missouri Valley Authority question before next Tuesday's election was made in a radio address last night by his Democratic opponent, Henry F. Chadeayne.

The assertion being made in behalf of Kaufmann that the Mayor's 63-million-dolla. postwar public works program would meet the needs of peacetime extra employment was disputed by Chadeayne.

"If every cent of that 63 million dollars went directly into wages," Chadeayne said, "and workers were paid the inadequate wage of only $20 a week, the bond issue—every cent of it—would provide work for 200,000 people for only 15 or 16 short weeks. MVA, on the other hand, will give five years of steady employment at decent wages to one million workers. Is it not strange, then, that the Mayor of the largest and most important city in the entire Missouri valley is silent on this question—the biggest issue of this entire campaign?"

Benefits From MVA.

Under the Tennessee Valley Authority the average residential electricity rate last year was only 53 per cent of that of the rest of the nation, while in the Chattanooga area savings in electricity costs under TVA had been more than 13 million dollars in five years, Chadeayne said, arguing that MVA would result in lower electric rates in its territory.

MVA also would bring about flood control, creation of new farms, better economic conditions and a richer, fuller life for seven million persons in the Missouri valley, the candidate said. Although St. Louis is the largest city in the valley and would share in this development, "the Mayor of St. Louis is not for MVA," Chadeayne asserted. He added:

"Not only will MVA create a million jobs for five long years, and thus provide a place for our skilled and unskilled workmen in these critical postwar years, but an expanding industry resulting from MVA will provide more and more jobs for the future. But our Mayor is not for MVA—no, his solution of the postwar job problem is a bond issue which is dwarfed by comparison with MVA.

"It is difficult to understand how anyone with the interest of the people of St. Louis at heart could fail to indorse MVA. Yet our Mayor was asked to do so by organized labor and he did not answer. He did not call upon the St. Louis members of Congress to support it nor did he ask his committee of citizens to indorse it. Yet MVA is the biggest issue of this campaign, for it means jobs and security for our workers."

'Human Things' by Kaufmann.

Chief address last night in the campaign in behalf of Mayor Kaufmann was one on the radio by the Rev. James M. Bracy, chairman of the Negro division of the campaign organization and pastor of First Baptist Church.

He spoke about "the human things that Mayor Kaufmann has done during his tenure of office." Among these he listed the Mayor's leadership in discussion of better housing after the war, the proposed expansion of the playground system and "the fine work which his Juvenile Commission has performed and its plans for the future."

He expressed the opinion that re-election of Kaufmann would assure the city's continued progress.

ISLAND OF CEBU INVADED BY U. S. FORCES, JAPS SAY

MacArthur Reports Heavy Air Attack on City There but Does Not Confirm Landing.

MANILA, March 27 (AP).—Invasion of Cebu Island, in the central Philippines, by American forces under cover of bombarding warships was reported by the Tokyo radio today. Gen Douglas MacArthur announced the heaviest air raid yet on Cebu but gave no confirmation of the Japanese report.

Cebu, between the big enemy-held island of Negros and American-occupied Leyte, is one of the two major Philippine islands still in Japanese hands.

The enemy radio said American trops "commenced landings" yesterday morning at Talisay, a town about five miles south of the island's principal port, Cebu city, midway along the east coast.

A task force of six cruisers and destroyers shelled the area beforehand, the Tokyo radio reported.

Heavy bombers have been giving the Cebu city vicinity increasing attention in recent weeks, and the 250-ton plastering delivered Saturday by the Thirteenth Air Force was the heaviest yet. Enemy installations, gun emplacements and ammunition dumps were destroyed and railroad facilities torn up.

Smashing air blows from the northern to the southern tips of Luzon were announced.

More than 100 Fifth Air Force bombers and fighters struck the port area of Legaspi, on southeastern Luzon, with 200 tons of bombs Saturday. More than 100 medium bombers and dive bombers attacked the Baguio area and Balete Pass Friday and the following day flew more than 150 sorties against Baguio and the battlefront area east of Manila.

Formosa was bombed with 67 tons of explosives Saturday. The Takeo industrial area on the southwest coast was the target.

MacArthur reported an additional 14,853 Japanese dead had been counted and 171 prisoners taken in the Philippines since March 16, when he estimated enemy casualties at 282,000. His new count brought the total to 297,024.

Progress was reported on Luzon's scattered ground fronts. South of Manila the Eleventh Airborne and First Cavalry divisions were pressing toward a juncture around Tanauan, on the main north-south highway between Laguna de Bay and Lake Taal, despite dug-in enemy positions.

In the north, the Twenty-fifth and Thirty-second divisions were encountering stiff resistance as they converged on Balete Pass, in the Caraballo mountains. They had to root the enemy from one tunnel after another. One force had to build 25 miles of mountain road to flank enemy strong points.

Voters' Guide

Election, Tuesday, April 3

Sketches of Candidates Toberman, Democrat, and Schweitzer, G. O. P., In Race for Aldermanic President

Republican Formerly Was Prosecuting Attorney and Assistant Circuit Attorney — Latter, Now on Board From 14th Ward, Was Drafted by Citizens' Committee.

Today's issue of the Post-Dispatch Voters' Guide deals with the major party nominees for President of the Board of Aldermen. This part-time position, paying $3000 a year, carries the right of succession as Mayor, a place on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, fiscal body, and the duty of presiding over aldermanic sessions. The election is for the two-year unexpired term of Aloys P. Kaufmann, who became Mayor to fill a vacancy in 1943, four months after election as aldermanic president.

Albert L. Schweitzer

Republican

A LAWYER, with offices in the Title Guaranty Building, Schweitzer formerly was Prosecuting Attorney, for two terms, 1923-30, after having served three years as an Assistant Circuit Attorney. In the recent primary he defeated Edgar S. Nicolai, now acting president of the board, for the Republican nomination, 29,917 to 5828, with Alderman George N. Daugherty getting 5354 and a fourth candidate much less. Schweitzer had the support of party organizations in nearly all wards.

He was Prosecuting Attorney through most of the prohibition era. Consistently adhering to a policy of refusing to issue misdemeanor warrants in the numerous instances in which police made liquor raids in homes and other private places without search warrants, he aroused the ire of the drys.

In 1926, shortly after Schweitzer had been elected to his second term with a big majority, the local Women's Christian Temperance Union federation declared in a resolution that "prohibition is not now, and never has been, in effect in St. Louis," because Schweitzer "has never enforced said law or made any effort to do so." The resolution made a request, which was disregarded, that the Attorney General take over Schweitzer's office.

Schweitzer said in a speech in 1925 that his requests for conferences with police officials for co-operation in enforcing the liquor laws had repeatedly been disregarded; he pointed out that anonymous tips were not sufficient to justify raids. A grand jury, aided by a special prosecutor, investigated Schweitzer's office because of articles reflecting on it, published in a morning newspaper, and reported in 1924 that Schweitzer and his assistants and employes were "faithful and competent" and that he conducted his work with "ability, integrity and zeal."

Platform Summarized.

His platform, summarized, follows: Full support of the war effort; co-operation with all communities of the metropolitan area in their own and mutual development; far-seeing postwar planning, including city beautification, slum clearance, modernization of city-owned utilities, hospitals, etc.; riverfront improvement and development, modern mass transportation, provision of parking facilities, and a master plan for the city; "full preparation for the air era"; sufficient arterial highways, including a north-south route west of Kingshighway and completion of the Third street project; wider use of the Board of Aldermen's powers of inquiry, and public forums on questions of general importance; strict enforcement of smoke, merit, health and safety laws; humanitarian handling of child welfare and delinquency problems; economy in public expenditures.

Schweitzer has been a member of the Kiel Auditorium Commission for two years and was on the commission that built the World War Soldiers' Memorial. He drafted and pushed the State bad check law in 1925.

He is an Eighth Ward Republican precinct captain and formerly was vice president of the Fourteenth Ward Republican Club and acting committeeman of that ward.

Born in St. Louis, Schweitzer is 56 years old, a graduate of McKinley High School and, in 1911, of the University of Missouri. He is married, has four children and resides at 3227 Hawthorne boulevard.

Walter H. Toberman

Democrat

DRAFTED to run for aldermanic president by the Democratic Citizens' Committee, which also brought out the candidates for Mayor and Comptroller, Toberman was unopposed in the primary.

He is now in the middle of his third term as Alderman of the Fourteenth Ward, home of Bernard F. Dickmann, who was Mayor when Toberman was elected the first time. During the period of the Democratic majority in the board he was chairman of the important Ways and Means Committee. He was a leader in behalf of Dickmann in sponsoring the merit system and he sponsored the pure milk bill and supported the measures for smoke elimination, election of Aldermen by wards, prohibition of fireworks and improvement of restaurant sanitation. He was a member of the original steering committee which prepared the comprehensive new building code recently adopted and he was active in handling this elaborate measure during the six years it was under consideration. He says he has missed only six meetings of the board during the 10 years he has been in office and that he never failed to cast a vote on any measure up when he was present, although he concedes that he sometimes found afterwards he voted the wrong way.

In 1936, when he was recovering from cuts and bruises suffered in an automobile accident, he left a hospital to attend a board meeting for fear his absence might enable a Democratic faction opposing Mayor Dickmann to seize control of the board. As it turned out the board officers and employes were re-elected unanimously.

It was shown in 1937 that Toberman, a grain merchant, who at that time headed a special aldermanic committee seeking badly needed new city revenues, had told the board a flat license tax of $50 a year on grain commission merchants would "not make much difference one way or the other" in the revenue, although at the time he was in possession of figures showing that 38 such merchants had paid the city an aggregate of $4000 at the old rates the preceding year. At $50 each they would have paid $1900 a year. Toberman had expressed belief that most of the grain men had been paying only $25 a year, and that was what he had been paying, but he said one man was paying the old maximum, $500. Later he pointed out that wool commission merchants and those in other lines had been paying smaller license fees than the grain men.

For the year 1942 Toberman, who is president of the Toberman Grain Co., with offices in Merchants' Exchange Building, was president of the exchange, the organization of grain dealers. His company, which is incorporated, did business exceeding four million dollars last year, Toberman has pointed out. He was president of the National Hay Association in 1929.

Platform Is Stated.

He has stated his platform as follows: As presiding officer of the Board of Aldermen, "to serve impartially, regardless of party affiliation;" as a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to work for a balanced city budget, economy, keeping taxes as low as possible, planning for returning war veterans, and "forward-looking plans for the postwar era and future airport facilities."

He was active in support of the recently adopted new State Constitution.

For two years before he became an Alderman he was, by appointment of Mayor Dickmann, a member of the Board of Adjustment, hearing appeals from the Building Commissioner in zoning matters.

Toberman, 65 years old, was born in Montgomery County, Illinois. He attended high school at Fillmore, Ill., and came here in 1904, establishing his grain company, which has a plant at National Stockyards. He has a son and resides at 3439 Pestalozzi street.

Dutch Ship Sinks; 72 Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27 (AP).—The Netherlands merchant ship Sibigo sank March 16 during a storm in the Coral Sea, said a dispatch from Melbourne. Thirteen survivors of the crew of 85 were rescued by a Dutch steamer after six days on rafts.

MARSHAL SHAPOSHNIKOV DIES; FORMER RED CHIEF OF STAFF

MOSCOW, March 27 (AP). — The body of Marshal Boris Shaposhnikov, 63-year-old former Czarist officer, who died yesterday, was removed today to the columned House of Unions, from which Lenin was buried. It will lie in state until the funeral, to be announced later.

A testimonial to his service in the Red Army, signed by a long list of notables headed by Premier-Marshal Stalin, appeared in all Soviet newspapers.

Illness caused Shaposhnikov's retirement as chief of the general staff in 1942, but he later was active as Deputy People's Commissar for Defense and chief of the Soviet Military Academy.

Tariff Fight Likely Over F.D.R.'s Plea

Requests Trade Act Renewal and Authority to Cut Duties.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP). DEMOCRATS and Republicans were on the road back to one of their oldest party scraps today—the tariff.

President Roosevelt sent to Congress yesterday a special message asking for a three-year renewal of the Reciprocal Trade Act, with added authority to cut tariffs—some as much as 75 per cent under the 1930 Smoot-Hawley tariff law.

Republicans quickly brought forward an argument used through the years: Low tariffs would remove from the American worker his protection against low-paid labor abroad, and would reduce American industrial production and cause unemployment.

The proposed legislation would not require any specific duty reduction. Instead it would allow tariff adjustments in treaties with other nations.

Roosevelt asserted tariff adjustments, co-operatively with other nations, would stimulate world trade, increase industrial production and employment.

The fight will not begin in earnest until late April, after Easter. Chairman Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee, who introduced legislation embodying the President's proposals, said public hearings would be called when the House begins to meet regularly after Easter.

However, Chairman George (Dem.), Georgia, of the Senate Finance Committee showed no great enthusiasm for the idea. He suggested to a reporter that the new tariff issue would increase the difficulty of pressing a trade act extension bill through the Senate.

Representative Knutson of Minnesota, Republican leader of the Ways and Means group, said new and severe reductions of duties would force many industries to close and erase the hope for 60 million postwar jobs. Another committee member (Representative Woodruff (Rep.), Michigan, said he would seek to kill outright "the pseudo-reciprocal trade policy."

'ASSOCIATION OF 20 YEARS WAR' SET UP BY JAPANESE

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The Tokyo radio said today that a new organization has been formed in Japan known as "the Association of the 20 Years War" under the leadership of Hachiro Arita, former Foreign Minister.

"Several high officials and personages of the political, financial and journalistic world are sponsoring the association," Tokyo said. "All are pledged to continue the war against the Anglo-Americans for the next 20 years."

(Gen. Jiro Minami, former War Minister, will head Japan's new "Sure Victory" totalitarian party, the Tokyo radio said in another broadcast, heard in San Francisco.)

TO DRAFT WORLD COURT PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP). —United Nations jurists are to meet in Washington prior to the San Francisco World Security Conference to draft preliminary plans for an International Court of Justice.

The State Department disclosed today that invitations for such a gathering had gone out. They were sent by the United States on behalf of Great Britain, Russia and China, which are co-sponsoring the San Francisco meeting, and set April 9 for the discussions on a court. The San Francisco meeting is due to start April 25.

Defeat of Germany Won't Ease Navy Burden, Adm. King Warns

No Quick and Easy Victory Likely Over Japan, He Says in Annual Report — All Sea Forces in Pacific Are on Offensive.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).

GERMANY'S collapse can mean only a "redistribution" of naval might, Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King said today, and even then "no quick and easy victory can be taken for granted."

In his annual report as commander in chief of the fleet, Adm. King emphasized the differences between the European and Pacific wars and the vast supply task still confronting the Navy, and added, "We are only now gaining a position from which we can assault the heart of the Japanese strength."

"We have heard much of things being ahead of schedule in the Pacific," he said. "Actually we have had no schedule, except to go as far and as fast as the means at hand would permit. It can be said that the war today is ahead of our expectations of last year. This should stimulate rather than sap our determination to carry on with every means we can muster."

New Production Problems.

The speed of the Pacific advance, he continued, "has created new production problems."

In Europe, Adm. King said, the Navy's task became secondary with the successful completion of the "battle of the beaches" in Normandy, while in the Pacific "the problem that we have had to solve is how to project a fleet throughout a vast ocean area initially dominated by the enemy.

"We are solving this problem by rapidly establishing repair and supply bases in enemy islands as we capture them, and by pushing our supplies forward in ships of the train to supply our task forces at sea."

The Navy still has a "critical need for combat and seagoing officers and enlisted personnel," he declared.

Looking to the postwar fleet, he said, "it is assumed in all plans now under consideration that many more officers and men will be needed than can be provided by personnel now in the regular Navy." These comprise only about 16 per cent of the wartime Navy.

While stressing that there can be no demobilization of naval forces "until the defeat of Japan is at hand," he asserted:

"However, for more than a year we have worked on demobilization methods and have completed tentative plans. We are considering priority for severance, and intend, when the time comes, to give due consideration to length of service, service outside the continental limits, combat service and parenthood."

"Whole Navy on Offensive."

The report, covering operations which carried the Pacific battle line more than 3000 miles westward—from the Marshall Islands into the South China Sea and the approaches to Tokyo — said that during 1944, "the whole of the United States Navy in the Pacific was on the offensive."

In the Atlantic, Adm. King said, the antisubmarine war has been on a fairly low scale during the last year. "The German submarine force apparently has been engaged in 'licking its wounds' after the rough handling it received in 1943. . . .

"It is assumed that the long period of relative quiescence has been employed for building more effective types of submarines. The possibility of a renewed outbreak of submarine activity, must, therefore, be guarded against."

ARMY CONDITIONS FOR DISCHARGE OF WOUNDED ARE GIVEN

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP). —The War Department defined yesterday the conditions under which combat-wounded soldiers may be discharged from the Army.

They may be released, on their own request, if they meet all these conditions:

They are physically classified as "permanently limited assignment."

Have been awarded the Purple Heart.

Have been determined "surplus to the needs of the Army as a whole."

No enlisted man, the department said, will be considered surplus if an assignment is available appropriate to his grade; if such an assignment would release for overseas shipment a man who has not had overseas service, or if the wounded man can, with retraining, be effectively utilized.

Whether a man is surplus will be determined by one of the major commands—Army Ground Forces, Air Forces or Service Forces to which the soldier is assigned. If the command finds him surplus, he will be sent to a personnel center and then if no assignment still is found, he will go to a separation center for discharge.

NAZIS DENY ISSUING ORDERS TO EXECUTE U. S. PARATROOPS

LONDON, March 27 (AP). — German military authorities were quoted in a Transocean News Agency broadcast yesterday as denying "Eisenhower's allegation" that they had issued orders to execute Allied parachute troops.

The broadcast said the Allied airborne troops were "being attacked according to the recognized rules of warfare."

'HANGMAN' HOLDING RUNDSTEDT, SAYS PARIS BROADCAST

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The Paris radio said today that "according to a radio station broadcasting in German," Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt, former commander of Nazi forces on the western front, has been taken from his estate and placed under arrest.

The Moscow radio broadcast a statement by the Free German Committee declaring "the entire officer corps of the Wehrmacht has been eliminated and replaced by Himmler's S. S." through "intrigues, dismissals, wholesale arrests, suicides, and war casualties."

The Paris report said Von Rundstedt "is now under the guard of S. S. Gruppenfuehrer Muehlmann, called 'the hangman of generals,' who had previously taken under his 'protection' Nazi Gens. Fritsch, Reichenau and Kluge, all of whom soon died in mysterious circumstances."

The London Daily Sketch quoted a dispatch from its Stockholm correspondent saying Adolf Hitler had summoned a special meeting of his Nazi gauleiters at Berchtesgaden.

IWO WOUNDED REACH U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27 (AP).—More than 600 wounded Marines have arrived by ship in San Francisco, from the bitter fighting on Iwo, the Marine Corps said yesterday.

Japanese snipers deliberately shot at the legs of stretcher-bearers so that both they and the men they were attending would be helpless, the returning veterans said. The men are at the naval receiving hospital here.

Pyle Describes Briefing of Men Who Hit Tokyo

Carrier Crew Hears Enemy Announcer Scream Out News of Raid.

By ERNIE PYLE
IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC (Delayed).

WE were up an hour and a half before daylight, for our planes had to be in the air at the first hint of dawn.

The first patrol was always launched by catapult, because in the wind-swept semidarkness, it was too dangerous for them to make the run down the rolling deck.

After seeing the flights launched the first few days, it became old stuff, and I would have stayed in bed and ignored it, but that was impossible. The catapult huge launching machinery was directly above my cabin, and every time it shot a plane off it was just as though the Washington Monument had fallen on the ship. Rip Van Winkle himself couldn't have slept through it. So I just got up.

The Last Briefing.

THE fighter pilots were given their last briefing. In the "ready room" the squadron commander and intelligence officer showed them on maps and by drawings on the blackboard, just where they would strike.

The squadron commander asked how many of the pilots had no wrist watches. Six held up their hands. The funny part was that the ship had no extra wrist watches, so I don't know why he asked the question in the first place.

Then he told what our approximate total of planes over Japan would be, and how many it was probable the Japs would put up against us. And then he said:

"So you see, each one of us will only have to take care of three Jap planes!"

The pilots all laughed and looked at each other sheepishly. (Days later, when the final scores were in, we found our force had destroyed Japs at nine-to-one.)

And at the end of his briefng, the squadron commander gave strict orders for the pilots not to shoot at Japs going down in parachutes.

"They're supposed to do it to us," he said, "but it isn't the thing for us to do."

Pilots Told to Fly Low.

THE bomber pilots and their enlisted gunners and radiomen were briefed the same way. After the intelligence officer had finished, the squadron commander said:

"We're going to dive low on the target before releasing our bombs. Since we're risking our necks anyhow, there's no point in going at all unless we can do some damage, so go down low."

All through the various strikes on Japan, our task force kept enough planes back to fly a constant blanket of protection in the sky above us.

I remember the funny sign chalked on the blackboard of the "ready room" first day, urging our patrol pilots to extra vigilance for Jap planes that might sneak out

Spain's Democratic Groups Assail U.S.-British Policy, Warn That It Is Turning Followers Toward Russia

Disappointment Over 'Non-Intervention' Against Franco Increasing Power of Communist Party, They Say — Red Dictatorship Feared Almost as Much as Falange.

LONDON, March 27 (AP).

SPAIN'S new anti-Falangist "National Alliance of Democratic Forces" fears Generalissimo Francisco Franco's refusal to modify his government, and the present attitude of the British and American governments may force their followers into the arms of Russia and the Communists.

The new alliance, composed of the CNT (National Confederation of Labor) and the UGT (General Labor Union) with the Socialist and unified Republican parties, scorn reports abroad that the republicans are divided.

According to recent arrivals from Spain these republicans who have worked underground since the end of the civil war, have little use for most of their exiled politicians with the possible exception of Indalecio Prieto, Socialist, and the Nationalist Basque leader, Jose Aguirre, now teaching in Columbia University at New York.

Charges by Unionists.

Underground publications circulated by this group attack the Communists whom they charge with dividing the republicans. A joint statement by the two labor unions published in the underground El Socialista says:

"We are are obliged to declare that the Communist party in Spain and in France has done everything possible to provoke division and confusion in the anti-Fascist ranks. Some day public opinion will know in detail what prevents our collaboration with this party which, fortunately, is a very small fraction of the Spanish proletariat."

Another communique issued separately by the national committee of the CNT, which has ousted its anarchist leadership and is now dominated by comparatively moderate trade union groups, is brief and emphatic.

It recalls German Nazi and Italian Fascist aid to Franco and the Falangists in crushing the republic during the civil war. It says Franco's failure to enter the war on Germany's side was due to his knowledge of overwhelming popular sympathy with Britain and the United States and his fear of revolt. Now, it says, Franco, who thought Germany would win, is trying to collect on this policy as proof of his desire to aid the Allies.

Democracies Criticised.

Republican Spaniards, the statement continues, "have seen no gesture and no act by the democracies tending to alleviate their situation inside Spain."

The last section of the single-page communique is headed "Consequences" and says:

"Spanish democratic opinion is losing faith in Britain and the United States. Their disappointment and fear is turning them toward Soviet Russia, which increases the strength of the Communist party, until now lacking in popular support. If this trend continues neither Britain nor the United States will be able to do anything here and we will be abandoned to the Communists."

The statement says Spanish republicans recognize that the British-American attitude toward Franco prior to the liberation of France was inspired by strategic and military necessity. Now the republicans feel this excuse is no longer valid.

In contrast to the communiques issued by the Communist "Supreme Committee of National Union," with which the republican "Big Four" deny all connection, the various "Big Four" communiques do not demand direct action nor do they talk of the possibility of a "rising" against Franco.

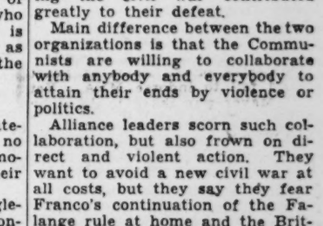

Republicans quarrel with Franco's followers over the interpretation of the British-American resolution not to "intervene in the internal affairs of other countries."

Franco's supporters say this forces the Allies to accept the friendship of his government without supporting the republicans who, they say, will only lead Spain to Communism.

The republicans say that British and American trade and other relations with the Falangist dictatorship is in itself intervention, but intervention in favor of the existing government against the overwhelming desire of the Spanish people. They argue that republicans, now as in the civil war, may be forced toward Russia and Communism by their inability to get help from any other quarter, although they fear a Communist dictatorship almost as much as they dislike the Falange. They feel that the Communist effort to gain control of the republic during the civil war contributed greatly to their defeat.

Main difference between the two organizations is that the Communists are willing to collaborate with anybody and everybody to attain their ends by violence or politics.

Alliance leaders scorn such collaboration, but also frown on direct and violent action. They want to avoid a new civil war at all costs, but they say they fear Franco's continuation of the Falange rule at home and the British-American "non-intervention policy" may force their militants to embrace the Communist cause and bring civil war to Spain again.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

In Defense of Lewis

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am a white-collar worker. I have always received good salaries, not because of better education or more intelligence, but because I know how to turn to my advantage the good work the labor unions have done, not only for their own members but for every worker.

It makes me sick to hear ill-paid white-collar workers and unorganized laborers on starvation wages either stand idly by or actively join in the abuse of the great labor leader, John L. Lewis, who has raised all our wages by getting a little more money for the hard, dangerous, part-time work done by the coal miners.

Can't they realize that the great industrial "leaders" who oppose Lewis would like to have us all working 12 hours a day for a dollar, as our ancestors did before labor unions?

John L. Lewis is ruining my business, because Mr. Byrnes has seen fit to vent his spleen against the United Mine Workers on our particular business, which requires a little coal. I know Mr. Byrnes' game—inconvenience the public, ruin a few small businesses and rouse hatred against the unions. More power to John L. Lewis and may he get what he wants, so that everybody who works for a living can benefit.

The unorganized workers are not ALL dumb. Some of them have their eyes open. Mr. Byrnes won't grow up to be President. At the moment, he, not John L. Lewis, is the most hated man in the United States. WHITE COLLAR.

Chuckhole Chuckles

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Thanks to you for brightening a gloomy Sunday with your editorial chuckles over the chuck'oles! But amusement should be tempered by sympathy for the Democratic candidate for the mayoralty.

Worthy gentleman as he is, he is handicapped by feeling he must maintain the party line when his own party gives him so little to which he may point with pride, and the present administration so little which he may view with alarm. G. C.

Weak Moment

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

After reading your editorial entitled "Battle of St. Louis Chuckholes," I am surprised that a paper of your reputed adroitness and adeptness should stoop to such a trivial matter. It must have been done in a moment of weakness.

Two Sides of Strikes

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A recent letter signed "Service Woman" urged listing names of foundry strikers in newspapers or on posters, accompanied by a statement blaming them for lack of war materials. Although I am not familiar with the causes of the recent strike, it seems to me that all too often it is the employe rather than employer who gets shouted down, without properly taking into account the policy of the latter.

Every story has its other side, and it wouldn't hurt to make a thorough examination of both before condemning one or the other.

Naturally, we all agree that strikes are decidedly unpatriotic in such trying times as these. But undoubtedly management is just as much at fault for taking advantage of labor's no-strike pledge as labor is for breaking it. This was somewhat brought to light in the Montgomery Ward case.

"Peace-Loving Nations"

Just what nations is the Commander-in-Chief referring to when he speaks of the "peace-loving nations"? From 1480 to 1941 Great Britain had 78 wars; France, 71; Russia, 61; Italy, 25; Germany, 23; Holland, 23, and Japan, 9. During its 150 years of existence, the United States has had 13 wars.

Peace, me eye! Just wait till OPA posts the ceiling prices on booze.

Likes Chadeayne's Forthrightness

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am ordinarily a Democrat, although in city elections I usually vote for the man I think is best qualified for the particular job.

I have been very much interested in Mr. Chadeayne's advocacy of a council-management form of government, as I believe it will eliminate many political vices and permit us to have efficiency in governmental affairs. I am also impressed with Mr. Chadeayne's advocacy of MVA. It seems to me that this project will help St. Louis in many ways, and at the same time it will be of untold benefit to all persons who live in the great Missouri Valley.

I am disappointed that Mayor Kaufmann has not seen fit to take any stand on these important matters. I dislike to be suspicious about his failure in this respect, but I shall be compelled to support Mr. Chadeayne in the event Mr. Kaufmann does not make a forthright statement on these matters.

Time to Come of Age

The President spoke words of practical statesmanship yesterday, when he urged Congress to pass the Doughton bill to make possible real reductions in our tariff structure, so that postwar America and the world "may enjoy the greater prosperity that expanding trade brings."

The bill itself, with the full force of the administration behind it, should bring the country squarely up to answering the question: Is America ready to come of age as a creditor nation?

There are teeth in the bill introduced by Representative Robert Doughton of North Carolina, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and approved by the President. In the first place, he proposes that duties which haven't been changed since the Hawley-Smoot schedules of 1930 be cut 75 per cent, and those that have had some reduction be cut an additional 25 per cent. This would be the first all-out effort to tumble this atrocious tariff which dug a deeper trough for the depression.

He proposes, in the second place, that the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act be extended for three years from June 12 next, when it is due to expire. Under this measure, Congress delegates to the President the implementation of reciprocity in trade concessions. As Mr. Roosevelt said in his message, this program is "a sustained effort to reduce the barriers which the nations of the world maintained against each other's trade." When the war is over, it will be a most important tool for building peace and prosperity.

It isn't easy for a nation, most of whose historical experience has been that of a net debtor in international trade, to readjust itself to the quite different duties and rewards of a creditor nation.

First among these is to rent capital to countries which can employ it to sustain and increase their production of goods and services. This means that we must lend on the long-run basis of benevolent selfishness, avoiding both the Santa Claus approach harmful alike to the receiver and the giver, and the Shylock insistence on the letter of the bond. We must not repeat the mistake of the '20s of pressing goods and gold on the world at the same time that we raise new tariff barriers to prevent them servicing their debts to us.

If we are to be a creditor nation, we must be hospitable to imports as never before.

Statistically speaking, America was a debtor country from the colonizations at Jamestown and Plymouth Rock until late 1917, when the balance was finally redressed by our loans to the Allies in World War I.

Though in a net creditor position over the last 28 years, we have continued to insist on exporting as much goods as we could get other nations to take, and have imported as little as possible in return. It is yet to be seen whether this debtor-nation attitude will continue to dominate us now that the United States has become the greatest producing plant the world has ever known.

These matters may not come to sharp issue until the postwar catching-up economy has caught up, but the recent past, with two world wars and a great depression, make it highly important that we think about them now.

This is not the first time that a great nation, after shifting from a debtor to a creditor position, has taken decades to act the new way. While Britain became a creditor nation during the Napoleonic wars, for 30 years she clung to her tariffs on agricultural products, despite food riots and an 1832 threat of revolution.

It was not until 1845 that her Prime Minister, Sir Robert Peel, went to the country to repeal the Corn Laws. She soon became the world's great banker and trader, and it took two world wars to dethrone her.

Messrs. Roosevelt and Doughton propose that we repeal our Corn Laws. If we do so, America will have come of age as a creditor nation.

New York's Short Tax Form

Missourians who recently found that they had to make a long and involved income tax return to the State, although the Federal Government required no detailed information, have reason to envy New York citizens. That State has done a favor for its taxpayers in the lower brackets by providing a short and simplified form.

New York is again seriously discussing adopting the Missouri non-partisan court plan. In that instance, this State can be proud of its leadership. In the troublesome matter of income tax returns, however, we're lagging behind. Why doesn't the Missouri Legislature act while the tax-return job is still fresh in everybody's memory?

A Rebuke to the ICC

The Supreme Court's decision to hear the State of Georgia's suit against the railroads is a slap at the Interstate Commerce Commission's prestige. The ICC has an unfinished case on the same situation—a regionalized system of freight rates that favors Eastern manufacturers and penalizes Southern and Western. The implication is that the court entertain doubts that the ICC will decide soon or well.

There is ample room to doubt. After several years of documented complaints, the ICC did not open its investigation until Congress threatened to require it to do so by law. Now the case is nearly five years old. All the evidence was in many months ago, but no decision has been made. Exhaustive studies by the ICC's own experts support the Southern-Western argument by showing that the costs of providing service are actually a little lower in the South than in the East, and very little higher in the West. Why the continued hesitation, except for fear of the terrific renewed controversy that will greet any decision?

The acceptance of Georgia's suit is a needle prick for a dilatory commission. By no means does it indicate that Georgia will win. There would be something anomalous in an anti-trust verdict against practices the ICC had willingly let continue for years. Rate cases, moreover, involve such towering technicalities that the courts are properly reluctant to intervene. The odds are greatly against any judicial relief departing radically from the ICC's views.

By that same token, of course, the commission is under great obligation to administer fairly and constructively. Too often, it has been unduly sensitive to the views of those whom it is supposed to regulate. It has too often granted half-loaves when basic reforms were called for. Will the commission avoid those faults in its decision on regional discrimination? Or will it drive the South and West to go over the commission's head to Congress?

Is a New Medical School Needed?

The bill for expanding the University of Missouri's present two-year medical course to a four-year course has a superficial appeal to State pride, and it is fortunate that the House University Committee is holding extensive hearings on it before making a decision.

The fact is, of course, that an immediate step of this kind would be most impractical. Considering the great demand for medical services and the shortage of physicians, it would be impossible to obtain enough capable teachers, either full-time or part-time. Then there are the wartime difficulties of obtaining equipment and buildings for a four-year medical school. There are also future obstacles ahead that should not be overlooked.

Advocates of the plan contend that the State has too few doctors. This is true, and it is also true in other states that have more medical schools than Missouri's two. In normal times, Missouri ranks high in the number of physicians. In 1938, it had 143 doctors per 100,000 inhabitants, a higher ratio than any of the eight bordering states except Illinois, which had 152.

In any event, Missouri's past and present trouble is not so much too few doctors as uneven distribution of doctors. Merely establishing another medical school will not induce more physicians to practice in the rural districts, which need them, rather than in the cities, which are well supplied, sometimes overly supplied.

The university's Board of Curators has considered this point in its extended report on the problem, and says:

> It has not been established that the present medical school facilities of the United States are inadequate for the training of a sufficient number of doctors. When medical schools can again operate with full enrollments, there may well be a surplus supply of doctors in the urban areas in the postwar period.

Washington and St. Louis universities have excellent medical schools. There are other schools in nearby states. It should be clear that, for many years at least, there will be no need for the State to expand the university's medical course.

Text for the Networks

Radio is meant to serve the public.
It serves the public by broadcasting news.
It does not serve the public by:

(2) permitting news sponsorship by objectionable advertisers.

When will the four big networks end them?

John Lewis Needs a Sea Voyage

Albert J. Fitzgerald, national vice president of the CIO and president of the United Electrical Workers of America, is a loyal union man, but his ideas on labor policy are in considerable contrast with those of John L. Lewis. Mr. Fitzgerald recently visited Europe as a delegate to the world labor conference, and came back with some pointed comment directed at the UMWA president. Speaking at a district meeting of his union here Sunday, he said:

> It is regrettable that John L. Lewis hasn't had the chance to see at first hand the conditions existing in Europe. If he had spent the time that we did mingling also with wounded service men returning to this country, I'm quite sure that in order to live with his conscience he would also be advocating maintenance of the no-strike pledge.

This inspires a suggestion. Travel is broadening, it is often said, and a sea voyage is frequently prescribed for improving the health and disposition of a patient. Lewis has been working pretty hard of late, and a change would undoubtedly do him a lot of good.

So why doesn't Lewis take some time off and go on a trip to Europe? He would see soldiers who are depending on the home front to continue production so they can win the war and come home. He would see civilians who have undergone tremendous hardships beside which our own, including those of the coal miners, are nothing at all. Lewis ought to return from such a voyage with a fresh outlook on life and on the matter of strikes in wartime.

The Eisenhower jacket is the current fashion in the United States. In Nazi Germany, a fashion expected to be popular in the coming season is the Eisenhower straitjacket.

A Voluntary Transfer

A word of commendation is clearly due to everyone concerned in the transfer of a few Anheuser-Busch employes to more critical work. The men, members of the AFL machinists' union, voluntarily moved over into what may be unaccustomed duties and surroundings. On its part, the company pledged itself to restore them to their former jobs with full seniority rights. In the aggregate, much might be accomplished if all corporations would canvass such possibilities.

It would be a serious mistake, however, to conclude that voluntary methods can take the place of stronger ones. The way was lubricated for the Anheuser-Busch transfers because the men stay under the same employer. Apparently their new duties will use skills approximately equal to those of their old. The going is many times harder when transfers mean working for different employers, and worse still when the new duties pay lower wages.

How, except by law, can any man be forced to move in such circumstances? And if he moves, how, except by law, can he always be assured of re-employment with full rights in his old job?

Because the Army dogs in Burma have trouble with their feet when traveling over the rough jungle terrain, soft leather shoes have been devised for them. It's a dog's life, Burma style.

A NEW MIGHT IN THE WORLD

Russia Will Fight Japan

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Hirohito can't withdraw his fine Kwantung army of 600,000 from Manchukuan border because of Red Army threat, Congressman says; Russia maintains strong forces to protect new industrial empire in Siberia; war is inevitable, the question being when, he believes.

From an Address of Representative Mike Mansfield of Montana to the House of Representatives

Russia is today in the war with Japan—even though her army and navy are not fighting our enemy.

This statement is made on the basis that Russia has an army estimated at anywhere from 500,000 to 700,000 on the Manchukuan-Korean frontier. Facing this Far Eastern Army is an estimated force of 600,000 comprising the so-called Kwantung Army of Japan—an army made up of young, splendidly trained and well-equipped soldiers who have not, except in rare instances, been used elsewhere.

The Japanese cannot afford to withdraw this force because of the deep-seated antagonism between the two countries and the possibilities of Russia's taking advantage of such a situation should it ever arise.

Japanese Know Their Danger

There has been no lack of incidents between the two over the years; in fact, over 2700 minor cases of friction have developed along the Amur during the years since 1931 as well as two major battles at Changkufeng on the Korean-Siberian frontier and Nomonham on the Outer-Inner Mongolian frontier.

In both of these battles, the Japanese were decisively defeated. They are, however, realistic people and will not go to war unless they feel that the odds are in their favor or that they are forced to.

The Japanese not only realize the threat of the Far Eastern Red Army but they also fear the Red Air Force and Navy stationed at Vladivostok and Nikolaevsk. They know that Russia has from 80 to 100 submarines in the Far East, and they are aware of the damage which they could cause in the Yellow and adjacent seas. They are aware of the underground airdromes at Vladivostok, and know that striking at their industrial empire would be striking at the heart of Japan itself, so—they wait.

The Russians know how defenseless Vladivostok is. It has been heavily fortified, but lies too close to Japanese army, navy and air concentrations to hold out for long.

Siberia's Amazing Development

The Japanese have built a powerful naval and air base at Rashin in the extreme north of Korea, its sole object being to envelop and destroy Vladivostok when the "day" arrives. The chief naval base of the Soviets in the Pacific will very likely be Nikolaevsk, at the mouth of the Amur, far to the north.

Before the outbreak of the war in the Pacific, the Russians were building a connecting link between Nikolaevsk and the Trans-Siberian Railroad by means of a double-tracked extension beginning to the east of Lake Baikal and describing a great arc northward to Sovietskaya on the Pacific.

Why has the U. S. S. R. gone to such lengths to maintain an army, air force and a sizable navy in the Far East? The reasons boil down to two: first, to protect Siberia from its traditional enemy, the Japanese; and, second, behind this protective curtain, to develop the huge and undeveloped resources of the country.

Few people seem to realize that it is in mid-Siberia that the third five-year plan has been functioning since 1938. In the region of Stalinsk, great strategic plants have been developed at Krasnoiarsk and Novo Sibersk to carry out the opening up of the country. Russian Asia is the greatest area under one power on that continent, and the stepping stones used by the Soviets to open its Eastern lands are the industrial developments it undertakes.

In the region north of Manchuko, coal and iron have been discovered in great quantities and are now being exploited. If Japan ever cut into the Lake Baikal area, she could not isolate the Far East industrially because of the rise of Komsomolsk, Khabarovsk and Nikolaevsk.

Showdown Must Occur

The Chita region is rich in tin, molybdenum, tungsten and wolframite. Komsomolsk has petroleum refineries and steel mills. Nikolaevsk has shipyards as well as refineries and plants for the canning of food. In the Maritime Province there are many minerals of great importance.

Then there is the Arctic which has, for the first time in history, really been opened. Prof. Otto Schmidt, the great Soviet Arctic explorer, has likened the development of the Arctic to the discovery of America.

Our knowledge of great, rich, undeveloped Siberia is not all that it should be, but the times call for an understanding of its importance. It will, because of its location, play a very important part in settling the war in Asia.

On the basis of past history, a showdown must occur at some time between Japan and the U. S. S. R. I do not know what, if any, agreements concerning Japan have been entered into between Russia and the United Nations, but I am certain that the differences between Japan and the U. S. S. R. are too great to be overcome except by clash of arms.

These two countries are going to war, and it is not a question of "if" but "when." Of that we may be absolutely certain. The time, however, will depend on circumstances we cannot foresee.

PLUG-UGLY REVOLT GROWS

From Tide, Advertising Journal.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch not long ago angrily attacked much of the advertising that accompanies news broadcasts, urged the networks to follow the lead of its own station, KSD, and ban middle-commercials and patent medicine plugs. The newspaper later let loose with another blast at the "pill-barrage which fails to mention few parts of the body from skin to viscera in a news broadcast."

Reactions were speedy: Federal Communications Commissioner Ray C. Wakefield applauded the campaign, as did John W. Vandercook, president of the Association of Radio News Analysts. Commentator Raymond Gram Swing chipped in by citing his revolt against middle plugs in 1940. Paul W. White, director of news broadcasts for the Columbia Broadcasting System, pointed out that CBS had axed distasteful advertising for 10 years, still did not agree that middle commercials were necessarily objectionable. CBS, he stated, had ousted plugs preceding important news.

Meantime, the Post-Dispatch got support from the Indianapolis News, which took the same stand editorially, stated that its Station WIBC had also outlawed middle commercials in newscasts.

A Favorable Report on Russia By Another American Traveler

"The Soviet Spirit," by Harry F. Ward. (International Publishers, New York.)

Many men have made trips to the Soviet Union, and any who visits that continent in fermentation can find evidence to document whatever enthusiasm or prejudice is most easily aroused in his breast. W. L. White saw little but drabness, dullness and distress as he accompanied Eric Johnston last year. Dr. Ward, who made a brief visit there in 1924, and seven years later returned for a year's stay, sensed the change in the spirit of the nation in travail, and his book is a good antidote for Mr. White's.

Not without reason has Dr. Ward focused on the spirit, for he taught in theological schools for over 25 years, founded the Methodist Federation of Social Service and has preached the social gospel through many books. I finished reading the present volume with the feeling that he found it almost as hard to see the Russians' faults as White did to see their virtues.

The gravamen of his presentation is that the planners of the Soviet state have developed an efficient substitute for the profit motive as "free enterprise" countries know it. This he describes by the phrase, "What's ours is mine." In revolution-racked 1918, Lenin had proclaimed that the opportunity had come for a "mass display of enterprise, competition and bold initiative."

There were bloody tergiversations, such as the encouragement and then expropriation of the Nepmen, the division of estates among the peasants and then the war on the Kulaks. At length, however, the Stalinists found the means to cause the working masses to feel that they collectively owned the increase in Russia's capital plant, and that this was of individual personal benefit to each of them.

The author has been at great pains to project this pre-war psychic change into the efforts of the Russian nation during the war. The data he has collected on this is perhaps the most important element of the book, for it throws some light on the almost miraculous nature of Russia's capacity to achieve through sacrifice.

I suspect Dr. Ward is right in attributing most of the Russian miracle to the springs within the inner being of the tens of millions who have fought, and produced, and starved and died that Russia might live. Fear could not have been the mighty engine for all of this triumph over almost unbelievable adversity.

During the hard years in which Stalin was amassing the greatest quick pile of capital the world ever saw gathered—taking it from the living of the people—nonetheless there was a new sense of participation among the rank and file in the ordering of their own destiny, a sense that they possessed a stake in life which their progenitors had never had.

I came back from a visit to Russia in 1936 with a feeling that it was the land of a people reborn, that it was young in the years of its national life, looked on knowledge as power, and on the future as important, not the past.

A Book of Fine Photographs

"Horst: Photographs of a Decade," Edited by George Davis. (J. J. Augustin, New York.)

This is a collection of the magic captured by the camera lens of Horst P. Horst, a first-rank photographer, from 1934 to 1944. It includes fashion photography and pictures of celebrities.

Mr. Horst's pictures are splendid examples of the camera's art. His foreword explains that his profession requires genuinely hard work. Yet his version of the prerequisites of good photography is surprisingly simple. Mr. Horst is now serving in the United States Army.

WALTER LIPPMANN

The German Rubble

THE enormity of the German condition is just beginning to be dimly visible, now that an important region like the Rhineland is in Allied hands. No one, I think, had imagined in advance what would be the consequences when a highly developed nation, though unmistakably defeated, is unable to surrender.

There has been much discussion among us about whether we should demand an unconditional surrender, or offer Germany terms of surrender. The debate has turned out to be meaningless. For under either formula there had to be some German national authority, the successor to the Nazi power, to accept the formula.

But what Hitler has succeeded in doing is to arrange it so that there is in existence no national authority of any kind to follow him, none which can surrender Germany as a national state, be it conditionally or unconditionally.

No Anti-Nazi Underground.

If, as many have wished to believe, there were in Germany an organized underground resistance movement, comparable to that which existed in the occupied countries, it must by this time have shown its hand.

We know, of course, that there are individuals and even groups of German anti-Nazis who at great personal risk have committed sabotage and espionage to help the Allies. But there is no evidence that they have been part of a national resistance movement which has been preparing underground to take over power as the Nazis fall.

If there were such a movement, it would, one must suppose, have come to the surface somewhere in one of the many German towns in the Rhineland which are armies have overrun.

Powerful and terrifying as is the Gestapo, it cannot be so omnipresent in the chaos of the retreat across the Rhine that nowhere as yet has an underground committee been able to seize a city and be in control when we entered it.

This is all the more striking when we remember how we have hitherto explained why there is no popular rebellion in Germany. The usual explanation, which in the earlier years was probably sufficient, has been that an unarmed population cannot rise up against an armed and ruthless government.

Defense Not Fanatical.

But since last summer a very large part of the male civilian population have been armed, and have been thrown into the fighting as a so-called people's army. They were well-enough armed to cause us a good deal of trouble in the Siegfried line, and so it can hardly be argued that they were not well enough armed to overpower the Gestapo somewhere.

It has also been argued that there is no German popular uprising because our terms are so harsh, the fear of Russia so great, that Goebbels has been able by propaganda to inspire a fanatical resistance. We are finding that once Gen. Eisenhower broke through the fixed position, the people's army has not fought fanatically. The notion that the German people are making an heroic but suicidal defense of their homeland is a myth.

The heroic and suicidal defense is being carried out by that remnant of the German Army which consists of Panzer divisions and paratroopers. But the civilian army has neither the fanaticism to die rather than to surrender, nor the patriotic courage to rise up and save, if not Germany, then at least a few German cities, from useless devastation.

The situation is, of course, different from what we found in Italy. But in one important respect Italy gave us a faint hint of what is to come in Germany. It is that after 10 or 15 years of totalitarian rule, those who might like to restore some sort of free government are, if not dead, then too enfeebled by persecution, or too old, or too young and inexperienced, to take over power effectively.

Military Rebellion Failed.

In Germany the totalitarian process of corrupting the will power and reason of men was carried out with a systematic thoroughness which was never possible, or attempted, in Italy. And that is why we are finding that the German civilian population does not rebel against the Nazis nor die rather than surrender to us.

Stalin, who has been well-informed about Germany, appears to have understood from the beginning that the Nazi power would not be overthrown by a popular rebellion, that neither the old Social Democrats and trade unionists, nor the Communists, were capable of organizing and leading a rebellion.

The only possible candidate for the leadership of a rebellion was the hereditary Prussian military caste. Last July it made a serious attempt to overthrow Hitler. But it was a failure, and almost certainly the reason was that the Prussian officers have themselves been so corrupted by Nazism that they were incapable of organizing an efficient conspiracy.

The State Disintegrates.

The effect of their failure was to deliver them into Hitler's hands, and to enable him to destroy their power to bring about an unconditional surrender of the whole of Germany.

What we are witnessing now is a spectacle which the word defeat no longer describes. It is the disintegration of Germany as a national state. Like the cities, Germany as a corporate entity is being reduced to rubble. In a house which has been blasted by a bomb, the materials which were the house are still there but they are dust and loose stones and bits of metal and wood.

In Germany there will remain individuals, families, villages, and even populated towns. But the institutional structure will have been so broken down everywhere, and in many parts so pulverized, that we cannot yet imagine how Germany is to be governed by the Allies, and how from the ruin a German political society is to be constructed again.

MARQUIS CHILDS

How Eisenhower Operates

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, A. E. F.

SIDE by side on one wall of Gen. Eisenhower's private office are etchings of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, each inscribed with friendly warmth to the Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force.

The only other pictures in the almost severe room are of his family. In a folding leather frame on his desk are photographs of his wife and his son, Lt. John S. D. Eisenhower. On a bookcase across the room, on a level with his eyes when he looks up, is a photograph of his mother.

The latter picture is remarkable for its simplicity. His mother, wearing a gingham dress, is seated in a rocking chair on the front porch of her home in Abilene, Kan. Bright sunlight makes a kind of halo of her white hair.

Usually on the Road.

Only two smallish maps are on the walls of the room. One is a detailed relief map of an important sector of the Rhine.

The Supreme Commander's office, like the entire headquarters building, has an almost surgical neatness. In it, Eisenhower receives military leaders and civilian dignitaries from all over the world. His aides make every effort to keep appointments moving with clock-like precision. When some bigwig is late, they fret impatiently.

The General spends more time touring the fronts in his motorized caravan than he spends at headquarters. He has one trailer for personal use and one for an office. Accommodations are also provided for his aides. The caravan is so set up that the whole party can be on the road in half an hour. As a matter of protocol, Eisenhower never visits his commanders without advance notice. He sends word asking if he can come, and naturally the answer is always yes. With most of the top men in his command, he is on terms of personal friendship.

His Persbnal Team.

The Supreme Commander also has his own plane and crew. This gives him even greater mobility in getting about the far-flung fronts.

The team immediately around him has remained almost unchanged during his term as No. 1. The individuals closest to him are his personal aides. Serving in that capacity today are Lt. Col. James F. Gault of the Scots Guards and Lt. Col. Ernest R. Lee of San Antonio, Tex.

In a way, these two men typify Eisenhower's command. They could hardly be more nearly opposites in background and outward manner. Gault is very British, and Lee is very Texan.

A third aide is Capt. Harry Butcher, an old friend who was with Eisenhower during the entire French invasion. Butcher, a former vice president of Columbia Broadcasting Co., took a commission in the Navy at the outset of the war and was promptly assigned as an aide to Eisenhower.

The Supreme Commander also dislikes personal publicity. He looks back to the tradition established in World War I by Gen. Pershing, who also tried to avoid personal exploitation.

Another model to whom Gen. Eisenhower looks is his chief in Washington, Gen. George C. Marshall. When he speaks of Marshall, it is in terms of almost reverent admiration for a man whom he believes to be among the very greatest Americans.

He Plans to Go Fishing.

Eisenhower is keenly aware of the currents of opinion back home. He believes that volatile shifts from pessimism to optimism harm the war effort. As he sees it, there is nothing to do but work and fight until victory comes.

He himself, of course, made a public prediction that the war would end in 1944, and he has not been allowed to forget that prediction. But it was based on the assumption that the German leaders would follow a logical course and surrender before their entire country was in ruins.

The long-term mood of the German people would have dictated capitulation in September or October, when the borders of Germany were reached by the Allies. A recent tour of occupied Germany has set the Supreme Commander to wondering whether the nation will ever recover from the knockout blows now being dealt to it.

When pressed, he has said his own post-war plans do not go beyond six months of fishing on some quiet stream bank. He knows how much the war has taken out of him and out of millions of others whose unceasing concern, 24 hours a day and seven days a week, is final victory.

ST. LOUISAN HELPED KILL 200 JAPS ON GUAM

Pfc. Norman Daugherty Fired Machine Gun Till It Was Burned Out.

Pfc. Norman E. Daugherty of St. Louis was one of six Marine machine-gunners who killed more than 200 Japanese soldiers in 20 minutes in repelling a predawn charge on Guam, a delayed Marine dispatch reported.

Pfc. Daugherty, sent forward with others to relieve besieged comrades near the old Marine barracks on Orote peninsula, dug his foxhole about 11 o'clock at night. The Japanese had made three damaging charges, and all night small groups of them raced forward, screaming, "Banzai!" and swinging their sabers and bayonets in the grass. Some Americans were killed.

Just before daylight, the enemy massed and rushed at the Marines. Only six Marine machine guns were still in action. "In the next 20 minutes," Daugherty said, "I never had time to get a good aim. They came too fast. I burned up the barrel on 'Sweet William,' my gun, after about 2500 rounds. He told Sgt. Edward F. Ruder, Marine Corps combat correspondent also from St. Louis: "Don't know how many I got. Anyway, don't make me out a hero. Just a scared duck, that was me."

Pfc. Daugherty formerly lived with his wife at 3012A Park avenue. She now lives at Lilbourn, Mo. Ruder is the son of Fred Ruder, 4735 Newport avenue.

Cardinal Employe on Destroyer.

Navy Lt. Mel Jones, former Cardinal publicity director, recently was taking a sunbath aboard a destroyer in the Pacific when a Japanese plane dropped a bomb. It missed the ship, and before another bomb could be loosed, naval gunners shot the plane flaming into the sea, Lt. Jones wrote to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Jones, 4942 Lansdowne avenue. The former baseball press agent, who worked for the Brooklyn Dodgers after leaving St. Louis, has completed nearly a year's sea duty in the Pacific, participating in the Palau invasion and in recent Philippine operations. He is assigned with units directing fighter planes in the interception of enemy aircraft.

First Lt. Eugene T. Fechtler was among troop carrier pilots who transported fresh American reinforcements from Cherbourg, France, to the Italian front last fall, a delayed Associated Press dispatch reported. The dispatch was held up by the censor since last Oct. 30. Lt. Fechtler is the son of Mrs. Augusta Bennett, 754 Ponce avenue. He previously was reported a recipient of the Air Medal for his part in the invasion of Southern France.

Kenneth A. Fleck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Fleck, 9 Monticello drive, St. Louis County, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the field March 11, an Army announcement from the Philippines said. He had been a Master Sergeant with the 598th Air Raid Warning Battalion, with which he is now serving as a technical officer. Lt. Fleck entered the Army in January, 1942, and previously served in Hawaii.

St. Louisans on Torpedoed Ship.

Seven St. Louis Coast Guardsmen were members of the crew of a transport torpedoed recently in Philippine waters while returning to its base after landing troops on Luzon, a Coast Guard correspondent reported. The vessel was not sunk.

The men were listed as Boatswain's Mate Noel E. Hutchings, 612 Raymond avenue; Steward's Mate James R. Campbell, 3023 Laclede avenue; Signalman Melvin H. Weisbrod, 2704 Osage street; Ship's Cook Joseph F. Schroeder, 4324 Lee avenue; Seaman Henry B. Braucksieker, 5915 Wabada avenue; Motor Machinist's Mate James L. Womble, 3450 Miami street, and Seaman Chester I. Abernathy, 4714 Minnesota avenue.

The torpedoing took place at night, when most of the crew was asleep. Crippled by the blast, the vessel was taken in tow and reached an anchorage six days later.

Eight St. Louisans were listed in a Fifth Army dispatch as members of the 387th Engineer Battalion, which recently has been operating a sawmill and rock quarry in the Serchio Valley near the Po plains in Italy. They are Pfc. Samuel Hill, 2123 First street; Pvt. Lewis W. Dothard, 3905 West Belle place; Pvt. Thomas D. Edmonds, 2127A Cole street; Pvt. Edwin B. Crenshaw, 4585 Garfield avenue; Pvt. David N. Burton, 4606 Cottage street; Pvt. Cornell T. Wilkins, 2234 Clark avenue; Pvt. Alex Harris, 4201 Page street, and Pvt. James E. Shobe, 1206 Theresa avenue.

With a Ninety-first (Powder River) Division signal company, recently maintaining wire communications along Highway 65 on the road to Bologna on the Italian front, are Sgt. Frank C. Longo, 2516 Belt avenue; Pfc. Glennon J. Godfrey, 4948 Wabada avenue; Pvt. Golden H. Drew, 3633 South Broadway; Pfc. Melvin Husman, 4420 North Twentieth street; Technician Fifth Grade Leo Friedhoff, 2647 Carson road, Wellston, and Pfc. Sylvester Goldman, 6334 South Rosebury avenue, Clayton. They were listed in a Fifth Army dispatch from Italy.

SARAH CHURCHILL DESERTED HIM, VIC OLIVER CHARGES

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—Vic Oliver, radio and stage entertainer, testified yesterday in uncontested divorce proceedings against Sarah Churchill Oliver, daughter of Prime Minister Churchill, that his wife deserted him in September, 1941.

Mrs. Oliver is now an officer in the British Women's Auxiliary Air Force. The suit was adjourned following Oliver's testimony, pending proof of the marriage in New York on Christmas eve, 1936.

Oliver told the Court the marriage was blissful for two years, then "small rifts" appeared because his wife and himself both are self-willed and fond of their own way. He asserted he asked her to return in a written appeal Aug. 25, 1944, but received only a notice of refusal from her attorney.

MISSOURI MINING ENGINEER KILLED BY JAP CAMP GUARD

J. Howard Hell, a mining engineer in the Philippines since 1937, was shot and killed by a Japanese guard at the Los Banos internment camp on Luzon last Jan. 16, six weeks before prisoners at the camp were rescued by American troops, his sister, Miss Reba Hell, 4630 Westminster place, learned today.

J. Howard Hell

Hell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hell of Rolla, was captured with the fall of Manila in January, 1942, after he fled to the capital from Tazabas Province where he was employed by a mining company, Miss Hell said. His family had not heard from him since he was taken prisoner.

He was working in the camp's vegetable garden late in the afternoon when, without warning and without provocation, a Japanese guard shot him, Miss Hell said she was informed in a letter from a friend who was with him at the time. He was 33 years old.

'BLITHE SPIRIT' BACK AT AMERICAN

Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," which vastly amused local theatergoers last year with its triangle story of a man and his two wives, one living, one dead, returned to the American Theater last night for a one-week engagement.

The cast this time is headed by Reginald Denny as the husband, Mona Barrie as his better half among the living, Lilian Harvey as his better half among the astral people, and Renie Riano as Madam Arcati, the spiritualist.

While, individually, these people do not quite measure up to last year's company, which was headed by Clifton Webb as the novelist and Haila Stoddard as the astral body, they do manage, as a team, to give Coward's play what it needs for successful projection to the audience. J. B.

IWO PHOTO FOR MEMORIAL

COLUMBUS, O., March 27 (AP).—The Franklin County Memorial Auditorium committee voted yesterday to use Associated Press Photographer Joe Rosenthal's photograph of United States Marines raising the American flag atop Mount Suribachi on Iwo as a model for a monument which would be erected in front of this county's proposed new auditorium.

H. X. Eschenbrenner, committee vice chairman, suggested the picture because "no work of art could portray more accurately or symbolize more strikingly the sacrifices of our servicemen in this war."

HOUSE VOTES BILL FOR JOINT REVISION OF MISSOURI LAWS

Measure Already Approved by Senate — Changes Necessary Under New Constitution.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 27.—The House this afternoon passed the Senate concurrent resolution authorizing the joint planning committee of the two houses to prepare for approval of the Legislature the procedure to be followed in revising the statutes to meet the requirements of the new Constitution.

The House action opens the way for expeditious and orderly handling of the legislation, for its apportionment between the two houses to save time and for cooperation with the committee on legislative research in the preparation of the several hundred bills which will be needed.

Although no definite caucus action was taken by the Republicans on approval of the resolution, it was discussed in caucus yesterday and a tentative agreement for approval was reached.

Minimum Wage Bill Killed.

Proposed minimum wage legislation for Missouri was killed unceremoniously by the Senate Criminal Jurisprudence Committee last night without even hearing opponents of the measure and despite appearance for the bill of many statewide church, civic and labor groups.

Although no opposition to the bill was presented to the committee, business men in the cities, rural employers and many farmers had indicated antagonism to the legislation in letters to Senators.

The committee hearing was held in the spacious Senate lounge, which was filled to capacity with persons seeking passage of the measure. The committee listened to arguments of the proponents for nearly two hours.

200,000 Workers Affected.

Mrs. Jean Carroll of Kirkwood, president of the State League of Women Voters and state chairman of the Citizens' Committee for a Minimum Wage Law, said passage of the bill was necessary for 200,000 workers not included in the federal wage-hour law.

In pointing out that there were 67,000 workers in Missouri receiving less than 40 cents an hour, Mrs. Carroll explained that 75 per cent of this group were women.

"In St. Louis," Mrs. Carroll said, "I know of maids in hotels receiving 14 cents an hour, and 86 per cent of the women employed in power laundries receive less than 40 cents an hour."

The measure, sponsored by Senators Joseph A. Falzone of Clayton and Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, attempted to set a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for all workers except agricultural and domestic employes and those working for an employer hiring fewer than four persons.

Falzone, in presenting the bill to the committee, said that inadequate wages had created sweatshops in Missouri and also affected the health, safety, welfare and morals of the people.

W. F. Lubbock of St. Louis, representing the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, appeared in support of the bill as did representatives of the CIO, AFL, Catholic and Protestant church organizations and various civic groups.

Few Questions Asked.

Few questions were asked persons appearing for the measure by members of the committee, who listened courteously throughout the hearing, although a majority was opposed to such legislation. However, after the hearing closed, the committee went into executive session and within 15 minutes reported the vote had been that the measure "do not pass."

Without oposition, the Senate yesterday moved through the early perfection stage the Keating bill for payment of $5 a day to members of the Legislature for board and lodging when away from home on legislative business. The bill is applicable only to the present session of the Legislature.

NLRB RECOGNIZES FOREMEN'S GROUPS AS BARGAINING UNITS

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The National Labor Relations Board reversed itself on an issue of major importance yesterday by recognizing foremen's groups as collective bargaining units under the Wagner Act.

Ruling in the case of the Packard Motor Car Co., Detroit, and the Foremen's Association of America, which describes itself as an independent organization, the board upset its previous decision in the Maryland Drydock case, handed down in May, 1943. As a consequence of the decision, about 1100 supervisors at the Packard plants will vote within 60 days on whether or not they wish to be represented by the Foremen's Association.

MAN WHO RETURNED $1400 TURNS DOWN $2 REWARD OFFER

Finder of $100 in Same Store Given $25 by Loser.

G. W. Altvater, a clerk at the Abeln Cigar and Tobacco Co., 3928 South Broadway, has decided it is more profitable to find money in small sums than in large amounts.

Last Friday, the proprietor of a neighborhood market was in the tobacco store. He left a paper bag on the counter. A few minutes later he returned and excitedly asked for the bag, which Altvater had found. Altvater gave it to him. With the comment that the bag contained nearly $1400 he had withdrawn from the bank to cash checks, the man extended two $1 bills as a reward. Altvater refused them.

"I didn't really expect any reward for finding the money," Altvater said. But a week earlier a customer found a $100 bill in the store. When the owner claimed it, he left $25 for the finder."

from the mainland to attack us. The sign said:

"Keep alert — remember your poor scared pals on the ship!"

Tried to Surprise Foe.

WE didn't know whether our first planes over the mainland would surprise the Japs or not. It didn't seem possible, yet there were no indications that they knew.

For two days on our approach we had been knocking off Jap reconnaissance planes and picket boats. We hoped we had got these scattered planes and boats before they had time to radio back home the news of our presence. One of our 'estroyers had even sat all day on top of a Jap submarine to keep him from coming to the top and sending a warning.

But still we didn't know for sure, so there was tenseness that first morning. We knew almost exactly what time our first planes would be over the Tokyo area.

We went to the radio room to listen. The usual Japanese programs were on the air. We watched the clock. Suddenly—at just the right time—the Jap stations all went off the air.

There was silence for a few minutes. And then the most Donald Duck-like screaming and jabbering you ever heard. The announcer was so excited you had to laugh.

We knew our boys were there. After that, for us on the ship, it was just a matter of waiting, and hoping. And as the blackboard sign said, of being poor scared pals.

OPA PUTS NEW RESTRICTIONS ON C GASOLINE COUPONS

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The OPA tightened today its regulations governing issuance of C gasoline coupons. In addition to reducing gasoline consumption, the changes are designed to increase uniformity among local boards.

Some drivers now holding C rations will be placed in a new semi-preferred group; others will be eligible only for B rations.

The new regulations set up rigid requirements for persons who travel to essential plants to give technical or specialized service. C rations will be granted only if the work is necessary to the primary function of such plants, and then only if the work is done under contract or specific request and paid for separately by the plant.

The new semi-preferred classification with a ceiling of 825 miles a month is established to cover some motorists now receiving C rations. If his work is necessary to an essential plant but does not meet the requirements of prior request and separate payment, a motorist may qualify for the new classification.

MEAT FOR CITY INSTITUTIONS IN APRIL PLEDGED BY PACKERS

An adequate supply of meat for residents of city institutions was assured for April, and probably for May, by St. Louis packers who met today in the office of Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann and pledged the amounts of beef, lamb, pork and fats they would furnish.

William R. Orthwein, Supply Commissioner, had announced previously that the city's request for bids on meat for April had elicited only proposals to furnish pickled pigs' knuckles and sausage meats. He said 90,000 pounds of meat, including 40,000 jounds of beef, were needed each month.

Eight packers preparing Government-inspected meat and a group of 14 preparing meat locally-inspected agreed to furnish the beef; one agreed to furnish pork loins, kidneys and jowls; two said they would supply ham, two bacon, seven sausage meats and two lamb. Arrangements were made for obtaining mutton, lard, oleomargarine, butter and vegetable shortening.

412,000 MAN-DAYS LOST IN 310 STRIKES IN FEBRUARY

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—About 109,000 workers were idle 412,000 man days as a result of 310 work stoppages in February, the Labor Department reported yesterday. Idleness amounted to 6-100 of one per cent of available working time.

The preliminary estimate for February showed an increase over the previous month, when there were 240 stoppages affecting 44,000 workers. In February of last year there were 340 stoppages involving 146,348 workers.

65 KILLED ON U. S. CRUISER BY JAP TORPEDO AT LEYTE

47 Others Hurt on Honolulu, Hit Oct. 20 in Air Attack — Ship Seriously Damaged.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—A Japanese aerial torpedo seriously damaged the light cruiser Honolulu on the first day of the Leyte invasion last Oct. 20, killing 65 crewmen and wounding 47.

The Navy, reporting this today, said the 10,000-ton cruiser is back in this country for repairs and will fight again. It made the 12,000-mile trip to the United States under its own power.

First disclosure of damage to the Honolulu, known to its crew as the "Blue Goose," came in Adm. Ernest J. King's annual report. The Navy later released details.

Ship Hit Near Magazines.

The Honolulu was part of a naval force that supported Gen. Douglas MacArthur's first landing in the Philippines. It had hurled tons of shells at the Japanese on Oct. 19 and resumed the bombardment the following day until MacArthur's troops hit the beach.

Then it took up a position off shore to await further firing instructions. In the afternoon, the Japanese torpedo plane struck. Lookouts saw the plane sneaking in and sounded the alarm. The skipper, Capt. H. R. Thurber of Hoquiam, Wash., maneuvered the ship, but the torpedo struck amidships near the magazines of a five-inch and a 40-mm. gun. Only a few shells exploded, but two fires broke out and several compartments were flooded.

Thurber ran the cruiser into shallow water and pumping operations were started. Within a short time, the ship was ready to head home.

The Honolulu, commissioned in 1937, normally carries about 870 men.

Reporter's Story of Heroism.

With Adm. King's announcement of damage to the cruiser, the censors released a story by Leif Erickson, Associated Press correspondent, who had sailed to Leyte on the Honolulu. Erickson left the ship in an observation plane 20 minutes before it was hit and returned an hour later to find the vessel listing sharply to port. His delayed story was dated Oct. 21.

Erickson said the torpedo hit just forward of the bridge superstructure. A flaming blast shattered a compartment where a Marine antiaircraft crew was berthed. Quartermaster 1C Robert D. Vodden of Fresno, Cal., the ship's boxing champion, went down to the compartment and helped drag out eight men. Five were dead.

Radioman 3-C Leon Garsian of Union City, N. J., was trapped for 16 hours in a radio compartment below decks before a repair crew could cut through a bulkhead with acetylene torches to rescue him.

A phone connection was established with Garsian, sealed in a small compartment with watertight doors holding off a flood of water and oil in all compartments around and above him.

From the flag bridge, Erickson talked with him over the phone. Garsian told Erickson he could feel the water leak in through the door at first. The blast had blown out the lights and he was in blackness.

"I had a mattress down here," Garsian said. "I ripped it open and stuffed padding around the door. I got the water stopped. Everything's under control in here now."

Torches Start Fire in Room.

Garsian knew the compartment near him had been flooded and that all hands on watch there had been lost. But he wisecracked, "I'm hungry now. I guess I'll get pretty hungry before they can get me out of here."

Later Garsian told a phone watcher he was going to sleep. A nightlong watch was kept on the phone line.

By morning the flood in a compartment next to Garsian's had been pumped out so that an acetylene crew could reach it. The acetylene flame started a fire in Garsian's compartment. He phoned to the crew to stop until he got the fire out. This wasn't difficult because the water in the radio compartment then was three feet deep. Garsian finally was rescued in good condition.

Erickson said that as Capt. Thurber maneuvered the cruiser toward shallow water, an antiaircraft fragment from a nearby ship hit the Honolulu's high rigging, bringing it crashing down on 40-mm. ammunition clips behind an AA gunmount. Three or four rounds of ammunition exploded, killing two men and wounding six.

The damage control job directed by Lt. David P. Klain of Los Angeles and his assistant, Lt. Louis S. Clapper of Unionville, Mo., was universally praised by all hands.

$212,884 IN INTEREST EARNED BY CITY FUNDS IN 3 YEARS

City funds have earned $212,884 in the last three years through interest from investments, chiefly war bonds, it was announced yesterday by Comptroller Louis Nolte.

Nolte said the city now has 12 million dollars invested in Series C tax certificates, and $500,000 in a 1 per cent time deposit in a St. Louis bank. The majority of the accrued funds has come from interest on the tax certificates, he added. Part was derived from the sale of three million dollars in 2 per cent treasury bonds which were sold on an advantageous market last November, Nolte said. The money was reinvested in tax certificates.

LEADERS RALLY FROM RECENT STOCK BREAK

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP).—The stock market rallied today despite a fresh crop of victory rumors and continued apprehension over a possible Washington crackdown on speculation.

Prices came back fractions to more than 2 points in a brisk first-hour upswing. Dealings then slowed and top marks were reduced as board room attention turned to battlefront bulletins. There was another recovery shift when General Eisenhower, while reporting that the German defenses in the west had been broken, denied unconditional surrender was in the offing. Transfers for the full proceedings exceeded 1,000,000 shares.

Most leaders were above their lows and under the peaks near the close.

Bidding was inspired by the thought the list had been oversold. Caution still was the watchword, though, and many customers held aloof.

New Highs for 1945.

Sales footed up 1,110,000 shares, compared with 1,390,000 shares yesterday.

Of the 953 issues traded in today, 474 were higher, 281 lower and 198 unchanged. Nine made new 1945 highs and 73 new 1945 lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up .3 of a point at 59.3.

Highs for 1945 were recorded for Hudson Motors and Willys-Overland. In front were Western Pacific common and preferred, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, M-K-T preferred, Nickel Plate preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Grumman Aircraft Homestake Mining, Dome Mines, Standard Oil (N. J.) and Baldwin certificates. Laggards included Consolidated Edison, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Woolworth.

Trend on the Curb.

Supported in the Curb were Baldwin Locomotive warrants, Cities Service, Transwestern Oil and Mining Corporation of Canada.

Rail securities, while having to contend with a batch of income figures for February showing numerous substantial drops from the like 1944 month, were buoyed by the action of Western Pacific directors in voting four dividends on both the road's common and preferred stocks, first since the line's reorganization.

Transportation equipment issues had the benefit of word the Pennsylvania Railroad had placed orders for 50 steam locomotives. Transcontinental & Western Air announced fare cuts ranging up to 17 per cent and averaging 10 per cent, effective May 1. A pleasing earnings statement aided Douglas Aircraft.

SECONDARY RAILS RISE IN QUIET, MIXED BOND LIST

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP).—Limited gains in a list of secondary rails featured an otherwise quiet and slightly irregular bond market today.

At the start of the final hour gainers of fractions generally and in some cases a point included bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Alton, St. Paul, Rock Island, Florida East Coast, New Haven and Peoria & Eastern. Issues of the New York Central and Missouri Pacific trended lower.

Holding advanced positions at times were, among others, Detroit Edison 3½s, Nickel Plate 3¾s, Southern Railway general 6s and Standard Oil (New Jersey) 2¾s. U. S. Governments were quiet but steady.

Lehigh Valley 4½s and 5s dropped back major fractions to more than a point, under light offerings. Others leaning to the off side included New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s, Susquehanna refunding 5s and Cotton Belt second 4s.

Two new bond issues totaling more than $100,000,000 and a block of preferred stock occupied new financing markets.

Heading the list in size was 80 million dollars of Pacific Gas & Electric Co. first and refunding mortgage 3 per cent bonds offered at 107⅝ by a nation-wide group headed by Blyth & Co. Proceeds from the issue, sold at competitive bidding on Monday at 106.879, will be used to retire outstanding 4s due in 1964.

The market shied away from top prices in many cases before the close. Rock Island 4½s closed at 56⅛, off ¾, after getting up to 56¾ at one time. Childs Co. 5s lost 2½ at 93, and Delaware & Hudson 4s gave up a fraction at 103¼. Goodrich 4¼s moved up ¾ to 105⅞, and Katy 5s added a point at 91.

The series 14 and 30 of Brazilian bonds were down 2 to 3 points, but other foreign dollar bonds were steady.

CORPORATION REPORTS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 27 (AP).—Douglas Aircraft Co. reported net income of $7,685,227 for the year ended Nov. 30, 1944, or $12.81 a capital share, compared with $5,952,257 for the preceding year, or $9.92 a share.

The company set aside $2,715,000 as a provision for contingencies in the recent period but allocated $6,950,000 for this reason in the fisca year ended Nov. 30, 1943.

Renegotiations of the 1943 earnings determined that no refunds were necessary and it is unlikely that any renegotiation payments will be required for 1944, it was said.

NEENAH, Wis., March 27 (AP).—Cola G. Parker, president of Kimberly-Clark Corporation, reported the paper products firm netter $1,853,000 or $3.09 a share on common stock for the year ending Dec. 31, 1944. Previous year's earnings were $1,801,000, or $3.69 a share. Per share earnings decreased, Parker said, because of an increase in the number of outstanding common shares during 1944.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Certain-teed Products Corporation reports for 1944 net profit of $692,169 after reserves of $100,000, equal to $21.58 a share on 32,070 shares of $6 preferred stock, on which there are arrears. In 1943 profit was $750,249, equal to $11.13 a share on 67,373 shares of preferred outstanding.

GRAIN RANGE ERRATIC ON WAR NEWS, RUMOR

CHICAGO, March 27 (AP).—Unconfirmed armistice rumors caused a sharp dip in grain futures today, but after a half-hour's selling, the market responded to lack of confirmation and regained most of the losses.

The market was steady at the start and took on a firm tone on commission house buying. Then came war rumors and all grains dipped under selling that carried wheat and rye more than a cent under the day's high.

Wheat recovered most of its losses, but the trade was of a nervous nature and pit traders declined to make commitments until more certain just how near the end of the war in Europe may be.

Corn was under considerable commission house pressure during the session. Oats finished higher.

Rye was away to a good start following the opening, traders appeared to be under the impression the market's position favored a rally, but rumors threw them off their stride. After a sharp break sufficient buying power developed to carry the brown cereal above yesterday's close.

Barley was weak and closed more than a cent lower than yesterday.

At the close wheat was ⅛ to ⅝c higher than yesterday's close; corn was ⅛ to ⅝c lower, Oats were ⅛ to ⅜c higher, rye was unchanged to ¼c higher, barley was 1¼ to 1½c lower.

The Commodity Credit Corporation reported a total of 11,699,096 pounds of flour exported in the week ended March 23. Venezuela was the largest customer, taking approximately 3 million pounds of the total.

The cumulative total was 364,935,666 pounds which the CCC said was equivalent to approximately 8,575,000 bushels of wheat.

Local Grain Receipts.

Local grain receipts were: Wheat, 3 cars local and 24 through; corn, 36 local and 41 through; oats, 8 local and 4 through; barley, 2 through.

Bonita and the Wolf

She Prefers Him To His Antithesis

By Earl Wilson

NEW YORK.

MISS BONITA GRANVILLE, 22, came out today in favor of wolves.

"Of course, I go out with wolves," announced the bubbling blond beauty who was snuggling up close to me on a davenport. Once more I was going through hell to get a story. A photographer was insisting that Miss Granville edge closed and closer to me.

BONITA GRANVILLE

"What guy is not a wolf?" she continued. "I don't like namby-pamby men, and I don't like men who don't have that roving eye . . . as long as they're gentlemen with me. I'm not interested in men who are overly nice and all sweetness and light. They're pretty dull."

"But," I protested, "one Hollywood actress—I think it was Michele Morgan—told me that the wolves should be driven out of Hollywood."

"I think some more wolves should be driven into Hollywood," said Miss Granville, wriggling away from me to the other end of the davenport, now that the picture-taking was done.

"I'VE HEARD SOME of these girls say, 'Oh, oh, oh, he's such a wolf, I had such a terrible struggle with him,' " continued the pretty heroine of this hunk of living literature. "I've never had a struggle in my life! Anyway, a struggle never hurt a girl if she leaves the answer no."

"Do you mean you're not only in favor of wolves, but struggles, too?" I asked, shocked. "Hold page one open."

"I WENT OUT WITH the biggest wolf in Hollywood and have never found a nicer gentleman in my life—George Raft," she said. "I went dancing with him at Mocambo, and my mother went out with us. He was a gentleman from the word go." Here we were, talking about wolves, and Miss Granville didn't have the decency to say he was a gentleman from the word stop.

"I hear that purity is extinct in Hollywood and that there's hardly a good girl left in the town," I said.

"I never go up to any of them and ask them whether they're good or bad," said Bonny, sharply, "but it reminds me of the girl who was asked if she was good or bad and said, 'Either way, I wouldn't want it known.' "

"BUT, LISTEN," I PERSISTED, "what about this Hollywood looseness?"

"Lend-looseness?" said lovely Miss G. "I think you've got a pretty nice bunch of girls in Hollywood, and I've never seen anything that's shocked me. I used to worry about what people thought, but no more. There's only one person that counts—to thine own self be true—that's it, brother. If I like a certain wolf, I'll go out with him. A guy with that slightly roving eye is much more interesting than the other. A guy likes to be called a wolf just like a girl likes to be told she has sex appeal."

I naturally had to ask her who's her favorite wolf.

MISS GRANVILLE, WHO'S what they call "well-stacked," this being a vulgarism for well-built, replied, "I don't have any big, fat romance. I haven't met anybody yet. But I'll tell you this: Rather than go out with some of those goody-goody non-wolves, I'd rather sit home with a good book."

And thus ended perhaps the first honest interview ever given on wolves.

I SAW A SPEECHLESS, voiceless Carole Landis at 21. Afflicted with laryngitis, she's been out of her Broadway show, and she had to pull me close to her to tell me things, which made me plenty sore, naturally. She took from her purse a beautiful compact which her boy friend, Horace Schmidlapp, admired. "What a pretty case!" he said. "Something I gave you?" . . . Tommy Dorsey (400 Club's maestro) thinks one of these fine mornings they'll be Patton Hitler in the face with a spade. . . . Kate Smith and Milton Berle were coming down from New London, Conn., by train, and some service men wanted Miltie to step into the club car and entertain. He hesitated, and Miss Smith finally told him. "Milton, the boys are waiting for you." Berle replied, "Well, I'm not going to go till we get to Stamford. I always did do very well in that town."

7th Army Yanks Across Rhine

PATTON'S BIG GUNS ROLL ON Heavy guns on mobile carriages roll across a pontoon bridge over the Rhine, in the American Third Army's drive toward Frankfurt. Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's forces now are fighting in that large industrial city and other units have sped on eastward.

Troops of the American Seventh Army, rifles ready, scramble up a steep bank on the enemy-held east side of the Rhine after crossing the river in assault boats Monday, to join the Allied march into the heart of Germany. While a heavy river fog aided the general operation, the official caption accompanying this photo said a smokescreen, intended to hide these assault troops, was dissipated by wind and they came under Nazi shellfire.

'MIGHTY MIDGET' DEAD Maj. James V. Johnston, 28-year-old 5-foot 5-inch fighter from Portland, Ore., whose exploits on the Western Front became a legend, has been killed in action. Johnston, who always went into battle with a small arsenal, is shown with some of his equipment at an Eighty-fourth Infantry Division base. He was killed by a direct hit of an 88 in one of the division's last battles before reaching the Rhine.

NAZI WAR PRISONERS IN COUNTY Above, German prisoners of war, who are living in barracks on the Hellwig Brothers farm near Chesterfield, St. Louis County, and working as laborers, march into the mess hall for supper. The letters P W are stamped prominently on the rejected GI clothing they wear. At right, an armed guard at the entrance to the barracks area, which is surrounded by a seven-foot barbed-wire fence. Photos were made during a tour yesterday by reporters, conducted by Army officials as a result of reports that the prisoners were not well guarded.

St. Louisans Serving in Overseas Hospital

Two St. Louisans serving in the 217th Army General Hospital in France check the injuries of a newly admitted patient. Maj. Frances E. BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEWSPAPERMAN PLAYING A TYPEWRITER

WHEN Lowell Mellett, former aide to FDR, was asked why the President is a great executive, Mellett said: "Because he is never too busy to work!" . . . Add towns you should be glad you didn't name: Rising Sun, Indiana. . . John B. Kennedy, the news commentator, says now that the Nazi prisoners of war over here got their own newspaper—the next thing they'll probably demand will be pensions! . . . Dimmed-out Broadway looks like it is in mourning for the tragedy of war. . . . The electrobatics were always the Main Stem's star attractions. The lights inspired songs, stories and poems. . . . Our pet observation about the Broadway mazda-piece was uttered by G. K. Chesterton. Viewing the blazing spectacle he exclaimed: "How beautiful! How beautiful it would be for someone who could not read!"

YOU PROBABLY HEARD of the Boston blueblood who saw "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and then told friends that it was a story "about American peasants"! . . . What we'd appreciate learning from Justice Byrnes is what he has done about the defiant Washington, D. C., stay-up-late joint which (at last reports) remains open all night? . . . That Toledo theater manager who kept open all night, too, what about him? Can't he be drafted to help pick up the wounded and dead? . . . Insiders at Washington will tell you that the curfew has relieved the climbing absenteeism. One Midwest war plant town actually suffered from 50 per cent absenteeism! . . . . It is now less than 20 per cent. . . . In many other war plants, they add, it is practically non-existent. . . . Before his death, A. Woollcott assigned his royalties from the sales of his book, "As You Were," to care for seamen throughout the world. To date United Seamen's Service received $10,778 from the late author's royalties. . . . Lt. Roland Hill (he was Archbishop Spellman's sec'y in Algiers) is the first GI to run for public office. Has a good chance to be elected Mayor of Minneapolis, pals report. He went overseas as a private, and Gen. Eisenhower promoted him with bars made from Spam cans because no Lt. bars were available in the field. . . . Add new eyefuls in town: Yvonne Carlo of Vancouver, B. C. Her family name is Middleton. She will soon be seen in the film: "Salome, Where She Danced."

GEN. PATTON, so the story goes, was holding a meeting with his staff officers when the telephone rang. . . . Thinking it was a friend, the voice at the other end of the wire inquired, "Hello, is that you—you old sonovabee?" Undisturbed, Patton looked around the room and then spoke into the phone. "Which sonovabee do you want?" he inquired.

THE BACKSTAGE SQUABBLE between X. Cugat and Lena Horne has the management jittery. . . . Reynal and Hitchcock will award $3500 for the outstanding script on contemporary American life for its children's book dep't. Fiction or non-fiction, but must be designed for children between 8 and 18. . . . Bob Hawks wins today's prize for Corniest Pun of the Week: "The Nazis didn't know enough to come in out of the Rhine!" . . . Jessyca Russell gets a used orchid for her one-line comment on the new play: "The Deep Mrs. Sykes." She capsuled: "For Heaven's Sykes!" . . . The story in the gazettes that new motor cars may be nameless (after VE Day) appeared here on July 10th, 1944. Mr. Krug is quoted as saying "it is very possible." . . . Sammy Schulman, the International News photog who did such brilliant lens-clicking overseas, says that during one invasion he was running across a beach dragging his heavy equipment. He joined an invading platoon of infantrymen as they made their way across a golf course. . . . The course had been subjected to constant heavy shelling and was dotted with huge craters. On the edge of one tremendous hole rested a neat little sign, unharmed, reading: "Please replace divots."

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE F-227: Philip, aged 13, is the second oldest of our five children. His brother George is slightly more than a year older.

"Boy, did I have a good time at our church camp!" Philip exclaimed when he and George returned from a week there. "And I met a girl I liked. She is about George's age and George thinks she is pretty. I didn't introduce him to her, though," he added with a laugh, "for she might have gone with him.

"We went to the campfire meeting together on Friday night and on a long hike Saturday. She also sat by me in church on Sunday. She is a fine girl. She goes to church and Sunday school every Sunday, and is an officer in the Young People's Society. Besides, she is cheer leader in high school and makes good grades. And she can ride a horse well, too. But I forgot to ask her if she is a Democrat or a Republican," he added, as an afterthought.

PHILIP WALKED around the room telling me of her various other virtues and then when his mother came in, he repeated his story to her, for a person in love usually wants to talk about his heart's desire.

"Promise me you won't tell George and I'll let you in on a secret," Philip said. We promised. "On our way home from the campfire meeting, she had some lipstick on her handkerchief, so I wiped it on my cheek to fool George. Was he surprised! He thinks she kissed me, but I didn't tell him."

Mrs. Crane and I learned that this girl wore a yellow dress. George also had developed a fondness for a girl at camp who likewise wore a yellow dress. Whether yellow possesses unusual romantic charm when worn by an attractive girl, I cannot say, but I remember that the prettiest dress I ever saw on my wife was a golden yellow. You girls with a scientific type of mind might experiment in this regard.

PLEASE NOTICE, too, that Philip is much impressed by the fact that George thought well of his choice of a girl friend. In fact, he feared George was so favorably impressed that George might try to get a date with her, if Philip gave him a chance. Social acceptance and popularity enhance a girl's charm. "Value" is chiefly a psychological concept, anyway, based on what others desire.

"She said she'd write to me," Philip added. "I'll give her a week, and if she doesn't write, then maybe I'll write to her."

"It's customary for the boy to write first," I told him, "so if you want to correspond with her, then you should take the lead. It is usually embarrassing for a girl to do so."

Please observe how thoroughly Philip is thinking about basic attitudes and habits. At the start he had informed us she belonged to the same church. Apparently, he felt his only major slip-up, was when he forgot to find out whether she was a Democrat or Republican.

It is well to train a child to look for these basic habits and similarities in personality, for the fewer the differences, the less cause for arguments after the wedding day.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

THIS is a good time to learn how to use honey in cooking. It pinch-hits for sugar wonderfully because it adds the desired sweetness and has potent flavor and food value besides calories. One good way to get the honey habit is to begin using it on your breakfast fruit and in hot and cold beverages. Then the next step might be in using it in desserts and in baking. Because honey is composed principally of simple sugar, it has the ability of absorbing more moisture than cane or beet sugar, which is a double sugar. For this reason you can expect cookies to lose crispness if they are not covered. Cake made with honey, however, usually remain moist considerably longer than does one made with ordinary sugar. Honey can also be used in place of corn syrup in making seven-minute icing. The cardamon which we recommend in today's cookies is a traditional flavoring that goes with honey. Women in Bible times used this flavoring with honey.

Honey Cookies.

One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon ground cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon ground cardamon, one-third cup shortening, one-fourth cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup honey, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-half cup chopped nuts.

Sift flour, measure and resift twice with baking powder, salt, cinnamon and cardamon. Cream shortening, add sugar and beat until fluffy. Add egg and honey and beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until fluffy. Fold in dry ingredients and stir until thoroughly blended. Stir in lemon juice and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Press a pecan or walnut into top of each cookie and flatten. Bake at 375 degrees for eight to ten minutes. Remove to cake rack to cool. Yield: About five dozen.

BREAKFAST: Stewed prunes with top milk; scrambled eggs; whole wheat toast; jam.

LUNCHEON: Cream of tomato soup; peanut butter and bacon sandwiches; rhubarb sauce.

DINNER: Savory meat loaf; Dakota potatoes; buttered rutabagas; rolls; honey cookies.

Dakota Potatoes.

Potatoes contain valuable protein, they are an excellent source of vitamin C, they contain potash and are alkaline in reaction. For these reasons it is fortunate that American people have the urge to eat and enjoy potatoes daily. Panfry four slices bacon. Remove bacon. Add four cups sliced raw potatoes and one sliced onion to the bacon drippings and saute for 10 minutes, turning gently with a spatula to distribute the fat. Add twol cups canned tomatoes, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon prepared mustard, one teaspoon sugar and one-fourth teaspoon celery salt and simmer until potatoes are tender and the tomato juice is slightly thickened (about 20 minutes). Break the crisp bacon into small pieces and sprinkle over top of potatoes when ready to serve. Serves four to six.

DINNER.

Six panned oysters, one artichoke—1 teaspoon melted butter. Normal serving preserved or canned fruit, one small cup coffee—no cream or sugar.

Your Stars

By Marion Drew

WHAT TO EXPECT TOMORROW.
Sun in Aries.

General Tendencies—Coughs and sneezes? Well, maybe, but nevertheless there is so much else to think about that these can sink into the background. You may have to delay travel, but another better time for it will come along before the end of the week. As I have said, this is an extremely busy time, and everyone will feel some stirring of energy in some department of the life within a few days—before the first part of April.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

The next few months will stimulate interest in new subjects for you, along lines you may not have explored hitherto. You will not make progress quickly, and may be held down by opposition or old ties, but this will eventually give way and your development proceed. The best part of the year is directly at hand, with another fair and active portion due around the end of November.

Tomorrow's Watchword — This making of people over into new individualities, different from their natural state, does not seem to work out so well. It forms today's subject, although compressing it into one word is beyond my powers. "Reform" is not right, because that means to make better, and often the people are all right as they are. It is just that we all have a desire to create an ideal condition, when maybe the very manifestation before us is right for us, if we would only accept it as such.

Eggplant and Tomato Casserole

One small eggplant, one small onion, chopped; three tomatoes, stewed; one stalk celery; butter or margarine, one-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Peel the eggplant and cube. Cut up the celery into small pieces. Brown the onion lightly in butter. Mix eggplant, onion and celery and place in a casserole. Pour stewed tomatoes over all. Cover with fine bread crumbs. Dot with butter. Bake at 375 degrees three-fourths of an hour.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL TO TREAT ONLY CHRONIC PATIENTS

Because of a decrease in the number of cases of communicable diseases during the last 10 years, Isolation Hospital will be converted into an institution for the treatment of chronic patients, it was announced yesterday by Hospital Commissioner Francis M. Grogan.

Isolation Hospital has about 200 beds but the average number of patients has dropped to about 40. These will be transferred to the contagious disease wards of City and Homer G. Phillips Hospitals. About 125 chronic invalids have been transferred to Isolation Hospital from City Infirmary.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE a 15-year-old sister who has been running around with girls and boys I don't care much for. They are 18 and 19 and I have heard a lot about them going to taverns and coming home at all hours. I've been trying to get my sister to stop going with them and get in with a crowd her own age and have little parties at the house and ask them over now and then. I do want her to have a good time, such as she should be having at her age, but not the kind she is having at present. The reason I worry about her so much is because she is living with my husband and me for the present. I have suggested that she make other friends and fall in with my plans for her, but she hasn't as yet said she would or would not. What do you think about this? MRS. C. L.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

You are undoubtedly right in feeling that a girl your sister's age does not belong in taverns, should not be out till all hours, and that she should be most careful of the company she keeps. Don't make the mistake of talking too much against these friends she has made, however. See, instead, if you can't get her in with a nice crowd at church or in your own neighborhood, or among the daughters of your friends. Plan a surprise party for her on her birthday or some other occasion, if that is too far off, and show her what a nice, lively party can be without drinking and past midnight hours. Encourage her to bring her classmates home from school to study with her or listen to the radio. If you are tactful, keep her confidence, show her that you want to help her have good times, she will fall in with your way of thinking I feel sure. I have some party suggestions which will help you if you will send me a stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for my General Party Games and Easter party leaflets.

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE THE kindest mother in the world and I am sure she would do anything to make me happy. Yet she insists I continue with my education and become a business man, when I am not in the least interested in becoming a white collar worker. I want to be a mechanic. I never did like school and get out of it as much as I can. I hate it so I can't believe it's doing me any good. What do you think I should do? H. R.

Whether business man or mechanic the more education the better if you want to hope for advancement. Better to stick to school until you graduate as your mother wants you to do.

IN ANSWER TO "Jewell R.": I am told the nearest cub pack to your home is at the Corpus Christi Church, 8449 Jennings road.

IN ANSWER TO: "Mrs. R. W.": Wood floors with fine finishes should never be scrubbed with water or unnecessarily brought in contact with it. Sweeping or dry mopping should be all that is necessary for routine cleaning. Before putting on a fresh coat of wax remove the old, apply a fresh coat of solid or liquid wax, whichever you prefer. If you use the solid, apply evenly and allow to dry about 20 minutes before polishing. The liquid wax spreads better with a sponge rather than a cloth, and is self-polishing.

IN ANSWER TO "La Verne": You forgot the required stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send it in and I'll mail you the "General Party Games," and "Shall We Marry in Wartime?" leaflets.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE extra demands made upon our daily lives brings me many new questions. Today, for example: "Would you be willing to say that it is consistent with the times to answer every kind of invitation on one's visiting cards?"

I would not go quite so far as to say every invitation, but I certainly see no reasonable objection to any plan which eliminates needless formalities. With this thought it does seem sensible to encourage the acceptance of visiting cards for answering all invitations except those which are formally engraved and sent by less than intimate friends. When some degree of formality is intended, the words "Mrs. John Jones accepts with pleasure" (and the time and date) are written underneath the engraved name on the card.

Of course, even before the war it was permissible to write on one's visiting card in answer to an informal invitation from a personal friend.

DEAR MRS. POST: I knew a soldier and liked him a lot, for several months before he went overseas. I had a letter from his mother thanking me and my family for being so nice to John and saying that he had talked a lot about me to them. Last week I had a telegram from one of their relatives telling me that John was killed in action. May I after a little while write and ask his mother to send me something to remember John by?

Answer: Judging by these things you have told me, I think you might ask her in the same letter you send with your sympathy, if there is some little thing of John's which she would be willing to let you have as a keepsake.

DEAR MRS. POST: Recently a friend's husband was reported as being missing. As she was many miles distant at the time, I wanted to wire her some flowers but there were other friends who persuaded me not to, because they said it would be wrong as long as there was still hope of his being alive. I'd like your opinion.

Answer: While there is no occasion when flowers are really unsuitable, I do think that perhaps under the circumstances they might suggest your belief in his being permanently lost. I think a letter telling her that she is in your thoughts because of the news about her husband and that you hope that he will be found soon is best under the circumstances. It is also thoughtful to remind her how very many of those missing have been found. Then send her flowers some other time. Perhaps on a day that will be one of rejoicing. Should it turn out the other way, then flowers of sympathy would be suitable, of course.

Times When The Student Should Rest

By Angelo Patri

THE art class was in session when the visitors came. Everybody was deep in his work except one boy. He sat sideways in his place, his head bent, absolutely still. A cloak of stillness seemed to be drawn about him.

By and by one of the visitors whispered to the teacher, "That boy is doing nothing." The teacher nodded and smiled, but made no other sign of having heard. That idle boy troubled the conscientious visitor. When he got back to the office he said, "In the art classes I saw one boy who was doing absolutely nothing. He didn't move, he didn't once look up. Do you let children sit and do nothing if they feel that way?"

"YES, WE WOULD do just that. In the art class, you say? Yes, that is likely to happen."

"But we would think that that child was wasting his time."

"We don't feel that way about it at all. If he were making trouble for others we would certainly think so and get him working elsewhere fast, but so long as he sits quietly there we let him alone. You see, we know the children. I'm sure I know the boy you mean. We'll ask for his portfolio and see how idle he has been this term."

The portfolio came, bursting with work, lovely things that made the visitor's eyes widen in astonishment. "He works like this? Then, for pity's sake, why wasn't he doing it?"

BECAUSE. No child, whether in art class, but particularly there, or in any other class, can work to his maximum power every day, time in and time out. There are days, there are periods, when he lies fallow. Those periods are as important to his growth as the expressive ones. His mind and body must have quiet times if he is to grow healthily and do his best work.

Some children have marked resting periods. Others have only brief intervals of rest spaced wide apart. We found that the highly skilled, intensive workers whether in art class, science laboratory, math room, needed these idle times more than the pupils who did the usual standard work. The champion is the odd one. If you happen on one, let him alone pretty much of the time. His own power drives him too hard as it is and if you add yours he will be thrown off the rails. The clock registers high noon once a day only.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THE late Heywood Broun got his first job on a New York City newspaper in the sports department where he turned in some of the greatest baseball and football stories that have ever been written. Then he was transferred to the drama department.

The day of the transfer, he acted as official scorer at a Giant-Cub ball game in the afternoon, and covered Ethel Barrymore's opening in an Edna Ferber play called "Our Mrs. McChesney" in the evening.

At the ball game, he scored a close play as an error for the visiting shortstop, thereby depriving the Giant batter of a base hit in the records. That evening, he roasted Miss Barrymore's performance to a fare-thee-well.

The next day, his managing editor received two indignant communications. One, from the Giant batsmen, read, "What's the big idea of sending a lousy dramatic critic up here to be official scorer?" The other, signed by Miss Barrymore, concluded, "How dare you assign a cheap baseball reporter to cover the opening of a Barrymore play?"

An Actor Whose Hobby Paid Off

With War Contracts in the Millions, Denny Casts a Dubious Eye at Acting

By Clarissa Start

BACK in 1932 during his periods of liberty between labors in Hollywood, Reginald Denny took up the hobby of making model airplanes and equipment, and eventully opened a small shop for other model enthusiasts called the Hobby Shop. From these beginnings and this interest in plane equipment on a small scale, Denny has become an important contributor to the war effort, contractor on a large scale of an invention which he is compelled by military censorship to term vaguely "a piece of equipment." He has also, as you may have noticed, practically removed himself from the theatrical world, with the exception of his current "vacation" appearance in "Blithe Spirit," at the American Theater this week, in order to play his part in the greatest show on earth.

REGINALD DENNY, WHO IS TAKING A VACATION FROM HIS WAR PLANT TO ACT IN "BLITHE SPIRIT" WHICH IS AT THE AMERICAN THIS WEEK.

"It's all pretty much of a military secret, so I can't tell you much about it," he said when we probed into this latest phase of his activities, "although the name of our firm, the Radio Plane Co., may give you a clew. We've developed a piece of training equipment, that has improved gunnery training immeasurably, and is, I'm happy to say, saving many lives.

"I did the early pioneering and developing from 1932 to 1939, when I got my first Government experimental contract. I'd first gotten interested in it because of my hobby, model airplanes. Then I met a young fellow, a radio ham, who'd done a lot of short-wave experimenting. I got the idea for this 'piece of equipment' and worked with him on it. I came near abandoning the whole thing several times, we struck so many snags. There were millions of bugs to be ironed out, and by 1939 I'd put $85,000 of my own money into it. But finally it was accepted and standardized by the Government, and since then we've been constantly improving on it."

The $85,000 has subsequently turned out to be a profitable investment since estimates of the company's contracts for this year alone run around 24 million dollars, a sum not sawdust by any standards. Meanwhile the Hobby Shop, first site of the invention, is still in existence, and Denny almost bubbles with enthusiasm over his youthful clientele there.

"We have 11 and 12 year olds who have a thorough knowledge of such things as aerodynamics and theory of flight," he said. "Why, when I was a pilot in the last war I didn't have half the knowledge these kids have now."

An active combatant in World War I, Denny had also had a fairly lengthy acting career in back of him by that time, a fact which he reveals with no reticence whatsoever. In fact, his whole attitude about his age is one of refreshing candor and he is fond of referring to himself as "the old gentleman."

He made his first stage appearance as a child actor, age 7—but this, he points out quickly, was in 1891, and by 1912, when he toured America in "The Quaker Girl," he was quite a leading man. An amusing note about this is that he recently recalled their mutual appearance to the leading lady of that show, who shall mercifully be nameless, and she chirped gaily, "Oh, heavens, yes, that must have been 15 years ago."

At the outbreak of war in 1914, Denny returned to England to enlist in the Army, first in the infantry, then in the R. F. C., which was later renamed the R. A. F. A gunner and observer during his early flying experience, he was still taking his pilot's course when the armistice was signed. After the war he returned to New York and in 1919 moved from the theater into pictures.

"I really got into pictures because of an actors' strike," he said. "Of course I'd made films before—in 1914—but in those days actors were rather ashamed of being in pictures so we didn't mention it."

Another unusual thing about Denny is that he is one of the few people we know who pronounce theater "theatuh" and yet maintain that motion picture acting is a higher art form.

"You deal with so many more elements in pictures, light, sound, etc.," he pointed out. "Moreover it's much harder to capture a given mood because of the way you work. You go to work at 8 in the morning and if you've been playing the part of a murderer you must be exactly as mussed up, as bloody as you were the evening before. If your tie was awry, it must be awry at exactly the same angle, and you must be in exactly the same mood. I think that takes more acting ability than the theater."

Best known of Denny's recent films was the "Bulldog Drummond" series. Because his life has centered almost entirely around films with the exception of a brief and unfortunate play with Bobby Clark in New York several years ago, Denny's home is California. The Radio-Plane company is located in Van Nuys, and Denny and his wife live nearby in North Hollywood where they have a small house and he indulges in his other hobby, gardening. He has a family that ranges from age 29 to seven, a daughter by his first marriage, and also a boy, 13, a girl, 11, and a girl, seven, by his second marriage.

A combination family man and man of science, Denny is frankly dubious about a return to full time acting.

"To tell the truth, theatrical life seems trivial in contrast to the exciting work I've been doing," he said, "and such things as temperament simply seem laughable.

"Also on this tour I'm beginning to realize how domesticated I've become. In San Francisco when we were doing four shows a day I'd crawl to my hotel at dinner time, order a chicken sandwich, a cup of coffee, and a vitamin pill, and collapse in bed until time for the next show. These one night stands have been even tougher on the old gentleman. I'm afraid I'll be just a memory when this is all over."

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

A PARTICULARLY baffling and unpleasant question has been asked by a correspondent in connection with the following hand:

North, dealer.

NORTH
♥ A74
♦ 92
♣ KQJ108852

WEST: ♠ 9854, ♥ QJ8, ♦ AKJ, ♣ A73
EAST: ♠ 632, ♥ K10953, ♦ Q73, ♣ 94

SOUTH
♠ AKQJ107
♥ 82
♦ 108654

According to my correspondent, the bidding proceeded (quite remarkably) as follows:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 spades(!)	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds(!)	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 spades	Double
5 clubs	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	?

This is one of the many cases in which I am asked to accept all the bids which went before and to decide what a certain player should do at a given point! Need I say that a sound decision under such absurd conditions is impossible? South's jump spade response, based solely on a solid spade suit, and without a single card in partner's suit, was horrible beyond words—I might even say incomparably horrible except that the next bid, three diamonds, compared very favorably with it! Having made such an utterly unjustified jump, the very least South could do was stick to the one suit and not give the impression of a powerful two-suiter!

Thus, before coming to the decision requested, let me repeat that South's previous bidding was beyond the pale, and the only reason that I think he might as well have bid five spades was that he could foresee that his hand would not produce a single trick at a club contract if, as seemed so likely, his partner was void of spades.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Monday.

I HAVE a letter from a woman who is the mother of seven children and who speaks with feeling of the difficulties of another family in her neighborhood where there are nine children. She points to one of the weaknesses of our communities which I think we should bear in mind, not only now, but from now on as our community problems increase.

She says: "It is just this, Mrs. Roosevelt—no war risk insurance, no Red Cross, no charitable organization can do what neighbors in a democracy should do and are doing. We are not doing it for lack of an intelligent plan of home co-operation, practical co-operation, at least for the duration.

"I WANT a plan something like this: Over the radio I heard the other day that in Franklin, O., the Police Department offered to help the wives and families of men overseas. That is, do those little things and give them the protection that a husband and father, or older son, would do for the home. These wives of men in service can register at the Police Department, and are also asked to place a light in the window at night so the guardian of law and order can keep an eye on those homes needing help in emergencies. Many of them are unable to obtain a telephone. That is what I suggested to the Parent-Teacher Association, in a sense—to register at one's school PTA, or church, in an over-all plan of home co-operation. The police will be glad to help this mother with two invalid sons and six young children, no telephone, and her husband out at night with his taxi.

"But the Police Department can't help her eliminate some of the drudgery of her work. The neighbors can, and I am sure there are things she can do for her neighbors, too, with the little free time she will then have.

"A WEALTH of exchange could be made on a plan like this. And if successful, even employment for many women in neighborhood co-operatives, with latest equipment bought and used co-operatively, making use of homemakers' higher skills. For instance, there are homemakers who love to iron and dislike to do a washing, while others are very good at the latter. Some enjoy cooking and baking, and still others don't at all mind washing dishes, etc. The effect on the children of the community will be very good, and even large families will come in for a share of the good things of life for which they now fight."

This plan is like going back to rock bottom as far as our background is concerned, because nothing could be more connected with our past than helping each other in our home communities.

Now is the time to go over trees, paint and gypsy moth clusters and prune your grapevines.

By Emily Post

THE extra demands made upon our daily lives brings me many new questions. Today, for example: "Would you be willing to say that it is consistent with the times to answer every kind of invitation on one's visiting cards?"

I would not go quite so far as to say every invitation, but I certainly see no reasonable objection to any plan which eliminates needless formalities. With this thought it does seem sensible to encourage the acceptance of visiting cards for answering all invitations except those which are formally engraved and sent by less than intimate friends. When some degree of formality is intended, the words "Mrs. John Jones accepts with pleasure" (and the time and date) are written underneath the engraved name on the card.

Of course, even before the war it was permissible to write on one's visiting card in answer to an informal invitation from a personal friend.

DEAR MRS. POST: I knew a soldier and liked him a lot, for several months before he went overseas. I had a letter from his mother thanking me and my family for being so nice to John and saying that he had talked a lot about me to them. Last week I had a telegram from one of their relatives telling me that John was killed in action. May I after a little while write and ask his mother to send me something to remember John by?

Answer: Judging by these things you have told me, I think you might ask her in the same letter you send with your sympathy, if there is some little thing of John's which she would be willing to let you have as a keepsake.

DEAR MRS. POST: Recently a friend's husband was reported as being missing. As she was many miles distant at the time, I wanted to wire her some flowers but there were other friends who persuaded me not to, because they said it would be wrong as long as there was still hope of his being alive. I'd like your opinion.

Answer: While there is no occasion when flowers are really unsuitable, I do think that perhaps under the circumstances they might suggest your belief in his being permanently lost. I think a letter telling her that she is in your thoughts because of the news about her husband and that you hope that he will be found soon is best under the circumstances. It is also thoughtful to remind her how very many of those missing have been found. Then send her flowers some other time. Perhaps on a day that will be one of rejoicing. Should it turn out the other way, then flowers of sympathy would be suitable, of course.
